[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Wheeling, W. Va., July 12.—William Moyer Owen Dawson will be the next governor of West Virginia. He was tonight unanimously nominated by the Republican convention. Charles F. Teter made a gallant fight, but a majority of the delegates were for his opponent.

The convention was the largest and liveliest in the history of the party in the state. It was a constant fight from noon until 9 o'clock tonight. Fortunately for the party, Republicans in West Virginia can have honest differences, battle all day, and then turn in for the winner. Any sore spots resulting from the gubernatorial contest will soon pass away, and the only Republican state of the south can be depended upon for a majority ranging from 22,000 to 30,000.

The flower of the Republican party in the state was represented in the convention. One pleasing feature was the large number of active young men in the gathering. There were brainy men on both sides and they were well schooled in parliamentary procedure. Occasionally the galleries would get a little wild, but the delegates were at all times sensible.

Senator S. B. Elkins, as chairman of the convention, wielded the gavel in absolute fairness. If anything, he was too fair, and by his liberality prolonged the convention much longer than was necessary. But it cannot be said that he was either for Dawson or Teter.

Teter Is for the Nominee.

The Dawson men demonstrated early in the day that they had the votes, and they sought to force the nomination of their man before there was any danger of their delegates experiencing a change of heart. W. P. Hubbard of Wheeling and George C. Sturgis of Morgantown were the floor leaders for the Dawson forces. They are master hands in the game of politics. Pitted against them were such able generals as Judge Reese Blizzard, Charles Caldwell and Z. T. Vinson. Some ugly things were said during the heat of debate, but they will soon be forgotten.

When the roll had been completed, and before the vote was announced, Congressman Dayton, who presented the name of Teter, moved to make the nomination unanimous. With a hurrah the motion was put through, and nearly all of the delegates joined in the magnificent ovation to the next governor. The vote stood 453 for Dawson and 342 for Teter. As a happy ending to the warfare of the day Teter came on the stage and made a speech, in which he announced that he was for the nominee.

Tomorrow the convention will take up the platform and nominate the balance of the state ticket. It is evident that there is no slate. They do not do things on the machine plan down here. It is a free-for-all tussle, with victory crowning the efforts of the stronger man. Surprises can be looked for at any minute. Points of order come thick and fast and oratory flows like water.

Although the head of the ticket has been nominated, the platform has not been built. Under the peculiar order of business adopted by the convention, the party declarations come as the last work of the body. Dawson is a strong tax revisionist, and tonight, when his idea on the subject was subjected to the committee on resolutions, there was a decided division of opinion, and the makers of the platform deferred final action until this morning.

First Test of Strength.

The first fight of the convention came on the question of dispensing with a committee on credentials and accepting the temporary roll of the convention as made up by the state committee, as the permanent roster of delegates. The proposition came from the Dawson side and was bitterly fought by the Teter forces. The roll call resulted in a victory for Dawson by a vote of 409 to 331. It was a fair test of strength and was notice that Dawson would win the nomination for governor, as it requires but 398 votes to nominate.

A prettier spot for the holding of a state convention could not have been found than the beautiful Wheeling park. The casino is a light and airy building with a seating capacity of a couple of thousand. This morning every seat was taken and another 1,000 persons were standing. The first outbreak came when Senator S. B. Elkins walked upon the stage. He was loudly cheered.

State Chairman W. E. Glasscock, in calling the convention together, took occasion to touch upon the nomination of Senator H. G. Davis by the Democrats for vice president. "I want to say to you" said Chairman Glasscock, "that it does not make any difference to us if the whole Davis family is nominated, we will carry West Virginia this fall by a majority of 30,000."

Greeting From Senator Scott.

Before presenting Senator Elkins as the temporary chairman of the convention, Chairman Glasscock read the following telegram from Senator N. B. Scott, dated at Brookenridge, Col., July 11:

My hearty greetings and best wishes to West Virginia Republicans in convention assembled. With Roosevelt, Fairbanks and a national platform which promises well for the best interests of the country and our state, victory is ours. The tax question and all other important matters, state or national will be settled by the Republican party, and a ticket nominated

Candidates Placed in Nomination.

With the calling of the first county on the roll, Barbour, Teter's own county, Congressman Alston G. Dayton took the platform to nominate the man who has always been one of his most active and trusted lieutenants in the Second district. Dayton's speech was marked by the absence of all bitterness. He talked Republicanism, pure and simple, in his introduction, paid a glowing tribute to the honor of the mountaineers and the freedom for which they stand and fight. He did express regret that during the afternoon talk has been indulged in looking to the throwing out of the convention of Republicans, but predicted that November would find a united party, winning victory for Roosevelt and for every man on the ticket from governor down to constable.

He told of the stock from which his candidate comes, of Teter's father, who in Barbour county in 1861, where the first confederate flag was raised and where it was declared that no Lincoln abolitionist dare show his head, was one of five men who met behind barricaded doors with rifles in their hands, prepared to die if need be, and formed the Republican party of the county, which has now grown till it casts over 500 votes. Briefly recounting his virtues and abilities and calling him the Tom Reed of West Virginia, he named Charles F. Teter.

When Boone was called the county gave way to Kanawha and ex-Gov. Atkinson took the stage to nominate Dawson. Atkinson got out of a sick bed to do this and was barely able to speak. This was something of a handicap, but it did not affect the Dawson enthusiasm, which broke out time and time again in terrific roars. The principal point about Atkinson's speech was the strenuous denial he gave to the charge that Dawson was antagonistic to corporations and capital. In forceful words he declared that Dawson, as secretary of state during his administration, had worked with him continually to bring capital to the state, thereby making it the great commonwealth that it is; that Dawson as much as any man had brought about the de-

SUCCESSFUL GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE AFTER A HARD FOUGHT BATTLE

WILLIAM M. O. DAWSON.

NOMINATION WON BY CROOKEDNESS

Still Bryan Says He Will Support Candidacy of Parker for Presidency.

HAS NOT GIVEN UP HIS FIGHT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Lincoln, Neb., July 12.—W. J. Bryan today gave out the following statement:

I shall vote for Parker and Davis, the nominees of the Democratic national convention, and shall do so for the following reasons:

First—Because the Democratic ticket stands for opposition to imperialism, while the Republican ticket stands for an imperialistic policy. On this question, which was the paramount issue in 1900, and which must remain an important issue so long as an attempt is made to hold colonies under the American flag—on this issue the convention was unanimous, the platform emphatic, and I have no doubt that the candidate will carry out the platform.

Second—Mr. Roosevelt is injecting the race issue into American politics, and this issue, if it becomes national, will make it impossible to consider economic questions that demand solution. The election of the Democratic ticket will put a quietus upon this attempt and permit the race question to work itself out without the bitterness which Mr. Roosevelt's conduct has engendered.

Third—Mr. Roosevelt stands for the spirit of war. His friends present him as a man of blood and iron. He believes in strenuousness and inculcates a love for warlike things. The Democratic ticket stands for peace, for reason and for arbitration, rather than for force, conquest and bluster.

Fourth—The Democratic platform declares in favor of the reduction of the standing army, and as this plank was unanimously adopted there is reason to believe that a Democratic success on this subject would bring some advantage to the people.

Victory Will Mean Little.

For these four reasons I feel justified in supporting the ticket, but I shall not misrepresent the situation or appeal for votes for the ticket upon false grounds. A Democratic victory will mean very little if any progress on economic questions so long as the party is under the control of the Wall street element. On the money question Mr. Parker is as thoroughly committed to the side of the financiers as Mr. Roosevelt. If he does not go as far as the Republicans would in retiring silver dollars, in establishing branch banks, in enlarging the powers of the national banks and in the substitution of an asset currency for the present currency it would be because he was restrained by the Democrats in the house and senate. Nothing good can be expected of him on the money question.

On the trust question the Democratic platform is very much better than the

SCHWAB MADE UP FRIENDS' LOSSES

Pays $1,910,000 to Those Who Suffered by Shipbuilding Company's Collapse.

TAKES STEAMER FOR EUROPE

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, July 12.

"No man can say he ever lost a dollar through me, either in the Bethlehem Steel matter or any other," said Charles M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel Corporation, on the eve of his departure for Europe today.

Mr. Schwab sailed on the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II. Before going he spent half an hour at his office, 71 Broadway, hurrying from there to catch the steamer.

Mr. Schwab's statement referred to the story published today that he had paid $1,910,000 to personal friends who had participated with him in the purchase of the Bethlehem steel property. These friends, like Mr. Schwab, when the Bethlehem property was taken over by the United States Shipbuilding Company, received for the Bethlehem stock Shipbuilding securities and Bethlehem bonds. When the Shipbuilding company collapsed a heavy loss stared them in the face.

"Yes, I did turn over to my friends, as the story says, $1,910,000 in cash," said Mr. Schwab. He declined to go into details regarding the matter. He did, however, clear up some other reports which have been lately published regarding his operations. "It is true," said Mr. Schwab, "that I have sold all my stock in the American Steel Foundries Company to Charles Miller, president of the company, and George Leighton, its vice president." This statement of Mr. Schwab confirms the announcement made at Franklin, Pa., yesterday by Mr. Miller that a deal of this sort had gone through.

One more thing Mr. Schwab said before he left his office. It was that he is going abroad in regard to the armor plate business. "While in Europe I will look into processes used there for the manufacture of armor plate," said Mr. Schwab. "I expect to drop in upon the Krupps."

It is thought in Wall street that if Mr. Schwab decides that the new armor plate process, now being used by the Krupps, is better than anything now in use here, he will try to secure the exclusive right for the process in this country, so that it may be used in the Bethlehem steel works, which is the backbone of the reorganized United States Shipbuilding Company. Mr. Schwab is very heavily interested in the reorganization. ALEXANDER DODDS.

GUFFEY BUYS A SITE FOR AN OIL DEPOT

NEW ORLEANS, July 12.—(Special.)—The J. M. Guffey Petroleum Company of Pittsburgh and Beaumont, Tex., today closed a deal for the purchase of a depot site on the Mississippi river at Gretna, costing $65,000. This means the erection of a large oil transfer station and tankage grounds on the river front. Barges will bring the product from the Texas fields and transfer it here. It means the permanent location of the Guffey tanks for the distribution in this territory. The property was owned by Hugh R. Heasley of New York. The only condition attached when Mr. Heasly bought the property from E. T. George, was that it should not be used for cotton seed oil purposes.

Five Patriots Meet Death.

CHICAGO, July 12.—(Special.)—There were five deaths from lockjaw today, as the result of Fourth of July celebrations, all the victims being boys or young men who were injured by cannon firecrackers, toy pistols or gas pipe cannon accidents. The five deaths swell Chicago's total of fatalities to seven and brings the grand total for the country at large up to 63.

ALLEGED NOTORIOUS WOMEN SUSPECTED OF INSANITY

Sophie Lyons and "Sweet Marie" Wilson Landed in an Asylum After a Long Career of Reputed Crime.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 12.—After having filed with the clerk of the supreme court a document which they declare is a history of crimes committed against them, Sophie Lyons, alias a dozen different names, and reputed to be one of the most noted women criminals in the United States, and "Sweet Marie" Wilson, also rich in aliases, an alleged notorious blackmailer, thief and shoplifter, were arrested here on Sunday.

It appears both women have become insane. They are now held at Washington asylum pending examination of their mental condition. They attracted attention at the Hotel Anderson here by keeping their door locked. Three detectives broke in the door and, although the women frenically defended themselves with a knife and water pitcher, made them captives.

The document filed with the clerk of the supreme court relates to their various crimes. They have suits pending against the cities of Toledo and Fremont, O., and in these suits the missing records play an important part. They claim $250,000 damages.

Sophie Lyons is nearly 60 years old. She was the wife of "Ed" Lyons, an alleged burglar, and with him she worked in Europe. The couple were usually successful.

"Sweet Marie" Wilson's game, it is claimed, was to gain the acquaintance of some wealthy jeweler and mulct him by threatening exposure and suit, claiming he held all her jewelry. She was arrested in San Francisco, New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, Fremont and Toledo on charges of blackmail.

RUSSIAN MINES TRAP JAPANESE

Mukden Sends Report of 30,000 Casualties Near Port Arthur.

IT IS NOT CONFIRMED

Anxiety in St. Petersburg for News of Askold Reported Damaged in Fight.

SICKNESS ATTACKS THE ARMY

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, July 13.—The Morning Post's Shanghai correspondent says that the Japanese casualties by land mines at Port Arthur Sunday night are reported to have been 28,000, but none of the many other special war dispatches mention a Japanese disaster at Port Arthur.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12.—A dispatch from a Russian correspondent at Mukden, dated July 12, says:

"According to intelligence received here the Japanese last night attacked positions near Port Arthur and were repulsed with enormous losses. Not less than 30,000 it is said, being killed or wounded by our mines."

The Japanese advance to Ta-Tche-Kiao is shrouded in mystery. No telegrams have been received by the general staff or the admiralty since Lieut.-Gen. Sakharoff's dispatch of July 10, with the exception of a report from Gen. Kuropatkin covering the events detailed by Gen. Sakharoff, which was delayed because it had followed the emperor on his journey to the Volga region.

There is some anxiety here regarding a report that the cruiser Askold has been damaged and it is noticed that she was not mentioned in the list of warships constituting the squadron on its last appearance.

Kuropatkin in Bad Plight.

Col. Novitsky of the general staff, in an interview today said:

"The result of the loss of Kai-Chou will probably be the evacuation of Niuchwang.

"Gen. Kuropatkin's position is more difficult than that which confronted Lord Roberts in South Africa. It is as if Lord Roberts received his supplies by rail via Constantinople, Cairo and Central Africa. It will be a long time before Gen. Kuropatkin will have enough supplies and men to assume the offensive. In the meanwhile he will have to fight rear guard actions, perhaps giving up important positions, like Niuchwang, which are of vastly more consequence than Kai-Chou."

An official statement of the number of sick and wounded in the Manchurian army shows a great increase in sickness after a few days rain, and also shows a large proportion of seriously wounded officers compared with men. The figures are according to the listed strength of the army. Before the rains, to June 26, the total was officers 71 and men 39 per thousand, of whom wounded officers numbered 19 and men 6 per thousand. Suffering from contagious diseases, 2 per thousand, of whom one half were suffering from dysentery and one-tenth from typhus. There was one case of plague and not a single case of smallpox.

Increase Is Serious.

After the rains, July 9, the figures were, wounded officers, 20 per thousand, and the men 9 per thousand. Contagious cases had risen to 9 per thousand, affecting in equal proportions dysentery and typhus, and introducing scurvy and smallpox, of which there were three cases, and bringing up the plague to 7 cases. [Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Chicago, July 12.—Business interests aggregating $100,000,000 were practically tied up today at the Chicago union stock yards when the first step was taken in a strike which throws 35,000 persons out of employment. The strikers include 4,000 at Omaha, 12,000 at Kansas City, 5,000 at St. Joseph, 5,000 at East St. Louis, 1,800 at St. Louis, 700 at St. Paul and 20,000 in Chicago.

When the noon whistle blew today 20,000 men in the local yards responded to the order of President Michael Donnelly of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters, and a strike which promises to be the bitterest in the history of the country was on.

St. Joseph, Mo., Kansas City, East St. Louis, Sioux City, St. Paul and the other important meat centers of the west, fell into line and brought palsy in those cities.

One hundred and fifty commission houses are out of jobs. They have telegraphed their patrons far and wide to cease shipments. Only 3,000 cattle arrived today, where 20,000 would have come under ordinary circumstances. Many animals may have to be shipped back to the farms to save them.

Supply on Hand Small.

Inquiries at the various packing houses reveal that the supply of dressed meats on hand is sufficient to last only a few days. After that will come famine and the fancy prices that go with it. Already high prices to the consumers promise to reach a point that is prohibitive save to the few who look upon luxuries as necessities.

Both sides have prepared for a finish by the packers and ignored.

"The supply of meat in our coolers," said L. P. Swift, "is sufficient to forestall any immediate danger of a meat famine. The public need not fear a scarcity of meat or an advance in prices until the present supply is exhausted.

Regarding a possible meat famine, President Donnelly, of the union said:

"Until a settlement of the strike is attained, 95 per cent of the meat supply of Chicago and other cities will be cut off. The supply of fresh meat now here will

HUMP DEFEATED, FILTRATION WON

Very Close Vote on Proposition to Raze Grant's Hill.

SOUTH SIDE BEAT IT

The Pure Water Project Goes Through by a Margin of 3,000 Ballots.

JOHN LARKIN ALLEGES FRAUD

For filtration.....	14,740
Against filtration.....	11,735
Majority for filtration.....	3,005
Against the hump cut	13,160
For the hump cut.....	12,477
Majority against hump cut..	683

The hump bond issue was defeated by the property owners throughout the city, the opposition not being confined to any particular section, and the opposition of the South Side, because no provision had been made to give it a pure water supply, almost caused the defeat of the filtration bond issue. So small is the majority for filtration that there are signs that the issue of $5,000,000 bonds for this particular purpose, will be bitterly contested, possibly in the courts.

Controller Larkin yesterday afternoon stated that he had received information that fraud had been practiced in the First, Second and Fourth wards. He said he had been informed that residents of Allegheny had been brought across the river to vote for the bond issue in those wards, which went strong for both bond issues, the First ward giving a majority of 305, only 12 votes being cast against them. The Second and Fourth wards each gave a majority of 400.

Disappointed the Administration.

The first ten wards all gave heavy majorities for the bonds, but the vote in these wards was not heavy enough in favor of the removal of the hump to overcome the vote against it from other parts of the city as the administration expected.

The fourteen wards of the South Side, with the exception of the two smallest, went heavily against the bond issues. The exceptions were the Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth wards, the first giving a majority of 32 for the hump and 12 for filtration; the latter gave 21 for the hump and 44 for filtration. In the other wards the majorities were up in the hundreds, the Thirty-second casting the largest majority against both propositions. Its majority against the hump was over 500.

The Sixth ward, where Mayor Hays resides, gave the largest majority of any in the city for the bond issue. In the Sixth the hump removal was approved by a majority of 611 and filtration by a majority of 635.

Carried the Nineteenth.

Director Bigelow carried his ward, the Nineteenth, for the bond issues, by a majority of something over 100, although the director was expecting a much larger majority. The Twentieth ward was carried by the administration by a small majority, but the administration lost the Twenty-first and Thirty-seventh wards, which adjoin each other.

The majority against the bond issues in the Thirty-seventh was unusually heavy because it was in the same predicament as the South Side. This ward was formerly the borough of Brushton and gets its water supply from a private company. The administration refused to make provision in the filtration bond ordinance for the Thirty-seventh ward and the South Side, and both sections resented this treatment at the polls.

Director Harry Moore lost his ward, the Twenty-seventh, by a majority against the bond issues of nearly 600.

President J. Smiley Wightman's prediction that the Twenty-second ward would vote against the hump proposition and in favor of filtration was verified by the returns from that ward, and the statement of Orphan Councilman Thomas O'Brien of the Sixteenth that his ward would "lick the bond issues to death" was also demonstrated by the returns from that ward.

The Fifteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth wards also went against the hump measure, although the filtration bond issue was carried. The same was true of the Twenty-third ward, which gave a majority of 240 against the hump and a majority of 128 for filtration. The Twenty-fourth ward gave a majority against the hump, but a majority of only seven votes for filtration. In the Eleventh ward filtration won and the hump lost. In the Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth wards both bond issues won.

"The property owners were against us," said Mayor Hays last night.

The mayor and Murray A. Verner were at the fire-alarm office in the public safety building early to get the returns. The firemen and policemen were instructed to send the returns in as soon as possible, and the mayor got them at first hand.

"The property owners did not want to be taxed for the removal of the hump, and they almost gave the filtration a licking," added the mayor. "The South Side voted against both propositions because they could not see any benefit in them for themselves. I can hardly understand the heavy vote in the remainder of the city against filtration, except that the people who voted against it were opposed to the administration."

Reports were in circulation last night that the administration would not issue the $4,000,000 of bonds for filtration in view of the small majority the proposition received at the polls. This the mayor denied. He said that the administration would go ahead and issue the bonds, regardless of the size of the majority. He had heard of no political opposition to the bond issues, and repeated that the property owners seemed to be opposed to the bond issues and also to the administration.

The result of the election was somewhat of a blow to Director Bigelow.

"I am greatly surprised," said he last night. "I supposed that both bond issues would receive a great many more votes than they did. I do not know the cause. We will go ahead and pass an ordinance in councils to let the contract for the filtration plant as soon as possible, so as to begin work on it this fall. The hump proposition will be submitted again to the people in less than a year."

LARKIN WILL PAY FOR TWO DAYS IF DEMANDED

Retents and Election Officers Can Get Double Wages by Making Affidavits.

Controller Larkin was besieged by a number of persons yesterday who objected to his determination not to give the election boards two days' pay for the work of counting the vote yesterday. The kicking was so strong from some quarters that he finally made the following declaration:

"The statement was published that the controller would allow but one day's pay for election boards. This statement was made under advice and in accordance with law and under the impression that the vote in each precinct could be counted and certified before midnight.

"It has been represented to him that in many cases that cannot be done. In view of this, where the judge in any election district will make an affidavit that it required a longer time than that to do the work, the controller will pay for two days, and has no other choice."

FIRST OF IMPORTANCE IS CARRYING NEW YORK

Senator Fairbanks, Gov. Odell and Chairman Cortelyou Hold a Conference.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 12.—Following the conference between President Roosevelt, National Chairman Cortelyou and Senator Fairbanks, Republican candidate for vice president, at Oyster Bay, another important conference was held in this city this afternoon, to which Gov. Odell, Senator Fairbanks and Chairman Cortelyou were the parties. None of those concerned would say a word about it.

That matters of great moment to the party were discussed, however, is evident. Senator Fairbanks and Chairman Cortelyou brought with them the president's ideas on the subject of the campaign, and these were unfolded to the governor. It is understood the president impressed his callers with the necessity of carrying New York state, and he is very anxious that no mistake be made.

Senator Fairbanks and the governor each gave audience to newspaper men. Senator Fairbanks would say nothing on the subject of his talks with the president. He said he would leave the city this evening for his home in Indianapolis, where he probably will remain until he is notified of his nomination, on August 3. He declined to outline his plans for the campaign.

Gov. Odell was equally non-committal.

PITTSBURGH UNION ASKED TO CO-OPERATE

Local 300 Invited to Aid in Amalgamation of Two Glass-workers' Organizations.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CLEVELAND, July 12.—The larger part of today's session of the convention of the United Glass Workers of America was given up to the introduction of resolutions. A telegram was sent by the United Glass Workers of America to local assembly No. 300 of Pittsburgh, inviting officials and members of that body to co-operate in the proposed amalgamation of the United Glass Workers and the Glass Workers' unions.

Committees from the two conventions today discussed the proposition to amalgamate. It is said the outlook is favorable for a merger of the two organizations.

The executive board of the United Glass Workers was in session tonight. The wage scale will be arranged by a committee with full power to act, and that committee will meet with the executive board after the adjournment of the regular convention of the United association.

PITTSBURGH POET'S ASHES SCATTERED ON A RIVER

MILWAUKEE, WIS., July 12.—(Special.)—D. B. Starkey and two other members of the Milwaukee Press club, returned tonight after performing a unique ceremony in memory of Tom Watson, an actor known as "Tom Blink," under which name he wrote verse for Pittsburg and Milwaukee papers. "Tom Blink" died in Milwaukee during the spring, but the last ceremonies in his memory were postponed until Monday, when his former associates in Milwaukee went to Detroit and there, with the "form prescribed by "Tom Blink" before his death, scattered the ashes of the dead poet on the water of the Detroit river.

that will sweep West Virginia by 50,000 majority.

In presenting Senator Elkins as the temporary chairman, Mr. Glasscock said: "I now present the political redeemer of the Republican party of West Virginia, the Hon. S. B. Elkins." This announcement was followed by another ovation for the man who is the idol of the West Virginia Republicans.

"It was not my intention to attend this convention," said Senator Elkins, "but I received a command from the state chairman to appear. The events happening at St. Louis last Sunday morning emphasized my determination to be present. To my astonishment Sunday morning I found that the enemy had encamped in my back yard. After the pleasant duty of receiving the Democratic nominee for vice president, I had to go to my home and recast my speech. It took me 24 hours to prepare it and I trust that the convention will bear with me for 20 minutes while I read it."

Folly Will Bring Defeat.

Chairman Elkins said that the only thing which can prevent Republican victory this fall will be Republican folly in this convention today. He devoted a little attention to tax reform, but did not put himself on record either for against the proposition. Chairman Elkins then said:

"The Democrats at St. Louis had this state in mind and there is every indication that they intend to make West Virginia one of the battle grounds. We will have one of the greatest fights we ever had to hold the state. I would be sorry to see us lose because of any folly in our work here today. We must stand together. We must do the wise thing in this convention, if we hope to win. All the Democrats from Hill to Bryan are in line for the Democratic ticket. They want to come into West Virginia, secure control of the executive and legislative departments and then displace the two Republican United States senators. My place under this program is to go to a Democrat. I confess that I do not want to see this program carried out and will do everything in my power to prevent it.

"So far as the vice presidential nomination is concerned, I want to say that the Democrats made a mistake in placing Senator Davis in second place. West Virginians will not be gulled into placing a man in second place who is fitted for the first."

Mr. Elkins in discussing the money question, made the point that inasmuch as the St. Louis platform is silent on the subject, the declaration in favor of free silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, made at Kansas City four years ago, still stands.

Two Hours' Bitter Debate.

When Chairman Elkins had finished W. P. Hubbard of Wheeling, one of the Dawson leaders, succeeded in having the state committee make a report on the temporary roll. Z. T. Vinson of Cabell made a motion to appoint committees on credentials, resolutions, permanent organization and rules. Mr. Hubbard started a fight which terminated in showing that Dawson was in safe control of the convention. He offered to amend by striking out the credentials committee and proposing that the temporary roll be made the permanent roll of the convention.

The debate lasted two hours and was bitter. Vinson said that the proposition meant that the convention was to start with a revolution. Congressman Dayton said it would establish a precedent. It will come up, said he, in the future to destroy the fundamental principles of the party. It was pointed out that if the candidate could control the state committee he would be in a position to say who should sit in a convention.

Charles Caldwell, a Teter man from Parkersburg, charged that the Dawson people wanted to cover foul fraud. "Let no man," said he, "get the nomination who does not come with clean hands and a pure heart."

George C. Sturgis, a Dawson leader from Morgantown, said that the gentleman from Parkersburg was occupying a seat which is tainted with fraud. Caldwell denied this assertion.

Gov. A. B. White explained the purpose of the Hubbard proposition. He said that the purpose was to expedite business and also to prevent a reopening of old sores. He reminded the convention that the Republican party in the state is in a crisis. The governor said that the state committee had spent four or five days in careful consideration of the contests and its work should be accepted as final.

Many Ready Orators.

West Virginia is filled with orators and dozens of them talked on the Hubbard proposition. Judging from the number of points of order raised, West Virginia Republicans must be students of parliamentary law. It is no exaggeration to say that over 50 points were raised during the day. Roll call was finally reached and the amendment was adopted by a vote of 469 to 331. With the announcement of the result came a great Dawson demonstration. His friends were satisfied that he had the fight won, if a speedy nomination could be secured, in order to expedite matters. Chairman Elkins was continued as permanent presiding officer of the convention.

At 4 o'clock the convention took a recess until 5 o'clock in order to give the committees on resolutions and rules an opportunity to formulate reports.

The rules committee put in a report making the adoption of a platform the last order. The convention adopted the rule without realizing what it meant.

From 5:30 until 8 o'clock the Teter forces tried to delay the business of the convention in the hope of preventing a nomination tonight. To do this a resolution was put in alleging that the delegates from Kanawha were holding their seats by reason of fraud, ballot box stuffing, bribery, forgery and a complete suppression of the will of the Republican voters of the county." It was proposed that the delegates not be allowed to take part in the proceedings until their eligibility was settled. A bitter debate followed in which numerous harsh things were said.

Finally a roll call on a motion to adjourn was secured and the Dawson forces won by a vote of 469½ to 325½. Chairman Elkins then ruled that the Kanawha county resolution was out of order, as the whole question of contests had been disposed of at the afternoon session. During the debate the galleries started to hiss Teter orators. Chairman Elkins declared that no hissing would be allowed. "We are Republicans, not enemies. I will not stand for gag rule and if I cannot keep order I will leave the chair."

There were cries of "We'll stand by you, 'Uncle Steve,'" and after the sergeant-at-arms had thrown out several mountaineers, peace was restored. It was while Vinson was making sparks fly in speaking in favor of the tart resolution referring to the Kanawha county delegation, that an old man from Jefferson county arose and suggested that if all Vinson was alleging was true he ought to go before some grand jury and make information. Vinson misunderstood the remark and understood it to be in reference to his former position as a Democrat. He promptly admitted that up to 1896 he had been Democratic but that he had left Democracy and joined the Republican party because it represented the brightest and fairest hope of the republic, while Democracy stood for all that was antagonistic.

Charles Caldwell of Parkersburg at once bobbed up to call attention to his former Democracy and indulge in a rhapsody about the great army of redeemed who cluster around the great white throne of Republicanism. The caustic Hubbard came back with an expression that while all of the redeemed were welcome, the fact should not be lost sight of that there was a large army of the elect and then he injected the sting. He said that some of those who had been talking of fraud in Kanawha county had apparently forgotten that great fraud, before which all others paled, the theft of the office for governor from Gen. Goff, and that while those who were aiming to talk against time might not have been among those who stoned Stephen, it was likely they were among those who held the clothes of those who did the stoning.

It was 8 o'clock when Senator Elkins finally put Hubbard's motion, that the convention proceed to the nomination of candidates for governor, and the feeble "noes" in answer to the terrific roar of "ayes" marked the end of the second chapter of the long drawn out row.

ELKINS SAYS ROOSEVELT CANNOT BE DEFEATED

Son-in-Law of Candidate Davis Addresses West Virginia Convention.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WHEELING, W. VA., July 12.—When Senator Stephen B. Elkins took the platform as temporary chairman of the Republican state convention this afternoon he was given a splendid ovation. Senator Elkins addressed the convention as follows:

The Republican party of West Virginia is the party of progress. It stands ready to move forward, to build up, not pull down, to formulate wise policies for the people and thereby add to the glory and honor of the state. It has the courage to meet fairly and solve the new and difficult problems constantly arising in the onward march of civilization and good government. It never shrinks nor turns aside from great issues.

The Republican party of this state, having built up the wealth of the people with a view to lessening the burdens of taxation, providing better methods of assessment and collection and a better system of revenue laws and justice to all interests, declared boldly for tax reform. The necessity for action was pressing and the Republican party came to the front and met the issue like men. As a result, there at once sprang up sharp differences and discussion throughout the state and in the Republican press as to the methods of taxation that should be adopted. This discussion has been spirited and at times has provoked too much feeling, but barring this feeling the discussion has been wholesome and profitable. There has always been and always will be honest differences of opinion among men, especially on questions affecting taxation. All cannot see and think alike. Discussion helps to bring out the truth, and this discussion in our party will help to give more intelligently the tax question.

The Democratic party in its desire to capture the state has nominated for vice president one of our most distinguished citizens and the foremost Democrat in the state, and in fact in almost everything else, the Democrats made a fortunate selection. Senator Davis, to whom I am so nearly related, and for whom I cherish feelings of the highest regard, admiration and affection, is a man of affairs and an experienced statesman, having served his state creditably in the senate for 12 years. With these qualifications and his fitness he should have been named for the first place instead of a man without a record and without business or political experience. West Virginia cannot be beguiled into giving up protection and sound money to make Judge Parker president, even if by so doing they make Senator Davis vice president. I have no doubt as to Republican success in November. There is no good reason why any Republican should change his vote on state and national issues, and many and weighty reasons why it should not. Under a wise and contented and happy, busy and prosperous. What more could be had, or what more could we ask?

President Roosevelt has given the people a wise and pure administration that commends itself to all of our people. From 1897 to 1901, under McKinley's and Roosevelt's administrations aided by a Republican congress, great things have been accomplished and great progress made. Taxation and the public debt as well as the interest thereon have been reduced. Protection has been maintained, home markets kept for our own people, the gold standard adopted, sound money assured, wages increased and employment has been ready for all who want work. The islands we have acquired as part of the spoils of Spanish war, and the Panama canal on the other side of the globe, are doing well, the people are better governed, more prosperous and contented than ever before. The Filipinas are being developed and delayed for a hundred years is under way. Business is good, mortgages are being paid off and prosperity blesses the land.

The president has so commended himself to the people that he has been renominated without opposition, and with him for vice president, Charles Warren Fairbanks, one of our purest, most experienced and conservative statesmen. Under the leadership of these men with the flag of protection floating high over it, the Republican party can safely go forward. President Roosevelt already stands as one of the remarkable figures in our history. It is his nature and makeup to work, move and go forward. He constantly makes healthy and intelligent progress in the affairs of the republic at home and abroad. His career is unique and wonderful. He walks hand in hand with the people at times seemingly compels it to do his bidding. The Democrats cannot defeat such a man.

GREATER PITTSBURGH SHAKES HANDS WITH WEST VIRGINIA

Delegation of Merchants and Manufacturers Greeted in Metropolis of Panhandle—Moundsville Turns Out to Welcome Trade Excursionists.

By JOHN P. COWAN.
(Staff Correspondent.)
[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Wheeling, W. Va., July 12.—Greater Pittsburgh today stretched across the West Virginia border and shook hands with Wheeling. Then the two sister cities embraced each other, and tonight are unctuously patting the municipal back. Pittsburgh praised the hospitality and enterprise of Wheeling, and Wheeling lauded the industrial prowess of Pittsburgh. It is a great commercial love feast, the Merchants and Manufacturers' association of Pittsburgh, and the board of trade of Wheeling doing the honors. The occasion marks the first trade extension excursion of the Pittsburgh association and is the greatest boom expedition that ever invaded the metropolis of the panhandle.

In the beautiful glades of Wheeling park, Pittsburghers tonight dined "al fresco" on chicken and waffles served in the delicious style of "Ole Virginny." In showing their good will and hospitable feeling for their guests, the people of Wheeling fall back on their southern pride of ancestry, and perhaps it was for this reason that Allister's Military band struck up the stirring strains of "Dixie" when it headed the delegation on its march from the Baltimore & Ohio station to the McClure house where the visitors from the Smoky city were formally welcomed by Mayor A. T. Sweeny. Pretty girls—and they seem innumerable in Wheeling—lined the sidewalks and waved a coy greeting to the marchers. After a short tramp through the town the Pittsburgh party, escorted by the entertainment committee on the board of trade, boarded special trolley cars to the park where the refreshments were served by the Swope Guild of St. Matthew's Protestant Episcopal church. And here Wheeling made another parade of its pretty girls.

Welcome to "Suburbanites."

More than 1,000 persons were crowded around the McClure house when the Pittsburghers filed into the hotel corridor. B. W. Paterson, on behalf of the board of trade, climbed up on the stairway and addressed the guests, saying that the citizens of Wheeling were delighted to meet such an able body of representatives from the big suburb "up the Ohio." Mayor Sweeney then took the dizzy rostrum and complained that the keys to the city had been lost; that they had been stolen by the delegates to the Republican state convention, but that the Pittsburgh merchants would find all the doors wide open. E. J. Lloyd, president of the Pittsburgh association, responded with a few sidelong verbal glances at Wheeling's mayor.

The greeting received in this city was a surprise, and the splendid time the visitors are enjoying indicates that the plans had been well laid. The following are members of the board of trade entertainment committee, who have been sitting up nights in order that the strangers shall not feel lonesome:

John Waterhouse, chairman; Joseph Speidel, Charles H. Ahrens, W. B. McMechen, Dr. G. A. Aschman, James P. Maxwell, George W. Lutz, B. W. Peterson, Dr. Robert J. Reed, Clarke Hamilton, Jr., Charles S. Brilles, George Wise, Henry Baer, Hulliher Quarrier, A. S. List, Charles H. Copp, W. E. Stone, George E. Stifel, George M. Snook, W. F. Shaffer, W. P. Holskell, John J. Coniff, J. B. Sommerville, the Hon. A. T. Sweeney.

The special train on the Baltimore & Ohio, which left Pittsburgh shortly before 11 o'clock this morning, made the run without incident. Before the train reached the Washington county line General Manager James W. Wardrop of the association assembled the more congenial spirits among the passengers in the news-paper men's car, and an impromptu social session was held, enlivened with oratory and song. Souvenirs were passed in profusion, and W. S. Grassie of the Kelly & Jones Co., presented each reporter with an ingenious little Scotch bagpipe.

Glad Hand at Moundsville.

At Washington the special stopped to take water and the trade boomers scattered souvenirs among the people who had gathered at the station. At Moundsville 50 carriages and trags from the whole countryside were lined up at the station. The local Eagles' band struck up a popular tune and the people of the thriving little city extended the glad hand to the West Virginian's can. The visitors were taken for a drive through the town, past the state penitentiary and the famous Indian mound. When it was time to leave, the visitors lined up on the platform and sang this, to the old tune of "Shall We Gather at the River?"

"Yes, we'll meet again in Pittsburgh,
The hustling, bustling Pittsburgh;
Yes, we'll meet again in Pittsburgh,
Moundsville, Moundsville: Rah! Rah! Boom."

There were no formalities, but the good feeling of the people was manifested by their cordial greeting, and when the trade excursions are run to Pittsburgh next fall a good turnout is expected from the Wetzel county seat. Members of the Moundsville board of trade who were the hosts were: W. C. Stewart, Thomas Scott, Friend Cox, Charles Brown, W. D. Alexander, G. S. McFadden, Capt. Fred Kemple, C. A. Weaver, J. E. Roberts, B. B. Hyatt.

The special train, which is in charge of Arthur Tiddy, Baltimore & Ohio city passenger agent at Pittsburgh, will leave here at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning and will stop at New Martinsville, Sistersville, Williamstown, Marietta, Parkersburg, Cairo, Pennsboro, Salem, Clarksburg, Weston and Buckhannon.

A movement is on foot to have the association members pay their respects to Senator Henry G. Davis, Democratic candidate for vice president, at his home at Elkins, on Thursday.

cases of horse and cattle plague were also reported.

TOKIO, July 12.—The Japanese Takushan army is moving northwest from Siu Yen. It fought a series of small battles with the Russians on July 9 and 10. The army is divided into two columns which advanced against the Russians. When the first column approached Chi-Kuan-Chieng the Russians retreated southwest through the valley, but at 5 o'clock in the evening they took up a position on the heights west of Chou-Chia-Chang. The Russians were dislodged at dusk when the second Japanese column advanced along the road toward Tong-Chig, repulsing small bodies of the enemy en route. They attacked the advance line of the Russians near Siu Tang Lakiu. The Russians were reinforced and compelled the Japanese to withdraw.

At dawn on July 10 both columns attacked the Russians from the heights west of Sin-Chin-Ku. The Japanese pursued them and again attacked a strong position held by the Russians at Siutshikou. After a desperate fight the Japanese occupied the position. After occupying Kai-Chou, Gen. Oku's army on Sunday moved northward. The Russians have strong defenses at Tapingshan, Niusenlhen, Nangmatai, Chinghishan and camps near Kuo Chiapao. Gen. Oku will probably attack these positions as soon as his troops are rested.

In the fights of July 8 and 9, the Japanese lost about 150 men. The Russian losses are believed to have been heavier than the Japanese.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 12.—John Berry, the insane sexton who Saturday morning attempted the life of Father John F. Barry, tonight attempted suicide in the county jail. He secured a penknife and cut his throat with it. Berry was confined in his cell with another prisoner, who was awakened by the old man calling for him to get a doctor. Medical attendance was secured and Berry will live. Father Barry is still in a critical condition.

DAWSON'S VOTE IN DETAIL

velopment of the state and that it was out of all reason to charge that he was ready to tear down what he had taken such great pride in building up. The demonstration at the conclusion of Atkinson's speech was wild.

Phil Walters, a colored orator from Kanawha, seconded Dawson's nomination. Judge Sturgiss of Morgantown followed with another Dawson speech, recounting some of the political work and victories achieved by Dawson. Charles Dillon, ex-prosecuting attorney of Fayette county, said it made no difference which candidate was chosen, the result would be the same—glorious Republican victory in November. He grew eloquent over West Virginia's progress and then seconded Dawson. When Ohio county was reached Hubbard's tall form again shot up and in his bull of Boston voice he said:

"Mr. Chairman, let us quit talking and vote for Dawson."

A colored delegate from somewhere talked out the patience of the convention with a seconding speech for Teter and then the redoubtable Charlie Caldwell of Parkersburg, recalling his former Democratic affiliations, expressed the happiness he now felt in being a Republican and vehemently declared that no matter what happened he would still be a Republican in November. Then he declared that he had had enough of public office. That in the eight years he had been secretary of state he had made $60,000 and that it was time he stepped aside for some one else. Great disorder prevailed during Caldwell's impassioned deliverance.

It was 9:05 when calling of the roll commenced. It was 40 minutes later when the end was reached and a total of 453 for Dawson and 342 for Teter was shown. The calling of the roll marked the climax of the day's disorder. It required the hardest work on the part of the floor workers to hold down partisan enthusiasm so that a vote could be recorded. When Wyoming's vote was at last recorded pandemonium broke loose and the air was filled with tossed hats, fans and newspapers. Congressman Dayton, mounting a chair, shouted out:

"Barbour county is always loyal, always bows to the majority, and I now withdraw the name of Charlie Teter and move to make the nomination of Dawson unanimous and by acclamation."

Every delegate sprung to his feet with the exception of those from Marion and Wood, who sat sullenly in their seats directly in front of the stage. Senator Elkins named Mr. Hubbard, Congressman Dayton and Judge Reese Blizzard as a committee to escort Dawson to the hall, and while they were away matters cooled down very appreciably.

Dawson was prepared for the notification. Ten minutes later, when he made his appearance, and the band played, "Hail to the Chief," he had the manuscript of his speech of acceptance in his inside pocket and he read it carefully and deliberately. Gaunt and grizzled, without any show of emotion, he said that it would be his constant endeavor to administer the duties of the high office to which he expected to be elected, with malice toward none and justice to all and to promote the general welfare of the commonwealth and preserve the liberties of the people. There was but one law and that was for the high as well as the humble. In this great republic no man was so high as to be above the law and none so low as to be below the beneficent protection of the law. Protection and not vexation was the law's object, and his administration of it would aim to be as gentle as God's dew from heaven. There were great problems to solve, but whether it took the form of a better school law, better highways or a more just system of taxation in the state there should be no room for passion, prejudice or hate. The citizen owes the government support and the government owes the citizen protection.

There was nothing in Dawson's speech of acceptance that can give comfort or aid to the Democracy, nor was there anything of that kind in the few remarks that Charlie Teter made immediately after Dawson had concluded. The reception he got was a warm one. His loyal phalanx of supporters mounted chairs to yell the louder when he appeared, and the Dawson men, led by W. P. Hubbard, gave him three times three in voices of thunder.

Teter put on a brave front, though he plainly showed the disappointment of defeat. He did not mention Dawson's name once. Briefly epitomized, his remarks were to the effect that he had always been a Republican and could never be anything else; that he would ever fight for the party's principles, and what more, he asked, can any man do.

Dawson has been nominated, however. In advance of the adoption of the platform. The resolutions committee has been called to meet again at 9:30 tomorrow morning. When it met during the recess this afternoon Senator Elkins met with it, and so, too, did Congressman Dayton. William P. Hubbard, Wheeling's big lawyer, one of the most active members of Gov. White's tax reform commission, lost no time in presenting to the committee a plank in accordance with the recommendation of the commission fixing a direct tax on gas, coal and oil products of the state and its transportation lines. The committee halted right there. Earnest discussion followed. No agreement could be reached.

Finally urgent calls from the convention, which on reassembling had got into a big snarl over the proposition made to depose the Kanawha county delegation, for the return of Chairman Senator Elkins became so imperative that the senator felt called upon to heed them. But he would not return to the convention hall without the committee, and so further discussion was for the time called off. Late tonight earnest efforts are being made to frame a platform that in the matter of tax reform shall be conservative enough to please all sides.

It remains to be seen whether the committee can do this in the hour and a half it will be in session tomorrow morning before the reassembling of the convention. When Mr. Hubbard was asked at midnight what the general tenor of the platform would be he replied: "The Lord only knows."

SUPT. CREAMER WAS RE-ELECTED

Met With Little Opposition at Directors' Meeting of the South Side Hospital.

DR. BARCHFELD QUITS STAFF

F. A. Creamer was re-elected superintendent of the South Side hospital last night with little opposition at the annual meeting of the board of directors. John L. Lewis was elected president of the board by acclamation after Dr. A. J. Barchfeld had withdrawn as a candidate and had also resigned as member of the hospital staff.

The five new directors elected last week, John Gray, John Henry Sorg, W. E. Sankey, J. H. Vitchestain and Rev. William Surdival, took their seats on the board after the old board, with Dr. A. J. Barchfeld as president, had formally turned the affairs over to the new board. Dr. J. P. Kerr, Dr. W. H. Weber, W. A. Larimer, J. J. McElheran and Dr. C. H. Hertzog were the retiring members.

W. E. Sankey was chosen temporary chairman and Dr. A. J. Barchfeld and John L. Lewis were placed in nomination for the presidency of the new board. After Dr. Barchfeld's withdrawal and John L. Lewis' election the latter made a speech in which he thanked the board for conferring on him the honor, for the seventh time, and pleaded that there be no friction in the new body.

Charles Schwarm was elected vice president, J. H. Vitchestain secretary, and W. E. Sankey treasurer by acclamation.

Committee elections resulted as follows: Executive, John Gray, W. T. Burleigh, John Henry Sorg, Martin Prenter and W. E. Sankey; finance, Charles Schwarm, John Aldred, J. P. Rossman, John Henry Sorg and W. E. Sankey; auditing, the Rev William Surdival, Daniel Beech and J. P. Rossman; trustees of Merton fund, John Gray, Daniel Beech and John Aldred.

Three candidates were in the field for hospital depository, the South Side Trust Company, Iron and Glass Saving Company and the Manufacturers bank. The latter was selected.

When the selection of a superintendent was brought up, a letter was read from the South Side Hospital Ladies' Aid society imploring the board to act conservatively. Applications for the position were then read from James S. Griffith, John R. Nesbitt, J. C. Plowman and F. A. Creamer. A vote was then taken and resulted in a victory for Mr. Creamer. W. E. Sankey declined to vote and J. P. Rossman, J. H. Vitchestain and W. T. Burleigh voted against him.

Previous to the vote a lengthy argument prevailed on the qualifications of the candidates, and the letter from the Ladies' Aid society imploring conservatism seemed to have great weight.

The matter of choosing house officers was deferred until the next meeting, which takes place Tuesday evening, August 9. Drs. J. P. Kerr, C. C. Herriman and W. H. Kirk have resigned from the staff, and these resignations, together with that of Dr. Barchfeld, leaves several vacancies to be filled.

Martin Prenter, who is out of town, was the only absentee last night of the 15 members on the board.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE FOR CHIEF MARSHAL

James J. McKee Enters the Race for Labor Day Honors in the Parade.

The general committee of the Labor day celebration was given a surprise last evening at a meeting in the headquarters of the Union Workingmen's association, 210 Fourth avenue, when James J. McKee, business agent of the plumbers, announced himself a candidate for chief marshal. The committee was under the impression that there would only be two candidates for the position, Henry W. Legleitner, president of the Building Trades council, and Frank Curran, business agent of the painters.

JAMES J. M'KEE.
Candidate for Chief Marshal of Labor Day Parade.

The chief marshal will be elected Sunday afternoon at a special meeting for that purpose. At this meeting the divisions will be organized, and each one will draw for position in the parade. The souvenir committee decided to solicit advertisements for the program themselves, instead of letting it out to an advertising firm as formerly. By this means they expect to realize more money.

REPUBLICANS TO CONFER.

Chairman Ford Calls Meeting of Nominees and Officers of District Associations.

Thomas J. Ford, chairman of the Republican county committee, yesterday called a meeting of Republicans for 2 p. m. Friday, in the headquarters at Grant and Diamond streets. Notices have been sent to the chairmen and secretaries of the Republican associations of the legislative districts and to all the nominees who will make the fight at the fall election. If all those notified attend, 24 men will be present. The executive board of the county committee will also be on hand. Mr. Ford will preside.

The object of the conference is to consider steps preliminary to preparation for the coming political campaign. Recent organizations bodies which proved to be of great value in the last campaign, will be organized. Chairman Ford will announce the names of the members of the county committee's standing committees on rules, contests and vacancies.

About August 25 Mr. Ford will name the other committees, and soon afterwards the campaign will begin in earnest.

Famous Mill to Be Remodeled.

The 119-inch mill at the Homestead steel works of the Carnegie Steel Company, one of the oldest mills at the plant and the mill in which the first armor and nickel plate for the United States navy was rolled, is to be remodeled and entirely changed. When the mill is completed it will be known as the 84-inch mill.

Allegheny lodge, B. P. O. Elks, No. 339 will give the third of its series of popular concerts this evening. The music will be by the American Military band. The band will be stationed on the front balcony of the club house. Extra seats will be provided by Director McKenzie in East park for the public.

PASTOR ACCEPTS CLEVELAND CALL

Rev. W. B. Slutz of Lincoln Avenue M. E. Church Will Leave His Pastorate.

GOOD WORK HE HAS DONE

The Rev. Worthington B. Slutz, pastor of the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, East End, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Franklin Avenue Methodist church at Cleveland, O. The minister made the announcement last evening after counseling several weeks with his church board and after making known his decision to that body. The acceptance is, of course, conditional upon the bishop's decision, and in the event of his being favorable, the change will be made October 1.

The Rev. Mr. Slutz has been pastor of the Lincoln Avenue church at Lincoln avenue and Meadow street for three years and is one of the well and widely known pastors of the city. He visited the Cleveland church a few months ago as guest of the Men's club of the Franklin Avenue church. The proposition to take the pastorship of the church came later.

The Franklin Avenue church is one of the strongest in the North Ohio conference and has a membership of about 800. It is the church of which Dr. T. J. Leak was pastor after leaving the North Avenue church, Allegheny. Dr. Leak has always regarded his ministry there as one of the most pleasant and profitable in his life's work.

The Lincoln avenue pastor is a alumnus of Mt. Union college, Alliance, O. He spent eight years in the St. Louis conference and was located at Wichita, Kan. He was also pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Connersville. Since his coming to the church in this city he has increased a membership from 480 to 640. The church has grown steadily spiritually and financially as well as in numbers, the church debt having been reduced from $16,000 to $10,000, aside from the payment of $3,000 in repairs. The minister will leave soon to make a series of Chautauqua platform lectures, in which work he is also known as a good lecturer ad humorist.

The matter of selecting a successor to Mr. Slutz will be in charge of Dr. T. A. Boyle, presiding elder, and the official board of the Lincoln church.

HALF FARE FOR PUPILS.

Agitation for Lower Rates for Children on the Street Cars.

Agitation for cheaper street car fares for high school pupils was begun last evening in the central board of education. A. G. Strieb of the Thirty-sixth ward suggested that a rate of 10 tickets for 25 cents be secured. It was decided to appoint a committee, of which Mr. Strieb is to be chairman, to confer with the traction officials.

John P. McTighe asked for a committee of five to "investigate" the Athletic committee. The production of an agreement between George W. Gosser, chairman of the athletic committee, and H. B. Cooper and J. H. Sauk, relative to the management of Friendship park, however cleared the atmosphere and satisfied Mr. McTighe, who at once asked to withdraw his motion. This was allowed. The agreement calls for an accounting at the end of the season of all receipts from the park which are to be turned into the board.

The board adjourned to meet in September, the August meeting being omitted.

16-Foot Petition Not Needed.

When a committee of residents of Elliott borough presented a petition signed by 632 names and measuring 16 feet, asking that free delivery be established in the borough, Postmaster George L. Holliday notified the committee that the postoffice department had arranged on Monday to deliver mail by carrier in Elliott, Lyman and Mt. Oliver.

Feel Right
WHEN YOU
Feed Right

You know one always feels "very fit" when the head and nerves swing along peacefully and with that certain sense of power that is unmistakable.

BUT when overwork or anxiety breaks down the soft gray matter in the brain and nerve cells (anxiety will do it quicker than overwork) faster than the food you have been using will replace it, to save yourself from that horror of darkness—nervous prostration—you must change food and take on some sure rebuilder.

THEN

THAT'S THE MISSION OF

made of the selected parts of Wheat and Barley containing the natural Phosphate of Potash which combines with Albumen in the human body and makes the soft gray filling of the brain and nerve centers. Another thing to be considered is that Grape-Nuts food is "processed" in making and the starchy parts converted into a form of sugar exactly as the process of digestion in the body, so Grape-Nuts has really passed the first act of digestion and therefore the food is quickly assimilated in the most perfect manner by babe or athlete.

SEVENTEEN ADDITIONAL ARCHITECTS ELIGIBLE

Technical Schools Committee Passes Favorably on List of Extra Applicants.

Twenty-two additional applications to compete in the contest for architect of the Carnegie technical schools were considered yesterday afternoon by Director Hamerschlag and the technical shools committee. Seventeen were favorably considered, as follows:

Green & Wicks, Buffalo; Stoughton & Staughton, New York; David Knickerbocker Boyd, Philadelphia; Copeland & Dole, New York; Foster, Gade & Graham, New York; Perot, Bissell & Sinkler, Philadelphia; L. C. Spiering, Frederick M. Mann (associated), St. Louis; Butler & Rodman, New York; T. M. Clark, Boston; Dubuoy & Jallade, New York; Welch, Smith & Provot, New York; Putnam & Cox, Boston; C. Emil Muller, Pittsburgh; S. Stanley Simmons, Washington; Robert R. Kendall, Boston; Griffin, Drummond & White, Oak Park, Ill.; F. J. Weber, Chicago; Rieger & Currier, Pittsburgh.

To date 68 applications have been acted upon favorably. The last day for delivering plans and drawings will be Saturday, September 10.

Director Hamerschlag stated yesterday that he expected that the first building would be ready for occupancy on October 1, 1905. There are already 5,000 applications on file for studentships.

Charge Against a Burgess.

Burgess W. D. Barr of Esplen and Policeman William Bailey and William Tyler of the same borough had a hearing before Alderman Groetzinger yesterday on charges of assault and battery made by Martin Bishop and his wife, Mary Bishop, of Second street, Esplen. Bishop claims he was struck in the eye with a mace by Tyler and lost the sight of the eye as a result. Mrs. Bishop claims Burgess Barr and Policeman Bailey kicked her. Alderman Groetzinger reserved his decision in the case.

CIGAR SENSE

The United Cigar Stores system appeals to the smoker by quality, by price and by common sense. Isn't it reasonable? We buy more than 150,000,000 cigars annually from factories growing their own Havana tobacco.

We take the output of these factories, and the usual items of selling expense and production charges are cut out. All the "in-between" expenses are saved. Instead of sinking this money in these unnecessary items our system puts the money directly into the quality of the cigar. That means you get a better cigar for your usual expenditure—better by about 50 per cent. Here's an example:

GEN. BRADDOCK

(DIPLOMATICO SIZE)

$1.00 per box of twenty-five

Filled with thoroughly seasoned, well-blended, clean, long leaf—rolled by hand and wrapped with best Sumatra—burns evenly and makes a smooth, mild smoke. The kind of cigars that usually sell for three for 25 cents.

All qualities of cigars, always in perfect condition.

Important Notice to Men:

Tomorrow and Friday give way to our annual July Sale of such men's belongings as Collars, Cuffs and Negligee Shirts for About Half Regular Prices.

You will please understand, gentlemen, that this sale is not for today. We only give you notice so that you may be prepared for the illustrations of the collars and cuffs that will follow this afternoon and tomorrow morning, as well as descriptions of the negligee shirts. These two days will be opportune for laying in a six months' supply of linen, and such an opportunity will not occur again until the arrival of next January. In connection with this men's sale set for tomorrow and Friday we will also have for sale

Men's $2, $2.50 and $3 Straw Hats for 85c

Again, please understand, these straw hats will not be on sale today. The sale is expressly for tomorrow and Friday.

We have 1,200 of them in many different shapes and represented by such straws as Milan, English Split, Sennet, Mackinaw, and we will also have an extremely light-weight palm hat, which will be shown in all the new negligee shapes.

We submit this 85c straw hat proposition as something very unusual, and as something not likely to occur again for a long while. The man who now has plenty of straw hats for this Summer will be justified in buying for next season.

Men who prefer something finer in fashionable straw hats will be invited to select values that sold for $4.00 and $5.00 for the exceptional reduction of..... $2.50

Conveniences for Travelers.

Many things in the West Basement Housefurnishing Department which will obviate the discomforts of traveling. And after you arrive at your destination it is more than likely you'll miss many of the little conveniences you have become accustomed to at home. So that a little forethought in the matter of making good these deficiencies before starting goes a long way toward making the trip a pleasant one.

We have a special Alcohol Iron we would like you to see—does not burn the alcohol, but the gas it generates—convenient to use anywhere at any time—in two sizes; the small size, $3.50; large size, $4.50.

An Alcohol Stove for traveling purpose often comes in very handy—we have them constructed the same as the iron described above—made to sell for $1.00, but today you may buy them at 60c.

Other Alcohol Stoves at different prices all the way from 15c to $5.50.

Something new in a Curling Iron Heater is on display in the basement. It only costs $1.00.

Tennis Rackets One-Fourth Off.

Today you can come to the department in the East Basement, where athletic goods are sold, and pick out any tennis racket you like and pay for it one-fourth less than the marked price.

SPECIAL—A lot of $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 Tennis Rackets today 95c.

If Your Boy Rides a Wheel.

If your boy rides a wheel and doesn't have one, it's altogether probable that he'd be delighted to get one for "his very own."

We have a number of $30.00 wheels which we will put out for sale today at $18.00, just a trifle more than half the regular price.

Let the Children Go A-Camping.

Put them up a tent in some spot in the vicinity of the house, and they'll enjoy all the sport of camping out. They're not expensive—a 7-foot square Palmetto Tent at $5.00. They were $7.00 earlier in the season.

A Good Sewing Machine $13.75.

If you do much sewing at home you can't do without a machine, and if you only sew at odd times, still you'll find a machine quite handy.

Many people pay $65.00 for a machine, but this is nonsense in view of the fact that we can sell you a machine that does the nicest kind of work. It may not be so elaborate as to case as the $65.00 machines, but it is very presentable, and a machine is measured by the work it turns out and not by the case.

Bird Cages From $1.10 to $5.00.

If you are fond of these feathered pets, then it follows that you like them to have a dainty home. We are showing a large assortment of Bird Cages—some without and some with guards—some with removable drawers.

Just step into the West Basement and see what we can do for you in the way of a habitation for your songster.

Household Helps for Smallest Prices.

Half the labor of housekeeping could be lightened if housekeepers were all aware of the many contrivances and inventions which have been evolved for their use. Somebody is always inventing something new to make housework less burdensome. And such things cost very little.

Extension handle Dusters, regularly 25c each, today 12c.
Bric-a-Brac Dusters, 5c each.
Mop Wringers, to attach to bucket, 75c each.
Sleeve Boards for ironing sleeves, 25c each.
Bone Napkin Rings, 15c each.
Porcelain lined lemon squeezers, 15c each.
Garbage Cans, large sized galvanized ones, $1.00 each.

Beautiful Pastels for Half Prices.

If you are a lover of the beautiful, then come to our Picture Store, fourth floor, West, and see a line of genuine pastels which we are offering for one-half of the regular prices.

The subjects are well selected ones, and the pictures are handsomely framed.

$12.00 Pastels will go at $6.00 each.
$7.00 Pastels will go at $3.50 each.
$6.00 Pastels will go at $3.00 each.
$4.50 Pastels will go at $2.25 each.
$4.00 Pastels will go at $2.00 each.

Hammocks and Lawn Swings.

If you haven't one or both of these articles you don't know how much of summer comfort you are missing. A lawn swing can find place on the smallest lawn, and of course a hammock will fit in anywheres.

Hammocks here in our East Basement at $1.00 for a real good one, and from that up to $6.50 for the finest and most luxurious made.

Lawn Swings—4-seated steel ones at $12.50; 2-seated steel ones at $7.25; 4-seated wooden swings at $6.00.

A New Water Cooler.

It comes to fill a long-felt want in Pittsburg—we alone have it in the greater city.

A nickel-plated water cooler for the dining or living room—a glass jar holds the water; there is a separate ice receptacle. It is made so that it is very easy to clean and is entirely sanitary. They are so pretty in appearance that they add to the room.

In two sizes, at $13.50 and $17.50, respectively.

Japanese Lanterns in Variety.

Nothing adds to the attractiveness of the evening lawn fete or garden party as do the rows of many-colored Japanese lanterns.

In our East Basement we have a large collection of paper lanterns, and you will find the prices much less than you expected to pay.

OFFICIAL—ALLEGHENY.

Department of Public Safety,
City of Allegheny,
July 11, 1904.

PROPOSALS.

For the collection, removal and disposal of garbage, offal and condemned meat.

Sealed and separate proposals will be received at the office of the city comptroller until 10 o'clock a. m., Saturday, July 16, 1904, for the collection, removal and disposal of garbage, offal and condemned meat in and throughout the city of Allegheny in accordance with an ordinance in relation thereto, approved June 5, 1895.

Full specifications, rules and regulations governing the same can be seen at the office of the department of public safety.

Under said ordinance the city of Allegheny is divided into ten districts (10). All garbage, offal and condemned meat to be disposed of by the reduction or other sanitary process, to be approved by the director of the department of public safety.

It will be required of bidders to have a plant, or plants for the proper and sanitary disposal of all garbage, offal and condemned meat.

Said plant, or plants, to be in operation and of sufficient capacity to dispose of all garbage, offal and condemned meat collected.

Said contract to be for a term of two years (2) from May 15, 1904. Each proposal must be accompanied by a bond with two sureties probated before the city comptroller, or the bond of a surety trust company which has complied with the ordinance of councils for furnishing bonds for city contracts. Bonds to be in the sum of one-half the estimated cost of said work.

The mayor and director of the department of public safety reserve the right to reject any and all bids. Proposals will be opened publicly in the office of the mayor at 11 o'clock a. m., Saturday, July 16, 1904.

JAMES G. WYMAN,
Mayor.

THOMAS B. SCANDRETT,
Director Department of Public Safety.

IN the court of common pleas No. 3, No. 605, May term, 1904.

In the matter of the petition of the city of Allegheny for the appointment of viewers to ascertain the costs, damages and assess the benefits for the construction of a public sewer on Lareda and Buente streets, from East street to old city line, Twelfth ward.

Notice is hereby given to all parties in interest that the undersigned viewers, duly appointed by the court in the foregoing matter, have prepared a schedule, showing the damages, costs and expenses ascertained and allowed, and the benefits assessed for the foregoing improvement, and that said viewers will meet and exhibit the same at their office, Municipal hall, Allegheny, on the 27th day of July, A. D., 1904, at 10 o'clock a. m., and will then and thereupon hear all exceptions thereto and evidence thereon.

Wednesday, July 13, 1904.

The Gazette desires to call the attention of those of its readers who contemplate summer trips to the announcements of the many summer resort hotels published on page 12 of this issue.

Excellent reasons are given by the directors of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company for deferring the declaration of dividend on its preferred stock. It is good finance. The principal holder of the stock is the Pittsburgh Coal Company, which declared its regular quarterly dividend, which was more than justified by its earnings, without counting on any return from the river company. Both companies are in good condition, despite aspects of nature temporarily unfavorable for the river company and the industrial depression of the past six months. Both should give a very good account of themselves in the better times coming.

At the north there is again the appearance of a decided engagement between the Russian and Japanese forces. The Japanese have, apparently, enveloped the Russian main positions from Kai-Chou to Mukden and are overlapping both ends of the Russian line. The armies are confronting each other in the center, upon the roads leading to Liao-Yang and Hai-Cheng, and are in close enough touch to begin a general battle at any moment. The fact that foreign attaches and newspaper correspondents have been permitted to go to the front with the Japanese armies indicates an end of the strategical maneuvering and the arrival of the moment to begin fighting. There will be bloody work when the battle is on.

This strike of the workers in the western meat packing houses is a serious thing. Its effect will not be felt immediately, unless it be in a quick advance in prices, but it will soon be painfully evident in a shortage of meat in the eastern markets. Every cloud, however, has a silver lining, and it is just possible this strike may bring some compensations in its train by pointing the way to curbing the exactions of the meat packing combination. It is to be hoped the strike, which has begun in orderly fashion, will not degenerate into warfare as so many strikes do. If that deplorable condition should follow, there are no benefits that can compensate for the harm done. It is not an especially favorable time for strikes, but for that matter eight out of ten strikes at any time are losing ventures.

There is a report from St. Petersburg that 30,000 Japanese were destroyed by Russian mines in the attack upon Port Arthur. We hesitate to accept this report as approximately true, because it appears to be a physical impossibility. The Japanese fight in extended formation, not in masses, and 30,000 troops, spread out at, say, five-man intervals, would cover a very large area. It is quite probable the Japanese have lost heavily by the explosion of mines. Refugees arriving at Chefoo report tremendous explosions on the land side. But it is a heavy tax upon credulity to ask the public to believe that 30,000 men have been blown up at one time. The Japanese have counted upon heavy losses in the taking of Port Arthur. Their expectations may have been exceeded. The subterranean mine is a comparatively new feature in war, but, despite all, this St. Petersburg story is too strong for belief without confirmation.

A proclamation has been issued by W. J. Bryan, declaring that he will support the Democratic ticket and giving lengthy reasons for his course. During the years the Nebraska man has been in the limelight of publicity he has shown surprising egotism on many occasions, but his latest display is the most remarkable. As a private citizen, however notorious, it was hardly necessary for him to explain his individual reasons for supporting a party ticket. At best his reasons are an evasion of the issue for which he fought so long and desperately, for he acknowledges openly that this issue is not of permanent interest now, though he has just fallen arguing that it was of vital moment. Mr. Bryan will hardly command any large personal following, and the unreorganized free silverites will each make up his own mind as to whom he will support, just as Mr. Bryan has done.

Mayor Samuel M. Jones of Toledo is dead after a long struggle against disease. The city of his adoption is in mourning for him and he will not soon be forgotten. In political life Mayor Jones developed some peculiar fancies, but in the main his foibles were not injurious to the public. As an official he was earnest and conscientious in enforcing the laws, which earned him the respect of the good citizens of Toledo, irrespective of party. His last election was on a ticket of his own without the support of any party organization. In his business life Mr. Jones practiced his "golden rule" teachings to a degree that won the affection of his many employes and the admiration of the public. His career has been distinctly beneficial to one of the most delightful little cities in the country. Mr. Jones was well known in the oil regions of Pennsylvania, where he formerly resided, and had many personal friends in this city, who will grieve for his death.

The All-Important Issue.

After all is said and done, the fact stands out that Democratic convention proceedings have confirmed the literal truth of the Republican platform averment that "the maintenance of the gold standard cannot be safely committed to the Democratic party, which resisted it and has never given any proof since that time of belief in it or fidelity to it." The Democratic party adopted a platform which leaves intact as the official creed of the party a demand for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. Mr. Bryan has good ground for claiming that the Democratic party rests in the same position which it occupied when he was its candidate for the presidency. It is true that the convention, acting under manifest duress, advised Judge Parker that his gold standard opinions were noted and were not regarded as a disqualification of his candidacy in the present campaign, but at the most this does not indicate a change of party opinion but simply that there is no present avowal of an intention of giving effect to it. The free silver program is not abandoned, but is temporarily in abeyance. This is precisely the view which Mr. Bryan has been expressing in his paper. In the issue immediately preceding the meeting of the convention he argued that the movement of events would soon raise the free silver issue again with even greater urgency than before the temporary relief given by increased gold production. In accord with this expectation he announced in the convention his willingness to support in the present campaign any candidate that New York state might present.

Thus the election of Judge Parker would renew again the disastrous situation created when Cleveland was elected in 1892. In the campaign he had practically repudiated in his letter of acceptance the platform of the party which had nominated him, just as Judge Parker has already done by his Sheehan telegram. The party put up with it then for the sake of office, just as it has done again in the case of Judge Parker. The result of the election was a divided administration and a distracted country, the chief executive pulling one way, congress pulling another way, the struggle delivering the nation over to panic, ruin and distress. Even crediting Judge Parker with the stubborn determination of Cleveland, his power as in the case of Cleveland would be on only negative and positive action involving congressional support would be impossible of attainment. The same deplorable necessity would be created for straining executive authority to devise and put into effect costly emergency measures to save the public credit.

It is quite true that the president is now armed with authority of law for sustaining the gold standard and providing for public obligations which did not exist when Cleveland was in office, but unforeseen contingencies are certain to arise and then radical disagreement between the president and his party will inevitably produce a legislative paralysis and throw the regular machinery of government out of gear. Our political history is uniform in its testimony on this point. There is no reason to suppose that the experience of Parker would be any different in this respect from that of John Adams, John Tyler, Andrew Johnson or Grover Cleveland. A chief executive with whom his party in congress is not in complete accord is doomed to administrative incompetence and public disaster.

These considerations are so cogent that instead of removing the financial issue from the campaign the action of the Democratic party makes it the leading issue. The nation is invited to commit the folly of putting the administration into the hands of a party which either does not know its own mind or is too cowardly to declare its intentions as regards the most important branch of administration—the regulation of national finances. It begins its campaign at cross purposes with its candidate and its success at the polls would inevitably result in confusion and uncertainty. It is vain for the convention to say that this is of no consequence. It is the all-important issue of the campaign.

The Man Who Rolled Bryan.

As regards most of the leading participants in the faction scrimmage at St. Louis, the only question is, who was rolled hardest in the dust and came out dirtiest? But no one doubts that one man came out of the fray wearing laureis of victory. He was John Sharp Williams of Mississippi. Put up to down Elihu Root, he made a conspicuous failure of that undertaking, and Mr. Root's Chicago address shines brighter than ever by contrast with Mr. Williams' reply to it. But the Parker explosion brought Mr. Williams his opportunity, and he seized it so courageously and improved it so effectively that he rolled Bryan good and hard on the floor of that convention.

There is nothing constructive or inferential about Bryan's defeat. It was a square set-to upon the stage of the convention in full view of the delegates and spectators. They were so close that Williams could shake his finger almost under Bryan's nose, and as he shook that finger he applied to Bryan's proposals such epithets as "idiotic" and "ignorant." Bryan proposed one course, Williams another, and the record shows that Bryan several times offered to call it a draw, but Williams insisted that the contest should go to a finish. In the wind-up Bryan was completely knocked out. Both upon points and upon general results Williams was the victor.

Up to that time Bryan was the dominant personality of the convention. He had emerged victorious from the prolonged struggle over the platform, having prevented any retraction or alteration of previous party declarations upon the monetary issue. He may still claim that triumph, for thus still stands the case so far as party utterance is concerned, but his complete defeat at the hands of Williams is indisputable. John Sharp Williams steps into history as the man who rolled Bryan.

The Bond Election.

While some corrections may be made in the figures, it is evident at this writing that the filtration bond issue has been carried by a safe margin of over 3,000 and that the majority against the isse for reduction of the hump is not less than 600. The downtown and hill wards voted for both issues, with pretty even majorities. The South Side voted against both issues quite decisively, while the big East End wards voted for the filtration issue, some against the hump issue and a few for it. The total vote polled was about 50 per cent of a normal vote in a state election.

There is nothing suprising in the returns. The city nort hof the rivers voted for the filtration bonds because this section is assured of immediate benefits upon completion of the plant. The South Side voted against filtration because its pleas for immediate consideration were ruthlessly turned down, and it fears it may not participate in the blessings of purified water for many years to come. Both the South Side and East End voted against reduction of the hump because they would not be directly benefited and had no great faith in the promised indirect benefits. Moreover, they felt this was not a work of necessity and preferred to await a more favorable time.

It must be conceded by all that the voting was of the most discriminating character. It may be taken for granted that the payroll voted straight for both issues. If this be assumed, then the remaining voters must have exercised their independent judgment to a remarkable degree. It would have been more satisfactory had the total vote been larger, though it will hardly be disputed that the voting was thoroughly representative of public sentiment.

West Virgina's Campaign.

W. M. O. Dawson was nominated on the Republican ticket for governor of West Virginia last evening after a hot contest that at times became bitter in localities. But all this will be forgotten in the united effort to elect the ticket that has been nominated. Mr. Dawson had a majority of the delegates and the will of the majority will be the law of the people.

Obviously former Senator Henry G. Davis was nominated for vice president on the Democratic ticket solely because it was hoped that nomination would help bring West Virginia back to the Democratic fold. The Republicans of that state cannot afford to permit any such thing. They brought their state out of the Democratic slough of despond with too much effort to allow it to slide back in at a time when the object of the Democrats is to secure the adoption of a disfranchisement amendment to the Constitution, which they believe would prevent the Republican party fro mregaining control.

West Virginia has been welcomed into the column of Republican states very heartily, because it lies on the borderland of the south. It was born in the midst of civil strife because it declined to go with eastern Virginia in the movement to disrupt the union of states. It was loyal and it suffered for its loyalty during much of the war period. It is now developing rapidly and its riches are being recognized. It is where it belongs politically and will do itself a service by remaining there, no matter what bait may be held out by the artful Democracy to tempt it. We believe the people of West Virginia understand these things and will act accordingly.

Russian reports are annihilating all the Japanese forces, but by the magic of the mikado's empire the dead men continue to force the Russians back.

West Virginia Republicans have been having a warm time with each other, but they will now proceed to show the Democrats how they can fight.

Judge Parker appears, from the current reports, to be an excellent swimmer, but the race he has entered will not be in the water.

Crop injury is reported as a result of wet, cool weather in the west. But there are good things in the markets for eating.

While the Democrats cry that President Roosevelt is "unsafe," they prove that their whole party is unreliable.

Orange day passed quietly. The old strife is being forgotten and clubs are no longer regarded as arguments.

Judge Parker's gold plank may be binding upon him, but it would not be deuce high in a Democratic congress.

Gamblers in the Seventh ward are ordered to close and stay closed. Where will they open up next?

Then there is the late "Mississippi idea." Neither the convention nor Parker would adopt it.

When Judge Parker broke his long silence, the blow almost killed the old Democracy.

Bourke Cockran's revived hope is one of the most pathetic things of the season.

Talked of in Gotham

By ALEXANDER DODDS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 12.—The excavating for the mammoth new Pennsylvania railroad depot in Seventh avenue again brings to light the fact that no city in the world stands on a solider foundation than does New York. Nature gave Manhattan island a picturesque and rolling surface and a bed of rock. But man is fast altering the undulating top of the island and that in 1626 Peter Minuit bought for $24 worth of glass beads and other trinkets, and its 13,487 acres throb with the click of the drill while on every side is heard the muffled explosions denoting more building operations in this wonderful city of skyscrapers. Hardly a shred of the original topography remains.

The ancient region of the squatter and the goat is now a district of costly business palaces, while so crowded has the mercantile section become that even now the land in many places is yielding its second crop of buildings, business houses being swept away to make room for the gigantic masterpieces of modern architecture. "More room for buildings!" is the cry and the impossible hills of 50 years ago are being levelled with the drill and blasting powder. This is one of the reasons why New York is such a costly place and these small mountains, such of them as remain, give never ending diversion to the sightseer. They testify curiously to the newness of the city and its enormously rapid growth. There has been a half century of blasting and it will be still many years before it has been finished.

On the Hunt for Mile Stones.

The City History club is making a persistent search for the historic mile stones that marked what was anciently the Boston post road. Already three have been found and they constitute a set of curious reminders of the early days of New York. These were on the west side of the Bowery and Third avenue and were set in place when all of the metropolis lay below what is now City Hall park and when the Bowery was a leafy lane leading between farms and gardens to the road that ran up Manhattan island. The plan of the History club goes much farther than to merely protect these stones which are now ill cared for and overlooked by the policemen when an enterprising bill poster plasters them with ballet girls.

They intend to name each, place a memorial tablet on it, and use them in teaching the young of the city the history of Knickerbocker days. The search is being made all along the old highway, one party going to Boston and the other to Albany, for these blocks of granite and sandstone. It is hard work, but the club feels so sure of its ultimate success that it has asked for the trusteeship of all the mile stones found within the limits of Greater New York.

Sightseers Flocking In.

The sightseers have created such a demand for the mammoth, ungainly "Seeing New York Touring Cars," that another company has been incorporated and now every few minutes blaring trumpets and the shout of the megaphone-voiced lecturer is heard in Broadway. The day of the garrulous old cabman and his picturesque fibs of great things and big people has truly passed. For $1 you now can really see the first thing seen by a vessel on approaching New York, the home of Andrew Carnegie and of Gould, the Flatiron building and the littlest house in New York; the Egyptian sphinx (not Judge Parker's) the statues of Liberty and Garibaldi, and finally be dumped off at the financial menagerie for a 10-minutes look at the bulls and bears. It is estimated that nearly 5,000 persons see the big show daily.

Victor Herbert to Have the Say.

The erstwhile leader of the Pittsburgh orchestra, Victor Herbert, has been secured by the management of the new Fields theater to supervise all music to be produced in that playhouse. On the opening nights of any production, this noted composer who in the past few years has pleased thousands of Pittsburghers, will also wield the baton over the theater orchestra. In addition Mr. Herbert has written the music for the next Mitchell, Hamlin and Fields' spectacular production, "The Enchanted Isle." It will open in the Casino in November following "Piff, Paff, Pouf" at that playhouse.

Killed by Her False Teeth.

While going to Coney Island today, Mrs. Mary Murphy of Washington street, Brooklyn, saw a runaway horse bearing down upon her at a gallop. She threw up her hands and when she uttered a terrified scream her false teeth fell back into her throat. Before an ambulance surgeon from the Emergency hospital could reach her side she was dead of strangulation. Her cries caused the frightened horse to swerve as he madly galloped to the spot where she was standing, and she was not touched. Her 16-year-old son had to stand by, powerless to give her aid, as his mother slowly smothered to death.

Vanderbilt Is Really a Fireman.

The members of the Hyde Park volunteer fire department learned last night that when William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., accepted the honorary membership in the department he also accepted the duties of a real fire fighter. During a heavy thunderstorm a bolt of lightning struck the handsome barn of B. P. Hageman, setting it on fire. Mr. Vanderbilt loaded two of his farm laborers in an automobile, he himself took the steering wheel and in a driving rain raced to the scene of the fire and helped fight the flames. "Dreamland's" press agent today announced that he intended inviting the Hyde Park department to assist at one performance of the big fire spectacle at Coney Island, and it is believed he has visions of the millionaire clubman holding the nozzle of a playing hose while the onlooking thousands cheer.

Will at Last Have a Great Hippodrome.

After years of waiting and the wasting of hundreds of columns of valuable newspaper space on visionary projects for a mammoth hippodrome, it is announced that New York is really to have one of these great playhouses. Thompson & Dundy, the owners of Luna park, are to be the managers. The building will face in Sixth avenue and extend from Forty-third to Forty-fourth streets. It will cost $1,500,000. Mr. Thompson, who was abroad nearly all last winter, made a study of the big hippodromes of Berlin, London and Paris and with the ideas he gained there the Fuller Construction Company have incorporated into plans for what is said will be the most perfect playhouse in the world. Workmen have already commenced work on tearing down the foundations of the buildings occupying the site.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Let me but do my work from day to day,
In field or forest, at the desk or loom,
In roaring market place or tranquil room;
Let me but find it in my heart to say,
When vagrant wishes beckon me astray,
This is my work; my blessing not my doom;
Of all who live, I am the one by whom
This work can best be done in my own way."
Then shall I see it not too great nor small,
To suit my spirit and to prove my powers;
Then shall I cheerfully greet the laboring hours,
And cheerful turn, when the long shadows fall,
At eventide, to play and love and rest,
Because I know for me my work is best.
—Henry Van Dyke.

There are lots of odds and ends that make interesting reading these hot, moist days when a fellow doesn't feel like tackling anything exciting or that has to be thought out.

If you are not already at some summer resort you are probably getting ready to go, unless you have decided to resort at home. Some folks are doing this for one reason or another.

They do say the country is fine this year. The cherry crop is a record-breaker, while the prospect for peaches, apples, plums, gooseberries, currants and elderberries hasn't been better since the war.

And then there is a reciprocity existing between town folks and country folks that makes the farm resort attractive. City folks go to the country in the summer and country folks come to the exposition in the fall, and to the theaters and concerts in the winter.

There isn't much in the talk about the city folks not being welcome on the farm and country folks being regarded as bores when they return the visits. Some there are, perhaps, who impose on country relatives, but not many—not enough hardly to make an exception to the rule.

* * * * *

It doesn't make much difference where you go, for it is the going and the coming that does you most good. It breaks in on the monotony of your life, stirs you up, as it were, and sets you going at a different pace.

Between the going and the coming you are liable to get tolerably tired, since there isn't scarcely anything more tiresome than being away from home.

About two days will do you on the old farm where you cultivate corn, good habits and a desire for city life. At the distance from which you now view the farm it is very attractive, and you can talk about it until you really get homesick.

When you get back there things don't appear as rosy as they did in your mind, and the homesickness proves to have been more pleasure than the realization of your hopes and expectations.

The reason for this is that you have idealized things to such an extent that you feel more or less disappointed when you see them as they are. The hills are not as high nor as green, the trees not as tall and the shade not as cool, the house not as big and the garden not as lovely as when you saw them in your mind.

And then mother isn't there, nor the dog, nor the boys and girls. And that makes a difference.

* * * * *

And when you get back on the farm you are liable to strike an epidemic of fleas, or the folks will tell you the flies are the worst ever, and the bugs that fly by night, and the frogs that squawk from dark till dawn, and the busy, buzzy musquito that insists on testing the quality of your blood, all combine to dispel the fine sentiment you had worked up for the occasion.

Indeed you are fortunate if you don't inwardly wish you hadn't gone even before you have been awakened by crowing roosters, cackling hens, chattering guineas and quacking ducks, and routed out or bed in time to see the sun rise and to eat breakfast with the farmer.

A horseback ride down to the old mill, which you used to think a rare good thing, instead of filling you with delight made you sore, while sitting on the fence whittling proves to be a bore.

And then when you venture down across the fields to visit the wild plum thicket, the calamus patch and the black haw tree, the warning to lookout for copperhads knocks your anticipated pleasure to smithereens, if it does not fill you with dread and horror, particularly if you have neglected to supply yourself with plenty of snake-bite cure.

* * * * *

Speaking of snakes, which is your preference, copperhead or rattlesnake—that is, which do you prefer to keep the farthest away from?

With most people a snake is a snake, regardless of size, name or character. But there are snakes and snakes, as the poet says, and we are allowed our choice.

The copperhead isn't a bad looking snake, as snakes go, but it has a mighty bad reputation. In fact, it is generally regarded as a mean sort of snake, and is apparently without a friend or even an apologist. Although it won't chase you, nor go out of its way to get a crack at you, it probably does more business, per snake, than does the rattler, the moccasin or any other of the venomous kind.

It is said that where there is one there are always two copperheds, so when you smell green cucumbers look out, for that seems to be the only warning you will get of the presence of this reptile.

The rattler is a little more polite, also more vicious, for after giving you timely warning it will stand its ground and fight like a good fellow, while the copperhead will run and hide.

And the chances are that you will be more afraid of snakes than when you were a barefooted boy and snakes were plentier.

But don't let such a trifling matter as a few snakes keep you in the city all summer. Indeed, you can see them right here if you go about it in the right way.

* * * * *

There are other venomous snakes, but the rattler is usually taken as the typical poisonous snake in this part of the country. In some sections the copperhead is boss. And it appears that where rattlesnakes are scarce, or entirely absent, there do copperheads most abound.

Now and then science confirms some of the old-wife medical superstitions of the backwoods. For instance, the "yarb" doctors and old women of rattlesnake regions say that when a man gets over a rattlesnake bite he has trouble in the wound every year afterward.

Pathologists and toxicologists who have studied snake poison agree that this is true, only the trouble doesn't necessarily occur every year. It happens whenever the system gets out of order.

The explanation is simple. Snake poison has the effect of destroying tissue. Of course it has the strongest effect in and about the wound where the poison, in its course through the veins, has not yet been diluted by the blood.

Ever afterward that is a weak point in the system. Any little disturbance in the blood tends to break out at the point of the wound.

When this happens the old wives say that it is the poison working. It is not, of course. It is only the excess poison of the body working in the weak spot.

In the treatment of rattlesnake bites the rough and ready physicians of the backwoods scored again on the modern scientist. In spite of analysis and laborious experiments and government prizes, the treatment discovered by the pioneers when New York was a wilderness is still standard.

Cut the wound, suck it out, burn or cauterize the spot and keep the patient drunk on whisky until the danger is past. Medical men have tried all manner of substitutes, but come back to the original method.

The sucking, of course, is to get out as much poison as possible; the cauterization prevents local infection, and the whisky keeps the heart going in its task of clearing up the blood. Strychnine, which is a powerful heart stimulant, has been tried as a substitute, but with rather unsatisfactory results. There is the danger of overdosing it and adding strychnine poisoning to the patient's troubles.

Then, again, whisky, while it stimulates the heart, also deadens the brain. That helps the patient to bear the terrible pain of snake bite at a time when ordinary anaesthetics would be dangerous.

So the old, untutored doctor of the backwoods has beaten modern science on two counts.

Most Severe on Alphabet.

The increasing severity of the war is shown by the names of the stations along the line of march. Gen. Sakharoff reports having been compelled to retire from Makhuntsuniga to Tchjourzimandiuzia, and it is feared that a little more hard driving will wreck the alphabet.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Convention Echoes

As was to be expected, the newspapers which represent the safe, sound and sane wing of the Democratic party are loud and vehement in their asseverations that the action of the St. Louis convention in standing by the nomination of Judge Parker after the receipt of his now famous telegram is equivalent to the incorporation of a gold plank in the platform. It is nothing of the kind. The views expressed by Judge Parker upon the question of the gold standard are his own private property. They are in no sense or to any extent binding upon the organization which he represents, and it is to be noted that he was careful not to insist as a condition upon which alone he would accept the nomination that they must be approved, indorsed or adopted by the body to which his message was addressed.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Democratic national convention ended by straddling a straddle. It adopted unanimously a platform refusing to recant its free silver coinage heresies and naminated a presidential candidate whose agents and sponsors had given every assurance that in matters of policy he would bow to the convention's judgment. On the eve of adjournment it had to face the discovery that these assurances were unauthorized and fraudulent. The nomination made and the nominee repudiating the "gold brick" tactics of his managers, the convention saw no way out but to condone the trickery practiced on it, and to stultify itself by assuring the candidate that the money issue—over which the committee on resolutions fought two days and nights and on which it utterly failed to reach an agreement—did not, in fact, exist. Having been "buncoed" once by Judge Parker's managers, the convention found the process rather to its liking. It turned to, after a little spasm of irritation and protest, and meekly "buncoed" itself.—New York Tribune.

Mr. Bryan alone among all the conspicuous actors on the stage of the convention was equal to his role and even gave it new distinction. And a most difficult role it was. He came to a hostile convention which was bent on crushing him. He faced a body of men who felt that he was really a charlatan and a mountebank. He could hope for little sympathy from the awakened representatives of a party that he had dragged through the mire of disaster and disgrace. He knew he was doomed to defeat and yet he was compelled to fight or see himself snuffed out without even a flicker.—Philadelphia Press.

Mr. Bryan remarked at St. Louis that as the standard bearer in two campaigns, whether or not he had fought a good fight he had "kept the faith." At all events he is not entitled to the Scriptural censure of the man who provideth not for his own as worse than an infidel. Whoever wonders at the obstinacy of his apparent delusions on the money question may relieve his wonder by reference to the simple and single consideration that Mr. Bryan has a family to support. We spoke just now of the freedom of his fanaticisms from malice. But, according to an authority, malice is precisely the element that distinguishes fanaticism from enthusiasm. If we look upon Mr. Bryan's devotion to dear dead silver simply as a matter of business, the imputation of fanaticism disappears. Comparing his career before his nomination in 1896 with his career since, nobody will accuse him of lack of practical intelligence in working the silver question for all that there might be in it for him.—New York Times.

One highly interesting and significant feature of the Democratic conventions vote on sending the message to Judge Parker, assuring him that the convention accepted him with his personal platform of a "gold standard firmly and irrevocably established," is the evidence that the southern states have cast away silver forever, that the strong and sane men of that part of the United States have regained the mastery over the Populists, the silverites and the ignorant, and that the south has returned to the hard money idea, the "dollar of our daddies."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Judge Parker's dispatch was the just the sort of thing that Mr. Cleveland would have sent, and the incident is not entirely unlike one that occurred 12 years ago, when there was some danger of a free silver plank in the platform, and Mr. Cleveland caused it to be known that if there were the convention might nominate someone else. Mr. Cleveland has sent the judge a message expressing his gratitude and admiration, "For the splendid manifestation of honor and courage you have given to your countrymen." The more his countrymen think over this dispatch the more they will realize that the judge is just about the man they wish in the White House.—Philadelphia Record.

"Harmony!" That should be the slogan of the Democratic party. Let us have no more of the treason and sulking which for eight years have kept the Democracy out of power. When the radical and progressive elements of the party in 1896, and again in 1900, adopted a platform and nominated a candidate representing their principles, the "conservatives" refused to submit to the will of the majority. Some of them put another ticket in the field, others went over to the Republicans outright, and still others remained away from the polls. Many newspapers calling themselves Democratic reviled Mr. Bryan as a demagogue, a disturber, an anarchist, and in general as the personification of the evil principle in politics. The 6,500,000 voters who twice followed him to defeat—defeat inflicted by recreant Democrats—were denounced as fools and madmen. No language was thought too opprobious to fling at them, and this bitter abuse has not yet ceased. The "conservative" press cannot yet refrain from taunts and sneers at the leaders who merely stood by the Democratic guns. The desertion of the gold Democrats and the insulting course of the bolting press have been profoundly resented by all Democrats who were true to their party. But are true Democrats to allow that resentment to lead them into retaliation, now that the conservatives have prevailed in the national convention? Will they imitate conduct which reprobated in the bolters of 1896 and 1900? Will they commit the same sin that they held so unpardonable in others?—New York American.

Col. Watterson on Judge Parker.

The convention made no mistake. Who cannot vote for Alton Brooks Parker is no Democrat. He will carry New York. New York will carry New Jersey and Connecticut. The south will carry itself. If Tom Taggart does not carry Indiana we'll hang him. Then there is Wisconsin—where's Vilas? What is the matter with "Dave" Rose and "Ed" Wall and that delightfully delightful bad boy's delightful father, George Wilbur Peck? Across the Missouri, Colorado, Montana and Utah; over on the Pacific—! Don't everybody speak at once. Elect the ticket! You bet we'll elect the ticket! Face to the foe—eyes to the target. Every Democrat in his place. No mouthing and no monkey business. No nonsense about either '73 or '96. Fools to the rear! Braves to the front! March!—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Where It Is Needed.

The Democratic pledge to insist upon the just and lawful protection of citizens at home and abroad, and without distinction of race or creed, ought to be particularly inspiring and comforting to the Mississippi pickaninny and Alabama coon.—Butte Inter-Mountain.

WHEN PLANK MET PLANK.

The Gold Plank met the Silver Plank,
On a sunny summer day;
Said the Gold Plank to the Silver Plank:
"Am I journeying your way?"
"You bet you are," quoth the Silver Plank,
"They have dropped us both to stay."

"I thought," remarked the Gold Plank then,
"They'd with you have naught to do;
A knotty plank and a worn-out plank
Was a useless plank, I knew;
But I—I'm made of the finest growth,
And they went and dropped me, too."

"Ah, well," was the Silver Plank's reply,
"It must all in a lifetime be.
The west, they said, couldn't stand on you;
And the east couldn't stand on me."
"But what have they got to stand on now?"
Quoth the Gold Plank then quoth he.

"It's hard to tell, and it's up to them
To explain," the Silver Plank said;
"They yanked out me and they yanked out you.
Now they've only got a hole instead;
A hole—Gee whiz!—for a leading plank!"
And they wobbled each wooden head.
—Arthur H. Folwell in New York Sun.

The Death Roll

The Rev. Dr. George Darsie.

The Rev. Dr. George Darsie, a prominent minister of the Christian church and well known in this section, is dead at his late home in Frankfort, Ky., where he had been pastor of the Christian church for the last 27 years. Dr. Darsie had been in failing health for some time and recently went to Chicago for treatment. His death occurred there on Monday. Dr. Darsie was born in Fayette county, Pa., 58 years ago. He received his early training in the schools of Pittsburgh and was a graduate of the old Darsie college, now Bethany college, at Wellsburg, W. Va. He also took a post-graduate course in Lexington, Ky. Dr. Darsie's family has been prominent in Pittsburgh for years and many members of the family still reside in this section. Dr. Darsie filled pastorates at Baltimore, Md.; Tuscola, Ill., and Ravenna, O., going to Frankfort in 1877. He was chaplain of the senate of West Virginia and also performed the wedding ceremony for a West Virginia governor. He married Miss Cornell Campbell of Wheeling, W. Va., a descendant of Alexander Campbell, founder of the Campbellites. Besides his widow, four brothers, the Rev. John L. Darsie of Hiram, O.; the Rev. Lloyd Darsie of Sewickley of Chicago; Hugh S. Darsie of Washington, Pa., and Horace G. Darsie of Sewickley, a member of the firm of Wolff, Lane & Co., of Wood street, any by three sisters, Miss Annie Darsie of Braddock; Miss Ida Darsie of Sewickley, and Mrs. James Walker of Washington, Pa., survive. Funeral services will be held over the remains at his late home in Frankfort at 5 p. m. today.

Mrs. Theodore Bell.

Mrs. Catherine Bell, aged 56, wife of Theodore Bell, for years a hotel man of Homestead, died last night at the family home, No. 1008 Tenth avenue, Munhall, of typhoid fever, after a short illness. Mrs. Bell was a native of Germany and came to this country 32 years ago. She was married on the South Side 27 years ago and two years late, the family removed to Homestead. Mrs. Bell was a member of St. Mary Magdalen's Catholic church, Homestead, and besides her husband, two daughters, Misses Annie and Emma Bell, and one son, Theodore Bell, Jr., survive.

Henrihan's Body Arrives.

The remains of Edward Henrihan, aged 45, who died on June 25 at Skaguay, Alaska, arrived yesterday and were taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. James Harroway, at Hawkins station. He was a former resident of Braddock, but went to Alaska many years ago and made a fortune in the gold fields. He was about to return home when he died. He is survived by a brother, John Henrihan, and one sister, Mrs. James Harroway, both of Hawkins.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs Eliza Harrold Eswerthy, 53 years old, died at the home of her son, John Harrold, Youngwood, near Greensburg, Monday night.

Harriet E. Carson, infant daughter of Winfield B. Carson, secretary of the Philadelphia Company, is dead at the family home, No. 331 Stratford avenue, East End.

Michael King, aged 58, of No. 729 Brownsville avenue, South Side, is dead in New York. His widow and five children survive. He was a member of St. Canice Catholic church, Allentown.

Mrs. Mary N. Thompson, aged 79, is dead at her late home in Patton township, near Turtle Creek. She was the widow of Col. John Thompson, a former prominent resident of Patton township.

Frederick Diedrich is dead at his late home in West View, aged 72 years. He conducted a farm at West View and acquired valuable real estate in Pittsburgh, retiring from active work several years ago.

Mrs. Mary J. Richey, widow of Andrew Richey, died yesterday morning at Denver, Col., aged 85 years. She was the mother of E. C. Richey of Latrobe. She had gone to Denver for the health of a grandchild.

George W. Mahood, aged 71 years, died yesterday morning at his home at North Hope. At the outbreak of the rebellion he enlisted in the Thirteenth Pennsylvania volunteers and served throughout the war.

William B. Loomis, son of Stanley Loomis, died at the home of his father-in-law, Daniel Goettel, in Oil City, Monday night, aged 30 years. He was born in Pittsburgh and was prominently connected in that city. He was the manager of the Citizens Light and Power Company of Oil City. He was a veteran of the Spanish war, serving as a lieutenant of company D, Sixteenth regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania. His widow survives him.

Wants to Show Us.

Notwithstanding its rapid growth into a great commercial and industrial center, Pittsburgh continues to be a city of homes. Fully to appreciate what this means, it is only necessary to glance for a moment at New York. No one who is at all acquainted with the metropolis would regard it as a city of homes, yet its actual desolation

LOCAL BONDS ARE PREFERRED

Wabash Guarantees That Part of Main Line Profits Come to Pittsburgh Line.

FINANCIAL SCHEME DISCLOSED

With the completion of the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western railroad from Pittsburgh to Jewett, O., the Wabash, simultaneously with the opening of the new lines for traffic, discloses the financial plan under which this division is acquired. The Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal railway has acquired the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western and control of the Wheeling & Lake Erie. In exchange for these securities $25,000,000 first "mortgage and $20,000,000 second" mortgage bonds of the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal Railway Company are issued and the Wabash proper acquires the stock of the Pittsburgh Terminal Company in exchange for $10,000,000 of its own common.

The interest on the first mortgage bonds of the Pittsburgh Terminal Company is directly guaranteed, and the interest on the second or income bonds, as they might properly be called, depends upon the traffic handled. It is understood that a contract has been entered into between the parent company and the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal Company, under which the parent company sets aside 25 per cent of the gross revenue received on traffic from the Pittsburgh Terminal second mortgage bonds. In effect, the Pittsburgh Terminal has the revenue of its own lines and 25 per cent of the gross received by the Wabash on Pittsburgh Terminal traffic with which to pay its obligations.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1903, Wabash reported gross earnings of $21,-968,756, with total expenses including taxes, rentals, etc., of $17,450,809 or an operating ratio of 79 per cent. Of course, this expense on this traffic includes rentals of the Buffalo line, and so it would not be fair to say that the cost of doing business on the Wabash main line between St. Louis and Toledo and Chicago and Toledo is 79 per cent, but even making this allowance, it is evident that the contract between the Wabash and the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal in effect sets aside practically all of the profit for the benefit of the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal bonds.

This makes these bonds both first and second, to all intents and purposes, ahead of Wabash debentures, and logically Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal seconds should sell higher than Wabash debentures, although the interest is not absolutely guaranteed.

TWO-FIFTHS POPULATION IN GAINFUL OCCUPATION

Foreign-Born Employes Have Not Increased in Proportion in 20 Years.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 12.—A special report of the census bureau on occupations shows that in continental United States the total number of persons engaged in gainful occupations in 1900 was 29,073,233, which was one-half of the population 10 years of age and over and nearly two-fifths of the entire population. The total number comprises 22,489,425 men, 4,883,009 women and 1,750,178 children, of whom 1,264,411 were boys and 485,767 girls.

Those of foreign birth aggregated 5,851,399, or one-fifth of the total number of gainful workers, and the statistics show that the immigration of 20 years has not increased the proportion of the foreign-born in the working population of the country. Manufacturing, trade and transportation and the professions show an increasing number of workers of each sex, while the agricultural classes represents a diminishing proportion.

All the statistics given are for continental United States, which excludes Alaska, Hawaii and the military and naval stations abroad. Including all these, but not including Porto Rico, the Philippine islands or the islands of Guam and Tutuila, the total number of persons engaged in gainful occupations in the United States is given as 29,287,600.

The percentage of female workers is especially high wherever the negro element is prominent. Of the men 66 per cent of the single, 94 per cent of the married, 77 per cent of the widowed and 89 per cent of the divorced were employed, while among the women 31 per cent of the single, 6 per cent of the married, 32 per cent of the widowed and 55 per cent of the divorced were employed.

BIG AUTO CRASHES INTO LANDSLIDE

White running at high speed down a steep hill near Wilkins place in Braddock avenue, Swissvale, at 8 o'clock last night, a powerful automobile containing a woman and three men ran into a big landslide. The occupants of the machine were tumbled out, but escaped injury. The auto, which nearly buried itself in the pile of earth, was wrecked. The cars on the Braddock and Swissvale division were tied up for two hours till a wrecking car arrived and pulled the auto out. The man who was driving the machine refused to give his name, but told the trenton men, who took charge of the wrecked auto, that his office was at 2122 Frick building. The Union club occupies the room.

TWELVE CHILDREN ARE BEREFT OF FATHER

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 12.—(Special.)—Joseph Webb, aged 50 years, was instantly killed by a train this morning while walking on the railroad track at Mannington, W. Va. He leaves a wife and 12 children.

Ended Life With Pistol.

CALDWELL, O., July 12.—(Special.)—In a moment of mental aberration George E. Geddes, father of J. K. Geddes of Zanesville, general manager of the Ohio River and Western railway, and until recently receiver of that road, committed suicide at his home near Hoskinsville, last night by shooting himself through the head. He had been ill for several years. He was 74 years old.

Act of Brutal Father.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—John Fryon of South Connellsville, was committed to jail today on a charge of brutally beating his three-year-old child. In a drunken rage late last night he took the child from home and drove it about the streets. When it would cry he would beat it and pour whisky over its head. The little one may not recover.

Coughed Up a Lizard.

BELLEFONTAINE, O., July 12.—(Special.)—Mrs. Laurel Milliner of Bellefontaine, who has been ill four years, called a physician yesterday and he prescribed an emetic. In a few hours she vomited a water lizard three inches long, that showed remarkable agility.

GREATER PITTSBURGH IS TAKING BURDEN OFF PITTSBURGH PROPER

Taxes Are Becoming More Equitably Borne by the Whole County.

REPORT PREPARED FOR STATE

Greater Pittsburgh is beginning to relieve Pittsburgh proper of the unfair burden of taxation it has borne for many years. This is shown in the annual report made by the county commissioners to the secretary of internal affairs, completed yesterday, and to be forwarded to Harrisburg today.

For years Pittsburgh has paid the greatest part of the taxation but the outlying districts have greatly increased their figures this year. This is due to the movement in suburban real estate, the plotting of farms, the building of villages and the location of new factories in so many sections of the county.

The following table shows the number of taxables, the value of real estate taxable, the total value of all property taxable for county purposes and the amount of money at interest, including mortgages, bonds, etc., by districts:

TO WEAR NEW UNIFORMS AT STATE ENCAMPMENT

Fourteenth Regiment Has Spent $5,000 for Saddles, Bridles, Boots and Mess Ware.

The Fourteenth regiment will go to the encampment at Gettysburg next week with almost an entire new equipment. Over $5,000 has been spent in preparation for the encampment. Col. W. E. Thompson and his staff will appear in the regular army uniform. This outfit includes tan leather boots, saddles and bridles and a brown uniform. In addition to this, Col. Thompson has secured the German army enameled ware, which will be used by the regiment instead of the old tinware. The German enameled ware was received by the regiment last week and is lighter and more serviceable than the tinware which has been used for years.

The officers have persuaded Col. Thompson to go to camp this year without carrying any timber. The members of the regiment will sleep on the ground and the board floors are to be abandoned. Every effort will be made to have the best appearing and best drilled regiment at the encampment. At present the Fourteenth regiment holds third place in the guard. The Eighth of Wilkesbarre is the champion regiment of the state and the Second of Philadelphia is second. The Fourteenth regiment leads all the regiments of Western Pennsylvania. The Eighteenth regiment is in last position.

Braddock Council Was Busy.

Braddock borough council yesterday took steps to restore the traction service in Braddock avenue west of Eighth street. They decided to have the traction company sprinkle Talbot avenue during the summer and to have the old rails in Second street and Mills avenue torn up and sold, and finally took up and tabled an ordinance for a viaduct over the Pennsylvania railroad to connect Second street in North Braddock with Corey avenue in Braddock.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—The steamship San Jacinto, of the Mallory line, was damaged $40,000 by fire today while lying at Roach's shipyard, Chester, Pa., where she was laid up for repairs.

Cotton Factory to Cut Wages.

FALL RIVER, MASS., July 12.—A general reduction of 10% per cent in wages in the cotton mills of Fall River is ordered to take effect July 25. About 25,000 operatives will be effected.

CRESCIO GIVES REASON FOR SHOOTING CUNEO

CHICAGO, July 12.—Anthony Crescio today told the motive which led him to fatally shoot his brother-in-law, Andrew Cuneo, the wealthy wholesale fruit dealer. Crescio said: "I shot Cuneo because he was plotting to murder my family." Cuneo is still alive.

SPEECH PROMISED FROM CLEVELAND

Former President Will Make at Least One Address Advocating Election of Parker.

VERY QUIET DAY AT ESOPUS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ESOPUS, N. Y., July 12.—It has been clearly intimated here that former President Grover Cleveland will make at least one speech for Parker and Davis during the coming presidential campaign. Whether or not the former president will offer to make other addresses is not known.

Judge Parker forwarded a letter of some length to Mr. Cleveland at Buzzards Bay today, in reply to Mr. Cleveland's second dispatch, commending the presidential candidate for sending the dispatch making known his position on the money question. This letter was not made public here, but may be given publicity at Buzzards Bay. The judge will personally answer all congratulatory messages.

William F. Sheehan will not accept the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee if his personal wishes, at the present time, are taken cognizance of by Judge Parker. The question of the chairmanship of the national committee is an open one and is occupying considerable thought.

This, presumably, was one of the many matters discussed between the former lieutenant governor and Judge Parker during the former's stay at the Parker residence for more than four hours this evening. Much of the time that the candidate and his apparent principal adviser were together Judge Charles MacLean of the supreme court was with them.

It is known that Mr. Sheehan advocates moving slowly in the selection of a chairman, believing that time is sufficient time for deliberation before the machinery is got in shape for a vigorous campaign. Judge Parker will not name his preference until he has consulted with various persons who will journey to Rosemont to talk the matter over with their party candidate.

No word has been received from Senator David B. Hill in reply to the letter sent to him by Judge Parker, inviting Mr. Hill to come here whenever it suited his convenience. Mr. Sheehan does not expect to see Senator Hill in the city, so far as can be learned.

Robbed at His Key.

CUMBERLAND, MD., July 12.—(Special.)—C. Robinett, Baltimore & Ohio railroad operator at Paw Paw station, 24 miles east of Cumberland, was assaulted and robbed while at his desk Sunday. He was sitting at a telegraph instrument receiving a report from the operator at Magnolo when he was struck on the head with a blunt instrument and knocked senseless.

Heavy Train Records Broken.

ASHTABULA, O., July 12.—(Special.)—All records for giant trains on the ore-carrying branch of the Lake Shore road have just been broken here, four trains having been sent from this point to Pittsburgh, the average weight of each, exclusive of the engine, being 3,500 tons. Heretofore the heaviest train, it is said, had comprised but 3,000 tons.

Welcomed Postal Clerks.

ERIE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—J. B. Anderson of Pittsburgh, first vice president of the State Postal Clerks' association, responded to the address of welcome at the state convention here today, delivered by Mayor William Hardwick. The president is an Erie man, Charles S. Lader. A banquet was served tonight for 100 delegates.

Alleged Murderers Extradited.

HARRISBURG, July 12.—Gov. Pennypacker today issued a requisition on the governor of Virginia for the extradition of Nick Carter and Levi Furman, the alleged murderers of Samuel Ressler, the aged tollkeeper near Gordonville, Lancaster county. Carter and Furman are under arrest at Portsmouth, Va.

But He Saves His Auto.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Robert Canon, son of the city superintendent of schools, was severely injured here Monday night when gasoline in his automobile exploded. Young Canon was burned about the face and hands, but saved his auto.

Editor Caught on Press Shaft.

CUMBERLAND, MD., July 12.—(Special.)—Col. John W. Avirett, editor of the Evening Times, was caught on a rapidly revolving shaft in his press room and seriously injured.

A REAL LIFE-SAVER

"Last summer my little boy was bitten by mosquitoes so badly that the sores spread until his face was a sight. I tried vaseline, carbolic salve, and then got salve and powder from the doctor, but he kept getting worse instead of better, until the doctor gave me a cake of Lifebuoy Soap which I used without using anything else. He began to get better at once, and in a short time was entirely well without so much as a scar. I am so glad there is such a thing as Lifebuoy Soap." Mrs. J. B. Zoller, Palmyra, Mo.

B. & B.

Never any July shelf Emptying Sale since this store was started have we put out as large lots of medium and fine wash goods at as little prices.

Ask importers or makers of Dress Cottons if they ever saw so backward a season and they answer "No."

Therefore opportunities to buy were great.

We went into the market twice within 30 days — and bought more medium and fine Wash Goods than was ever bought for this business.

And we bought only choice lots —both staple and fancies.

Nowadays Cottons are more worn than ever—many the year round—in fact, certain styles of cottons are as staple as Black goods.

Note some lots in the following paragraph that are proof positive of some extraordinary buying—and a chance to get goods for less than ever.

B. & B.

500 pieces 25 and 35 cent fine double width Madras, at 15c

—greatest line of colorings and assortment of styles—from the daintiest light Blue and White corded stripes — beautiful for shirt waist suits — to medium width stripes in full color assortments.

200 pieces 25 cent double width solid check and neat broken check fine Madras Ginghams, 15c —Light Blue and Pink — both solid and fancy checks — also contrasting color effects in the broken checks—solid shepherd checks in Black and White in these fine Ginghams so desirable for Ladies' dresses.

It's the greatest chance in 1904 at the prettiest line of goods for Children's Dresses — good the year 'round—ever in this store.

200 pieces fine 20 and 25 cent double width Madras, 7½c—surplus lots that we have too many of that are all alike.

White and Black broad stripes, neat Chene Lavender stripes and White and Red Novelty Stripes.

Lines of fine dressy Cottons and Organdies, 10, 15 and 25c—assortments and styles that empty more shelves per day than ever was done here in fine Wash Goods.

Over five thousand pieces of good and pretty Batistes and Dimities at 6¼, 7½, 10 and 12½c.

B. & B.

Voiles, Twines and Mistrals, 44 to 52 inches wide, 35c

This is a sacrifice shelf clearing sale of solid color Dress Goods without precedent.

Today—two surplus lots fine Black Voiles and Twines, 75c and $1.00, that will prove when we advertise Shelf Emptying that it's backed up.

American Black Mistrals and Black Voiles—50 to 54 inches wide, 35c—less than half the original price it was made to retail for.

Black Mohairs and Sicilians, 54 inches wide, 50, 65, 75, 85c, $1.00 to $2.00.

NEWS OF THE NEARBY TOWNS AND COUNTRY

SENATOR DAVIS MAKES HAY AT 7 O'CLOCK, A. M.

Then He Takes Horseback Ride, but He Refuses to Talk.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ELKINS, W. VA., July 12.—Henry G. Davis, the Democratic candidate for vice president, still refuses to give any interviews. Since Sunday he has been working almost continually clearing up his business affairs for the campaign. Before 7 o'clock this morning he was out on his farm superintending hay making. After a 7 o'clock breakfast he spent three hours at the office of the Coal & Coke railroad and at his banks. Until 4 o'clock he was engaged in his private office at Davis and the Davis country seat. His recreation consisted, as usual, of a horseback ride of five miles over the farm and back to the hospital and the college, the latest institution founded by his generous endowments. The evening was also spent in office work.

Thursday the 80 members of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association of Pittsburgh, now touring in West Virginia, will be entertained at "Graceland," and on Saturday the senator will leave, with Mrs. Lee, Mrs. John Davis and their children, for Bedford Springs, Pa., where he has been every summer for 50 years. He expects to attend the state convention in Parkersburg, August 3.

Col. John T. McGraw, a gubernatorial possibility before the Parkersburg convention, was closeted with Senator Davis tonight.

MASKED MAN ATTACKS WOMAN IN READING

Gags and Chloroforms Her and Makes His Escape Undetected.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

READING, July 12.—The police were informed this afternoon of an attack on Mrs. Thomas Kurtz, aged 23. She was found in her room shortly after daylight today. A sister-in-law living in the family was down stairs. Mrs. Kurtz's husband had gone to market. Mrs. Kurtz's room was entered by a masked stranger, who gagged her, after pouring a strong liquid on the gag, terribly burning her mouth. Then her limbs were tied and she was threatened with a revolver. An hour later she was found unconscious by her sister-in-law. Her condition is serious.

Police and constables have been making a search for the assailant, but up to a late hour today, without success. The gag placed in Mrs. Kurtz's mouth, a red-bordered handkerchief with which she was chloroformed, and a necktie with which her wrists were tied, are the most important clues.

Mrs. Kurtz thinks her assailant was white from her recollection of the color of his hands, but the officers are working on the theory that he might have been a negro. His face was covered with a mask. He was about 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighed about 175 pounds and wore a dark suit and a stripped shirt.

Mrs. Kurtz is confined to bed, is at times delirious and the attending physicians are directing their efforts to prevent peritonitis. After the attack on her she was found an hour later by her sister-in-law.

One Place Vacated, New One Made.

HARRISBURG, July 12.—(Special.)—Capt. William J. George of Harrisburg was today re-elected chief clerk of the Soldiers' Orphan School commission. Miss Annie L. Boyer of Harrisburg, for many years clerk in the office of the commission, was notified that her place would be declared vacant after the summer vacation at the schools. Harry Holcomb of Philadelphia was elected financial clerk, a newly created position.

MINERS AND CONCILIATION BOARD HOLD SESSIONS

Scranton Coal Company Stands Ready to Pay Checkweighmen.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., July 12.—At this morning's session of the United Mine Workers' convention at Pittston a letter was read from General Manager May of the Erie company, addressed to the president of the convention, in which he said that his company was prepared to pay the checkweighmen, providing a majority of the employes would make an assignment of their wages. Nearly all the employes are union men and there is little doubt but that this will be done.

The miners' conciliation board met today. Two of the members, Messrs. Luther and Nicholls, were absent. The latter is presiding over the convention in Pittston and Mr. Luther has not yet returned from Europe.

The only matter passed upon by the board at the first session was the grievance of the employes of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company, in the Panther region, who claimed they had been discriminated against by the company. The men have since been reinstated in the positions formerly held by them, and the miners agreed to withdraw the grievance.

The board decided to visit Oak Hill colliery, in the Schuylkill region, and make an inspection in regard to the grievance of the employes, who state that they are compelled to take up "cab," better known as waste coal, without extra compensation. A resolution was passed asking information of several collieries in the Schuylkill region not operated by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company if they intended to follow the action of the Philadelphia and Reading company in agreeing to grant back pay, 10 per cent increase and a sliding-scale wage increase to the timber men and their helpers, in accordance with the award of the commission. The next meeting will take place in this city, either on the 15th or 16th of this month.

REPUBLICANS NAME TAGGART FOR JUDGE

COSHOCTON, O., July 12.—(Special.)—Hon. Frank Taggart of Wooster was nominated for circuit judge on the fourth ballot today at the Republican convention of the fifth judicial circuit in this city. His opponents were Attorney George Brinkerhoff of Mansfield and Judge Thomas F. Duncan of Mt. Gilead. Judge Voorhees of this city is the Democratic opponent of Judge Taggart. Last year the district, which is generally Democratic went Republican by nearly 4,000.

WILL KEEP PASTOR WHO DEBATED WITH TILLMAN

WASHINGTON, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion quarterly conference here today the congregation of Wright's chapel, by a unanimous vote asked Rev. Dr. Miles Frederick Alexander Easton to remain as pastor. Dr. Easton is well known throughout the country as a platform speaker, having achieved special prominence in a debate with Senator Tillman of South Carolina on the race question.

Suit to Recover $20,300 on Notes.

BUTLER, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Suit was entered today by Harry Stauffer, receiver of the Standard Trust Company, which failed last March, against C. D. Greenlee, president of the company and a widely known oil operator, for $20,300 claimed to be due on three notes given by Mr. Greenlee to the trust company. Greenlee says he does not owe the money, as the notes were signed merely as a precautionary measure to help the trust company when it had its first financial difficulty, caused by the closing of the Federal National bank of Pittsburgh.

MAN AND WIFE DROWN IN SWOLLEN STREAM

Cyclone Cavorts Down Cumberland Valley, Leaving Destruction in Its Wake.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PORTLAND, O., July 12.—Marshall Alger and wife of Wheeling, were drowned while attempting to ford Short creek, three miles east of this place this morning. Alger, who is a traveling salesman for a Wheeling shoe house, came up on the early train and secured a buggy to drive to several customers in the interior. The stream had been swollen from recent heavy rains, and the current was very swift. In the middle of the creek the buggy was overturned and the occupants were in such a position that the vehicle interfered with their efforts to save themselves. The body of Alger was recovered here this afternoon, and searching parties are looking for the body of his wife.

WASHINGTON, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—A cloudburst swept over the Hickory section today damaging property and drowning stock. Fred Retzer and his cousin, John Retzer, narrowly escaped death. They were crossing a bridge on the Chartiers creek just as the flood swept the bridge away, and with it the horses and men. The horses succeeded in getting out. Fred Retzer was rescued sinking several times.

CARLISLE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—This afternoon a cyclone passed over the Cumberland valley, causing damage to property and crops. Five barns were blown to splinters in the vicinity of Barnitz station. Along the Pennsylvania railroad dwelling houses were unroofed, trees were uprooted, and four coal cars of the Reading railroad were blown from the tracks. Buildings, telephone and telegraph wires are out of service.

SHOWMAN SPARKS LEFT NEARLY $100,000 ESTATE

BUTLER, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—The final account of Attorney A. C. Troutman, administrator of the estate of John Sparks, the showman, has been filed with Register J. P. Davis. It shows a balance of $86,116.73 in the hands of the administrator for distribution to the heirs. Sparks' wife and son. Sparks' correct name was John Wiseman. Two years ago he died from injuries inflicted by a pet lion at his winter quarters in North Carolina.

LITTLE BOY'S TORTURER GETS HER SENTENCE

SHARON, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Cora Bolan of Sharpsville, the 15-year-old colored girl sent to the Huntingdon reformatory for her implication in the torture and death of Willie Washington, aged 3 years, was taken into court yesterday and sentenced to the county jail for 18 months. James Washington, father of the boy, is now serving an 11-year sentence in prison. The boy was tortured by being placed on a redhot stove.

Sheet Scale Hangs Fire.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 12.—The sheet scale for the signature of the Youngstown Iron Sheet and Tube Company is in the hands of the mill committee, but neither President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association nor President James Campbell of the company knows why it has not been presented. Mr. Campbell denied that the company was ready to sign the scale, which is the one agreed to by the American Steel Hoop Company, saying that the independent sheet men had not agreed with the association on the differences between them.

Glassworkers in Session.

MARIETTA, O., July 12.—The twenty-seventh annual convention of the American Flint Glass Workers' union opened today with 400 delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada. Business sessions will continue two weeks.

LOADED FREIGHT CARS LIFTED FROM TRACKS

Terrific Wind Storm Does Much Damage to Buildings and Trees at Barnitz.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, July 12.—Three barns were demolished, six coal cars blown from the track and other damage done by a wind storm this afternoon at Barnitz, on the Philadelphia & Reading railroad, near Mt. Holly.

The orchard of Robert Stewart and many other trees in the vicinity were destroyed. A number of buildings were unroofed and hay stacks were blown over.

Two freight cars loaded with coal, standing upon a siding, were picked up by the wind and tossed beside the track. Several other empty flat cars and some empty box cars were also lifted from the rails and thrown on top of the coal. Nobody was injured.

NOMINATION IS CROOKED

Republican platform, but the nomination of Judge Parker virtually nullifies the anti-trust plank. Unless in his letter of acceptance he commits himself to attempt anti-trust legislation we need not expect him to pursue a different course from that pursued by President Roosevelt.

So far as the labor questions are concerned, we must wait Judge Parker's letter before we shall know whether the laboring man has anything to expect from his election. The labor plank as prepared by Judge Parker's friends on the sub-committee was a satisfactory plank. The three subsequent committee planks were adopted in favor of arbitration, the eight-hour day, and against government by injunction, also a plank on the Colorado situation. If Judge Parker is silent or ambiguous on these subjects it will mean that the financial influence back of him will not permit him to take the labor side on these disputed questions.

If the tariff question some little progress may be hoped for, but the Parker men on the committee were necessarily in favor of a very conservative tariff plank, and it remains to be seen whether Judge Parker will carry out the positive and definite plank which was submitted by the full committee.

Triumph of Wall Street.

This is the situation: Judge Parker stands for enough things that are good to justify me in giving him my vote, but, as I have tried to point out for several months, the triumph of the Wall street element of the party denies to the country any hope of reform on economic questions. I have nothing to take back. I have nothing to withdraw of the things I have said against the methods pursued to advance his candidacy. It was a bold and deliberate attempt to deceive the party. The New York platform was vague and meaningless, and purposely so because the advocates of Judge Parker were trying to secure votes from among the people who would not support the views had they known them. If he had sent to the Alton convention the telegram that he sent to the Louisville convention he would have had very little support in the convention, and no possible chance for the nomination. But he and his managers adroitly and purposely concealed his position until the delegates had left Chicago and the nomination secured. Then his friends attempted to secure a silver plank, which was overwhelmingly defeated in the committee. After the party had rallied over the harmony secured by the omission of the question, and after he had secured the nomination, he injected his views upon the subject at a time when he could not be taken from the ticket without great demoralization. The nomination was secured, therefore, by crooked and indefensible methods, but the Democrat who loves his country has to make his decisions upon conditions as he finds them, not upon conditions as he would like to have them.

After having stated that I shall support the ticket and after having given my reasons for so doing, I think it due to the Democrats of the nation to say that while the fight on economic questions is postponed, it is not abandoned. As soon as the election is over I shall, with the help of those who believe as I do, undertake a campaign of education for 1908, the object being to marshal the friends of popular government within the Democratic party to the support of a political and progressive policy to make the Democratic party an efficient means in the hands of the people for securing relief from the plutocratic element that controls the Republican party and for the time being is in control of the Democratic party. This plan of organization will be elaborated soon.

SAYS RODGERS SHOULD ACT.

Director Scandrett Denies Knowledge of Speak-Easy—Will See Judge Today.

Director Scandrett, of the Allegheny department of public safety, in answer to a notification from Judge Rodgers to the effect that evidence had been adduced in a trial before him of a speak-easy being conducted on East street, said last night:

"If the Valley Athletic club is a speak-easy, as Judge Rodgers alleged, I am not aware of the fact. I think if the judge has the evidence that it is a speak-easy, he should swear out the matter without notifying me. However, I shall appear before the judge in the morning and hear what he has to say about it."

Deaf Mute Boy Was Lost.

Julian Schultz, a 10-year-old deaf mute, was turned over to his relatives last evening at the South Side police station. His parents live in Elning street, Thirteenth ward. The lad was found at South Thirtieth and Carson streets late Monday night and it was not known who he was, as he could neither talk nor write.

STRIKE ENDS BEEF PACKING

not last longer than a day. The packers control the meat industry of the country with the exception of that in the Ohio valley. We have tied up all the big plants even more effectually than we had anticipated."

Of the wage question President Donnelly said:

"I wish to make it clear that we are not fighting for an increase, but against a decrease. We agreed to a scale of 18½ cents an hour except in Omaha and Sioux City, where the scale is 19 cents. The packers refused to pay more than 17½ cents an hour and declined to sign any agreements at all."

There is current an unconfirmed rumor that the packers are not averse to a continuation of the strike for a fortnight, believing that it would give them a good opportunity to dispose of a big stock of canned and cured meats at profitable prices.

Edward Morris, vice president of Nelson Morris & Co., said his firm had only a three or four days supply of fresh meat. "We shall of course attempt to conduct our business just as if there was no strike," he declared.

The most picturesque scene of the day was that afforded by over 1,000 girls who walked out of the sausage factories and canneries. "We're with you to the last," they cried, as they distributed themselves among the crowds of men who had preceded them. To prevent possible disorder lines of policemen were mobilized at the entrances of the buildings and along the streets as the strikers emerged. They had nothing to do.

MEAT WILL BE SCARCE IN THE TWO CITIES

Packing House Strike in the West Will Reduce Local Supply.

The strike of packing house employes in western cities means that nearly 90 per cent of Pittsburgh's fresh meat supply has been cut off. It means not only higher prices on the small amount of stock on hand, but no stock to see eventually.

The strike was felt in Diamond market yesterday. Butchers were not anxious to let go of their supply at usual prices, and best cuts commanded a higher range than usual. There is enough fresh meat en route from the western markets to supply the most of the demand for the rest of the week, but there may be very little meat for Pittsburghers next week.

People in this vicinity get their meat from Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis and Omaha, all of which markets are effected by the strike order. Secretary John Howley of the Pittsburgh Provision and Packing Company stated yesterday that although the strike will boost local prices, enough meat can be furnished through the local concern to satisfy the trade of Allegheny county. Retail butchers say no matter what relief is furnished through the provision company here, the strike will cut off such a large part of the local supply that prices will go higher than for many years. They also say that in all probability meat stands will have to close down because the stock on hand during the strike will be small and will be selling at prohibitive prices.

W. T. Bradley of the Diamond market, who was employed by different western packing houses for more than 10 years, said yesterday:

"If the strike lasts, prices on fresh meat will go higher here than for years, because best grades of live stock are now scarce and prices are high to begin with. There is not likely to be much local supply next week, from present indications. Meat-eaters here will apparently be dependent upon the Pittsburgh Provision Company and butchers in the immediate vicinity. Inasmuch as about 90 per cent of the supply comes from the four western cities, you can readily see what position both the buyer and seller will be placed in."

The body of a 16-year-old boy, supposed to be Robert Parker, was found in the Torrens yards near Dallas avenue, by a train crew last night and taken to the morgue. His body had been mangled by a train.

FATAL FIST FIGHTS.

Clarion County Has Just Witnessed Her Third in Ten Days.

OIL CITY, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Cash Furman of Strattonville, Clarion county, has surrendered himself to the sheriff of that county as the result of the death of Ora Sampson of that place, with whom he had engaged in a fist fight, Furman is 23 years old and Simpson was about the same age. The fight started at a dance. The coroner's inquest was held today and Furman was committed. An autopsy showed death was caused by a blow or kick in the solar plexus. This is the third fist fight that has terminated fatally in this section within 10 days. The skull of one of the victims was fractured by a blow, and the neck of the second was broken by a kick.

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

Philadelphia at Exposition Park.
Boston at Chicago
New York at Cincinnati
Brooklyn at St. Louis.

The heavy rain of early yesterday afternoon may have caused some disappointment to rooters who were anxious to see the Pirates take a fall out of the Quakers, but their sorrow was not shared by Manager Clarke, who was rather glad that the weather man had been at work again. The reason was that the Pirates' pitching corps is in anything but first-class shape, and Clarke figured that a day's rest at this time would do a lot of good. Of course the postponement means a double header on the occasion of the Phillies' next visit here, but that matters little as compared with present conditions.

There was a great deal of curiosity in local circles yesterday over the signing of Pitcher Case of the Three I league. Manager Clarke received a telegram from Case stating he would leave Springfield last night and arrive here today ready for work. Clarke, who watched Case pitch a couple of games, does not want to say much about the player, preferring to allow his work here to speak for itself. The new man is a big, husky fellow, built on the proper lines for a pitcher. Case played with the Chicago Nationals under "Biddy" McPhee, who was manager of the Reds, but he only pitched a couple of games, and while he showed the ear marks of a good pitcher, he was let out because he was thought he needed some experience in the minors. He has had that experience now and those who have seen him work say he is fast enough for the big leagues.

Case may work on Friday so that Flaherty can face the Giants in the opening game of the New York series on Saturday. This arrangement is subject to change without notice, as Manager Clarke may decide to use Flaherty and save Lynch for the New York game.

The Philadelphia club expects to be reinforced soon. President Potter took a flying trip from Philadelphia to Cincinnati on Monday for the release of Pitcher Jack Sutthoff from the Reds. Manager Kelley had more pitchers than he needed and was willing to part with Jack. Sutthoff has been pitching good ball lately, but he is a first-class pitcher and with the regular work that he will get with the Phillies should regain his form. Wolverton, the third baseman who has been out for several weeks on account of a broken finger, and Herman Long, the veteran shortstop recently signed, expect to get into the game here today.

The contractor who rebuilt the grand stand at Exposition Park this spring was at the grounds yesterday afternoon making an estimate on some extra seats in front of the grand stand. If he can arrange to complete the work in time he will build two sets of seats for the game with New York next Saturday.

A pitcher who has been doing fine work for an independent team in Ohio was recommended to Manager Clarke yesterday, but Clarke declined to give him a trial at this time. "We are striving to improve our position in the race and cannot afford to experiment," said he.

Eddie Phelps was much disheartened last night, but Dr. Berg said he would have to stay at home for a day or two longer.

President Harry Pulliam will be here this morning with his father, who has not been in this city since 1858. The president and his father will be at the game this afternoon.

Giants Won in the Tenth.

CINCINNATI, July 12.—An error by Gilbert allowed the Cincinnatis to tie the score in the ninth, a fast double play by Dahlen, Gilbert and McGann alone preventing the locals winning the game at this point. In the tenth the New Yorks made four hits off Hahn, while not a Cincinnati player reached first base. Attendance 3,440. Score:

BEATEN IN THE NINTH.

Waynesburg Made a Fine Finish Scoring Three Runs and Defeating Homestead.

WAYNESBURG, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Waynesburg made another Garrison finish today against Risher's Homestead champions. In the ninth inning with the score 3 to 1 against them, Kochert's Colts made three runs, winning out. Upp hit DeMoss the first batter, Kenney made a single, Moorehead got a walk, filling the bases; Zeller hit a single scoring DeMoss; Patton batted for Brown, making a double and winning the game. The feature was the work of Zeller, Waynesburg's new pitcher. Today's game gives Waynesburg two out of three with Homestead. Score:

BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER.

W. H. Duff Beats J. D. Duff in Golf Finals at Edgewood.

The Fourth of July tournament at the Edgewood Golf club was concluded on Monday of this week, when W. H. Duff defeated his brother, J. D. Duff in the finals for the president's cup offered by W. G. Gordon. The winner played a fast game, but was held down to the narrow margin of a hole at the end of play. On Friday Edgewood's team will go to Ligonier to play the Hermitage Golf club's team.

The semi-finals of the eighteen hole event at the Edgeworth club on Saturday night proved such a success in every way that it has been decided to hold similar contests about every fortnight. The two cups offered in Saturday night's competition were won by Miss Leach and John E. Porter respectively. Miss Leach, whose home is in Erie, is now visiting in Sewickley. One of the next important golfing events at the club will be a woman's tournament for a very handsome trophy offered by E. A. Woods.

Phil Casey Is Dead.

NEW YORK, July 12.—(Special.)—Phil Casey, retired handball champion of the world, trainer of John L. Sullivan, and one of the best known sporting men in this city, died at his home in Brooklyn today. Casey was unmarried and lived with his sister, Mrs. Wallace. He was born in Ireland about 60 years ago and early learned the game in which he afterward excelled.

Clark Will Pitch for Johnstown.

WOOSTER, O., July 12.—(Special.)—Harvey Clark of this city, who was the star pitcher for Birmingham (Ala.) and who jumped his contract last week because he would not submit to what he considered an unjust fine, this afternoon attached his signature to a contract with Johnstown for the rest of the season.

Double Play Saved the Game.

ALTOONA BALL GAME NEARLY ENDED IN RIOT

People Crowded on Field and Prevented Penn Park Players from Mobbing Umpire.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ALTOONA, July 12.—(Special.)—Timely interference was the only thing that stopped the game between Altoona and Penn Park teams from nearly concluding their game in a riot at Columbia park this afternoon. The back talk to Umpire Froud by Eustace, Bagley and Smith became so intense that they were ordered from the field and the game was awarded to the locals. Spectators took possession of the field and prevented the mobbing of players who wanted to start a movement leading toward an assault on the umpire. Score:

"GOLDEN RULE" JONES IS DEAD

City of Toledo Mourns Her Beloved and Big-Hearted Mayor.

HE HELD SOCIALISTIC IDEALS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

TOLEDO, July 12.—Mayor Samuel M. Jones, who has been ill for several weeks, died a few minutes after 5 o'clock this afternoon. Members of his family were gathered about the bedside when the end came, but the mayor did not rally from the state of unconsciousness in which he had lain for 48 hours. Death was not unexpected, as the physicians abandoned hope several days ago. As a final recourse an operation was performed Monday afternoon, and saline solutions were used, but all the efforts to save him failed. For the last 24 hours of his life his temperature had been at 104 and his pulse from 125 to 146.

The immediate cause of Mayor Jones' death was an abscess on his lungs. When this abscess broke the mayor was not strong enough to throw off the poison from his system. He had suffered for years from asthma, and this was the primary cause of his fatal illness. His death has caused the greatest sorrow all over the city. Although many did not believe in his ideas on sociological problems, everybody loved and respected him. His one great stronghold with the people of Toledo was his honesty. He leaves a widow and three sons—Percy, Paul and Mason Jones. He will be succeeded as mayor by Robert Finch, president of the city council.

Samuel Milton Jones, called "Golden Rule" Jones because he held that precept to contain the fullest religion and philosophy of life, was one of the most picturesque characters the United States has known in later days. Although intensely American in spirit, he was a foreigner by birth, having been born near Bedlgelert, North Wales, August 2, 1846. Brought to this country when a child, he was forced by the poverty of his parents to go to work at a very early age, and he found employment in the oil fields of Pennsylvania. Mastering the business, he became an oil producer in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, and finally settled in Toledo. He invented an improved oil well appliance, and established the Toledo Acme Sucker Rod Company, into which he introduced many reforms in labor conditions.

Besides his other unusual qualities, Mr. Jones was a musician and writer of no mean ability, and it is said that he sang himself into office with one of his own songs, "Divide Up the Day." This was in 1897, when he was a candidate for mayor of Toledo, and the song became a great campaign hit.

Having been elected on the Republican ticket, Mayor Jones succeeded himself in office on an independent platform in 1899, 1901 and 1903. In 1899 he made a remarkable stumping tour of Ohio in an automobile. In 1900 he was a non-partisan candidate, by petition, for governor of Ohio, but was defeated.

Jones' cardinal doctrines, upon which he incessantly wrote and spoke, were municipal ownership of franchises, direct legislation, an eight-hour day for the laboring classes, and the theory that the people should nominate their own candidates for all offices by free petition, without conventions, delegates or primaries. In 1900 he voted for Bryan, and urged the working people to support his candidacy.

Apart from his other activities, Mr. Jones founded what is known as "Golden Rule" Park in Toledo, where open air meetings for speechmaking and music are held in summer, and the Golden Rule hall, for the same purpose in winter. He always paid good wages to his employes, and at the end of every year gave to each of them a check, ranging in amount from 5 to 10 per cent of the yearly earnings of the worker.

It is also said that Mayor Jones also gave to the poor, in a quiet and unostentatious way, fully five times as much money as he received in salary as mayor every year, and on one occasion gave his personal check for a large amount to meet city bonds in Toledo. He was the author of several characteristic poems, one called "God Pity the Idlers," and of essays called "The Brotherhood of Man," "The New Right," "Letters of Love and Labor," and other works on political and economic subjects.

In 1878, Mr. Jones was married to Alma Bernice Curtiss, of Pleasantville, Pa. After her death he was married in 1892.

The remains of Mayor Jones will lie in state at Memorial hall on Thursday and Friday, until noon, and the funeral services will be held at the residence on Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The remains will rest on the veranda, and the addresses will be made from the veranda. The pallbearers will be selected from his employes.

Imprisoned in Cafe.

Maggie Burns, a domestic employed in the restaurant of Joseph Rosso, at 238 Diamond street, was a prisoner in that place last night for almost two hours. Policeman Edward Mannion and a crowd of men tried to liberate the woman for about an hour when some one suggested to send for the proprietor, which was done and the woman was set at liberty. Rosso thought the girl had gone home when he locked up.

Dr. J. P. Kerr Elected.

Dr. J. P. Kerr, a prominent physician of the South Side, was elected by the faculty of the West Penn Medical college yesterday, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Dr. J. Milton Duff of Fifth avenue, Bellefield. Dr. Kerr will be professor of obstetrics and lecturer on gynecology. Dr. Kerr has been a member of the staff of the South Side hospital for several years.

Carnival Queen Elected.

Voting for a queen of the McKeesport carnival closed yesterday and Miss Emma Jack was announced to have been elected by 21,017 votes. Miss Nellie Geffner received 19,400 votes and will receive the second prize of $25. Miss Jack will be crowned queen today and will receive the first prize of $100 in gold, or her expenses paid to the St. Louis exposition.

Hay Fever Unknown.

Certain it is, and many years of careful experience are back of the statement, that hay fever, and kindred annoying and troublesome summer affections, distressing to so many thousands all over the country, recurring regularly as July and August, are absolutely unknown in the "Highlands of Ontario." Thousands of people go to Muskoka, Georgian Bay or the Lake of the Bays every year for nothing else but to avoid hay fever, and find perfect immunity from the ailment, and many by going there regularly for a period of a few years are said to be permanently cured.

Hay fever booklet can be had free for the asking, by applying to W. Robinson, traveling passenger agent, Grand Trunk railway, 306 Park building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

LAWYER FUGITIVE IS ARRESTED HERE

T. Julius Schaumloeffel of Baltimore Is Captured by Detective After Struggle.

IS SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS

Attorney T. Julius Schaumloeffel, wanted in Baltimore on a charge of embezzling about $30,000, was arrested at Sixth avenue and Cherry alley last night by Detective Thomas F. Hogan of Baltimore and Policeman John Kennedy of this city. The arrest was made after a deperate struggle. Detective Hogan only overpowered his man by hitting him on the head with the butt of his revolver.

At the Central police station the prisoner gave his name as A. G. Edel aged 32, and said he was stopping at the Metropole hotel, Fourth avenue. The prisoner has been indicted by the grand jury at Baltimore and will be taken back to that city when the requisition papers arrive. Had it not been for the timely arrival of Policeman Kennedy, Detective Hogan would have shot his prisoner.

The detective had dodged after the fugitive to Washington, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, always to find he was a few hours late. Finally the detective came to Pittsburgh to find that the attorney had tried to enlist in the army.

Made Many Excuses.

When Schaumloeffel was arrested he agreed to accompany the officer to the station house, but asked the detective to go to the hotel, as he wanted to get some papers. Hogan agreed, but the fugitive made several pretenses to get out of the detective's sight. Finally the officer said he must go to the station house. At Smithfield street and Sixth avenue the prisoner became unruly.

"I don't think you are man enough to take me to the station house," said the prisoner.

"Oh, yes, I am," answered the officer.

At Cherry alley and Sixth avenue the attorney struck Detective Hogan in the face with his fist, sending the officer reeling against the wall. Detective Hogan drew his revolver and dealt his prisoner a blow over the head, knocking him down. Policeman Kennedy was passing at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street and noticing the struggle hurried to the scene. Detective Hogan was being overpowered when the officer arrived. It was probably the presence of Policeman Kennedy that saved Schaumloeffel's life, for the detective was about to shoot him when the officer came. The prisoner says he will fight against requisition papers.

Showed Wonderful Nerve.

A special telegram to The Gazette from Baltimore says:

T. Julius Schaumloeffel, who is supposed to be Edel, was, up to the time he absconded about four weeks ago, a prominent lawyer here. He disappeared suddenly, leaving a wife and family, after charges had been preferred against him before a police magistrate. Following his disappearance he was indicted by the grand jury upon the charge of forgery and embezzlement in a bogus deed conveying a lot of ground from Charles H. Pitter to Harrison Pflinder, dated July 20, 1901. Other warrants followed upon charges of misappropriation of trust funds and of several thousand dollars of building association funds.

During all this Schaumloeffel, with wonderful nerve, had been dodging the police in both Baltimore and Washington, spending two weeks in and between the two cities, with the detectives always just too late to capture him. Action was begun in the circuit court here to have him removed from two trusteeships, and this furnished a sensation by the filing of an answer by Schaumloeffel by mail from Washington denying the charges against him. It was learned later that he had shaved off his moustache, gone before a Washington notary and attested the paper. The court removed him as trustee in each case.

Since then the police have several times missed him by just a few minutes, he having even come back to Baltimore again on one occasion. The total of his peculations are not definitely known, but will aggregate probably $30,000.

DIDN'T GET REVOLVERS.

Detectives Arrest Three Men Before the Guns Were Delivered.

"Send seven Smith & Wesson revolvers to 1470 Fifth avenue and we will have a check there for you."

This telephone message was received by the Logan-Gregg Hardware Company, 125 Seventh street, yesterday afternoon. The message appeared suspicious, so the police were notified and two detectives sent to 1470 Fifth avenue.

When a boy with the revolvers reached the place, he was told no such order had been telephoned from there. The boy started down the street and was approached by three men. As the men were about to take the package the detectives placed them under arrest. The prisoners gave their names as Frank Harney, aged 17, of 721 Forbes street, J. Hood Helbinger, aged 18, of this city, and James Conon, 1635 Tustin street.

When searched three check books were found on Harney. He also had a check drawn in favor of the hardware company for $70.56, the price of the revolvers. The check was signed by W. L. Klingelhofer and was on the Washington National bank. It was learned there was no such an account at that bank. The other check books were for the First National bank of Pittsburgh and the German Savings bank.

May Now Sue in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 12.—The corporation treaty between the United States and Russia, negotiated by Ambassador McCormick was formally promulgated today. The treaty provides that America and Russia corporations may sue in the courts of both Russia and the United States. Previous to the promulgation of the treaty, American concerns could be sued in Russia, but could not bring suit in that country.

Says He Pawned the Ring.

Michael Cutter was held for court in $300 bail on a charge of larceny by Magistrate Stewart yesterday morning. An hour earlier he had been fined $15 and costs for fighting. Edith Bevilaqua, who conducts a fruit stand at the south terminal of the Smithfield street, alleges she gave Cutter a $30 diamond ring which he refused to return. He says he pawned it.

Permits Required for Diamond.

James Gardner, superintendent of Washington park playground, the old Bedford basin, has provided space for two baseball diamonds, a pole vault, basket ball field and 100-yard running course. He has established a rule whereby the diamonds cannot be used unless by permit, which will be issued daily. This is to avoid contention.

Herbert to Remain in America.

Word was received here yesterday from Victor Herbert emphatically denying the rumor that he would abandon his orchestra and go abroad to devote his entire time in composing. The leader states that he has closed many contracts for the coming season and that all will be filled.

Money Required for Cathedral.

It is estimated that $225,000 is still needed to complete and furnish the interior of St. Paul's cathedral, which is to be under roof on August 1. It is the desire of the bishop to dedicate the building free of debt. The exterior of the building will cost $800,000.

Youths Arrested for House Breaking.

George Burgett, Clarence Wosheater, Louis and Joseph Eskins of Munhall were arrested yesterday and taken before Justice Miller of Homestead on charges of house breaking preferred by Robert Heywood of Munhall. The prisoners are youths.

COMBES ORDERS BISHOPS TO REMAIN IN FRANCE

Cites Provision of Concordat Against Summary Command from Vatican.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, July 12.—The Matin today says that eight days after the recall of M. Nisard, former French ambassador at the vatican, a number of French bishops received an order from Cardinal Vannutelli, acting for the vatican, to tender their resignations by return mail. The bishops, it is added, consulted the minister of public worship and Premier Combes, who directed them not to tender their resignations, on the ground that the concordat required the assent of the state before removals were enforced. Thereafter the papal secretary of state, Cardinal Merry Del Val, threatened the bishops with the termination of their episcopal powers unless they came to Rome within 15 days. This, also, was submitted to M. Combes, who forbade the bishops leaving their posts. The Matin asserts that the dismissal of the bishops without consulting the government's wishes will be considered as a formal renunciation of the relations between church and state.

Bishop Geay of Laval was asked to forward his resignation; Bishop Nordez of Dijon was directed to suspend the performance of his episcopal functions, and four archbishops and two bishops were directed to come to Rome, namely, Archbishops Fuzet of Rouen; Migot of Albi; Sueur of Avignon, and Cury of Algiers, and Bishops LaCroix of Tarentaise and Hoquet of Mende.

The cabinet has formulated a protest which will be forwarded to the vatican. An answer has been received in the case of Bishop Geay, the vatican maintaining that it was a disciplinary measure not intended to contest the state's rights under the concordat.

DID THRIFTY BUSINESS IN SALE OF TITLES

Pommeranian Bank Scandal Brings Out Charges Against German Court Officials.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, July 12.—The Pommeranian bank scandal, so often mentioned in the German papers recently, has brought out the fact that a number of high officials of the German court make a large income for themselves by dealing in orders and titles. To protect themselves, they do not sell orders outright, but arrange it so that the men, after having paid them a large amount of money, are decorated for arranging great charitable affairs, or for giving money to Berlin churches.

Count Gersdorff, a member of a very prominent aristocratic family, in 1894, when he was closely connected with the court, is said to have organized a most lucrative business for himself through a Berlin agent who sent out circulars to German nobles known to have social ambitions. Documents have been found which show that Count Gersdorff sold the title of counsellor of commerce to a well known German dairyman named Bolle. Mr. Bolle was told to donate a stained glass window, valued at 3,000 marks, to a church in Lichterfelde, and, furthermore, to deposit 60,000 marks in a Berlin bank, and not to try to find out afterwards what became of them. The dairyman gladly consented and promptly received his title.

There is now evidence which shows that out of the 60,000 marks, Count Gersdorff and his Berlin business agent each received 10,000, while the remaining 40,000 went to a member of the imperial family, known for his dissipation.

Penn Bridge Co. Gets Contracts.

HARRISBURG, July 12.—(Special.)—The Penn Bridge Company of Beaver Falls has been awarded contracts for the construction of state bridges at Moravia, Lawrence county; Sharpsville, Mercer county, three in Wayne county and one in Lackawanna county. The King Bridge Company of Cleveland was given the contract to build a bridge at Danville and the Pennsylvania Steel Company to build one at Ulster, Bradford county.

State Official Arrested at Cripple Creek.

CRIPPLE CREEK, COL., July 12.—Deportations continue to be made by the military authorities. Eleven Italians and Austrians, arrested soon after their arrival at Victor, were sent away on the next train. State Boiler Inspector Taylor was arrested when coming into the district, but was released after he explained his official business.

Cave-in Threatens Homes.

WILKESBARRE, July 12.—The residents at Mill Creek, a mining village a few miles from here, are greatly alarmed over an extended mine cave, which was first discovered on Saturday last. Today the surface settled so rapidly that it is now feared it may extend to many of the miners' homes in the vicinity and engulf them. The cave is about 300 feet long and 60 feet wide.

ATLANTIC CITY IS MUSIC MAD

Scores of Brass Bands Brought by Shriners Playing Medleys of Soul Stirring Airs.

HARRISBURG STARTS FIGHT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Young's Ocean Pier.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12.

There are in the city more than 25,000 members of the Mystic Shrine. Everything on the boardwalk is swamped. There are in the city Shriners from every large city in the country, each of them has a brass band, and they are all playing different selections at the same time.

The real struggle in the convention tomorrow promises to be upon the establishment of a shrine at Harrisburg. William J. Richardson, keeper of the state arsenal at Harrisburg, will advocate its establishment. He will be opposed by the Reading shrine, as well as by the three from the western part of Pennsylvania.

On the other hand, the Lu Lus of Philadelphia will support Mr. Richardson's fight. The membership of the leader temples is as follows:

Lu Lu of Philadelphia draws from 11 commanderies with a membership of 4,749; Syria of Pittsburgh, from 13 commanderies with a membership of 4,201; Zem Zem of Erie, nine commanderies with a membership of 1,246; Jappa of Altoona, 11 commanderies, 1,350 members; Irena of Wilkesbarre, 17 commanderies, 2,001 members; Rajah of Reading, 17 commanderies, 2,401 members.

It is stated that the Rajahs will combat the idea of establishing the shrine at Harrisburg on the ground that it will reduce their membership materially.

Pittsburghers at the Dennis include Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Hicks, H. A. Hicks and Lewis W. Hicks, Jr.

Joseph Zimmerman is at the Belmont.

Noticed on the boardwalk today were Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, W. S. McClure and D. H. Pollock, Jr.

Mrs. J. B. Sprague and Miss M. F. Kent are at the Seaside house.

Miss Prima Hayes is at the Ponce de Leon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cherky are at the Kilcourse.

SENATOR STINEMAN WILL BE GIVEN RE-NOMINATION

ALTOONA, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—The Republican senatorial conference of the Thirty-fifth district of Pennsylvania, consisting of Blair and Cambria counties, has been called to convene at Hollidaysburg next Thursday afternoon. Senator Jacob C. Stineman, who has held the position for the last eight years, is to be accorded a renomination by acclamation. A large number of leading Blair and Cambria Republicans are going to assemble at the convention, not only for the purpose of heading an old-time Republican rally, but also to extend congratulations to Senator Stineman, who is certain to be re-elected by a substantial majority.

JEWISH CHAUTAUQUA MEETS AT ATLANTIC CITY

The Rev. Abram Simon of Washington, Discusses the Confirmation Curriculum.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 12.—The Rev. Abram Simon of Washington, D. C., discussed the confirmation curriculum at the session of the Jewish Chautauqua assembly this morning. In keeping, he said, with the Sabbath school curriculum presented by him at the last Chautauqua, he elaborated the confirmation scheme; its work was so designed that all the previous year's instructions were considered as necessary steps in the religious and educational growth to the spiritual climax to the confirmation class. He contended thereby that the confirmation class curriculum should be intimately and organically connected with all the year's preceding work, but from a higher perspective.

The confirmation program was then taken up as follows: First "God in nature;" second, "God in Jewish history;" third, "God in the Bible;" fourth, "God in personal life;" fifth, "God in universal history."

Rabbi Simon made it clear that answering the various questions with a creed incident would form a confirmation manual which he thought would be acceptable to reform Israel.

The third lecture of the series was given by Prof. Max L. Garlois of the University of California.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Berkowitz of Philadelphia presided at the session at which Rabbi Simon spoke. The subject was discussed by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Stolz of Chicago; the Rev. Dr. B. Glueck of Newark, N. J., and Miss Ella Jacobs of Philadelphia. W. C. LITTLE.

SOCIETY

QUIETLY and with only immediate relatives and a few intimate friends in attendance, the marriage of Miss Eva A. Thompson, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Thompson of Lehigh avenue, East End, and John G. Mackay was solemnized yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. B. Starkey in the new home of the bride and bridegroom, in Millvale avenue, Shadyside. Miss Jessie Harper played the wedding march from Lohengrin and the bridal party included a half-sister of the bride, Miss Florence Stocker, and Miss Charlotte Nicholson as bridesmaids; Murray Mackay, a brother-in-law of the bridegroom, as best man, and Norman Franklin Savage, the groomsman.

The bride wore a simple gown of white India lawn and Valenciennes lace and carried a cluster of white sweet peas. Her only ornament was an exquisite necklace of gold set with amethysts and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. The two maids were also in white, with sashes of pink satin, and they carried bouquets of pink sweet peas. After an informal reception the wedding breakfast was served, the bridal party occupying one large table, at which covers were laid for 12, the other guests including Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Thompson, the bride's mother; Mrs. Caroline Denny Nicholson, Mrs. Martha Lowry, Mrs. Joseph Reilly of St. Joseph, Mo.; Miss Jessie Harper and William Mackay.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackay will spend their honeymoon in the north. The bride is a member of old southern family, while the bridegroom comes of distinguished Scotch ancestors. The bouquet which the bride threw from the staircase as she was leaving to prepare for her wedding trip was caught by Miss Eleanor Dorrington Austin.

To Join Several House-Parties.

Mrs. Henry Balken and her daughter, Miss Harriet Balken, returned last week from the east, where Mrs. Balken went to see her daughter graduate from Ogontz. Later they visited Atlantic City and made several visits before coming home. On Friday of this week Miss Harriet Balken goes to Oil City to be the guest of Miss Ruth Brundred, who was a school friend at Ogontz. Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Brundred will have a house party of young people, friends of their daughter and their sons, who are college men. The engagement of their elder daughter, Miss Elizabeth Brundred, to John Barbour, Jr., of Detroit was announced at Ogontz at the close of the house party which they were giving then.

After returning from Oil City, where she will remain about 10 days, Miss Balken is going to Bethlehem, N. H., to be the guest of Mrs. George A. Macbeth and the Misses Macbeth at their summer home in the White Mountains. The Macbeths left early in June for Bethlehem.

Returns From Europe.

Mrs. Edward Quimby, who has been living for the past two years in Dresden is expected to arrive in New York this morning on the Barbarossa, having sailed from Hamburg on Saturday, July 2. Mrs. Quimby will spend a few weeks in New York with her son, and then spend a little time with her niece, Mrs. George C. Smith at her summer home in Barnardsville, N. J. Later in the season she will come to Pittsburgh to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Samuel Severence, Jr.

A fellow passenger on the Barbarossa was Samuel F. Cole of Sewickley, who is returning from a visit to his brother, Cheries Cole of Pittsburgh, who is American consul in Dresden. Mrs. Samuel Cole and her daughters went on Monday night to New York to meet Mr. Cole. They only returned Monday morning from Denver Col., where they visited Mrs. William Miller, Mrs. Cole's sister, and a former Pittsburgh woman.

A Recent Bride the Guest of Honor.

Mrs. James Littell Black gave a delightful fancy-work party yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Louis Layton Banks, a recent bride, whose interesting wedding on Tuesday last caused a change in the plans of the hostess, who received in the parlors, which were prettily decorated with pink sweet peas. Mrs. Banks received with her and assisting were Mrs. Thomas Watters, Mrs. Clara Wilson Banks, Mrs. William Alexander Banks and Mrs. James Scott. During the afternoon Miss May Shrom, a sister of the bride, gave a pretty number of songs. The entertainment was very informal and the decorations were simple, but effective. In the library were crimson garden roses, while in the dining room a huge punch bowl was filled with yellow daisies wreathed with maidenhair ferns.

Wedding at Washington.

WASHINGTON, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—At the home of the bride's parents here tonight the marriage of Miss Margaret Lulu Robinson and Lawrence Robinson Stewart of Washington, took place. The grooms father, the Rev. William G. Stewart of Wilmerding officiated. The attendants were Miss Mary Dorothy Robinson, sister of the bride, maid of honor, and Gilbert Wright Stewart of Wilmerding, the groom's brother, best man. An informal reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left tonight on a short honeymoon in the east.

Meeting Postponed.

The regular monthly meeting of the managers of the Boys' Industrial home in Oakdale, which was to have been held yesterday, was postponed until further notice because the rains during the past few weeks have torn up the grounds and caused a great deal of damage to the place it was decided to postpone the meeting until much of the damage could be repaired as the managers wish to hold their meeting at the home and inspect the place. It is also hoped that the amount due on the mortgage on the farm may be raised before the meeting which will then be in the nature of a celebration of that event. The meeting will be held within two weeks.

Now in Holland.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Donnell of Coleman lane, East End, who sailed from New York June 11 for a summer in Europe, are now in Holland. They are leisurely traveling through the picturesque little country and will continue through Germany, France, Switzerland and the other continental countries before returning to Pittsburgh in October. Their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Donnell, is with them.

Groom Was Alleghenian.

SALEM, O., July 12.—(Special.)—Many from Pittsburgh and Allegheny were among the guests at the wedding today of Miss Mabel C. Test and H. Crult Scott, the latter of Allegheny. The ceremony took place at the country home of the bride's parents, near Salem, Mr. and Mrs. John Test.

Porch Euchre in the East End.

Mrs. W. W. Dickey of Fairmount avenue entertained yesterday afternoon in honor of her cousin, Miss Van Buskirk. The game was euchre, which was played on the masses as long as the weather permitted.

Gone to Magnolia.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wood of Ellsworth avenue, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Margaret Wood, and Joseph Wood, Jr., left on Sunday evening for New York, going to Magnolia, Mass., on Monday. They have taken a small cottage there.

Going Abroad for August.

Mr. and Mrs. Hew C. Torrance of Brushton avenue will sail for Europe on Saturday, July 23, intending to spend August and September abroad.

ALL GROCERS AND D

ALL IN READINESS FOR BIG PICNIC

Record-Breaking Crowd Expected at Festival for Benefit of Orphans.

WOMEN HAVE BEEN BUSY

With the prospect of feeding over 40,000 persons during the St. Paul orphans picnic, which opens today at Calhoun park, the army of women having this important department in charge spent yesterday cooking and baking. Truck cars, furnished free by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, will this morning begin the delivery at the park of supplies received from all sections of Allegheny county.

People who have been striving for the last six weeks to make the orphans picnic a greater success than ever before remained at Calhoun park until last midnight getting things ready for the thousands of visitors expected at the park today. The natural and artificial drainage of the park gives assurance that visitors will have little to fear from damp grounds.

The prize list this year surpasses all former ones, beginning with an automobile and including a $600 building lot, several valuable diamond rings and free trips to the St. Louis exposition and Atlantic City. Several surprises are in store for the visitors at the picnic and the committees promise they will be startling. Women in charge of the coffee booths will probably be the most active workers at the park, as each booth claims it will have better coffee than any other on the grounds.

The 900 little children of St. Paul's orphan asylum will be given their annual trolley ride of 15 miles this morning. The children will board the cars at the orphan asylum, in Idlewood, and in Pittsburgh the cars will be switched to the division leading to Calhoun park. Through the efforts of Patrick Dolan, president of the Pittsburgh district of the United Mine Workers, fully 6,000 miners will attend the picnic, and Robert C. Lawrence, known throughout the mining districts as the miner humorist, has been secured to entertain the people. The miners are greatly interested in the orphans' picnic because of the part taken by the Rev. Father Michael Lynch, manager of St. Paul's asylum, at the time of the Harwick mine disaster.

HELD SERVICES AT TOMB OF HAMILTON

Impromptu Commemoration of the Great Statesman's Tragic Death.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 12.—Twenty-five persons stood beside the tomb of Alexander Hamilton in old Trinity churchyard, at noon today, the hundredth anniversary of his death, while a brief memorial service was conducted. The service was not in the regular prearranged plan, and it was not until after the few who gathered had stood about the tomb for an hour that one man suggested the holding of the service.

Albert E. Walker, a lawyer, after waiting for him, called the sexton of Trinity church, and asked him if a service was to be conducted. He was informed that the church authorities knew nothing of a service to be conducted. On hearing this, Mr. Walker requested permission to hold a brief service, and his request was granted.

Returning to the Hamilton tomb, on the rectory side of the yard, and calling together those about the Hamilton plot, Mr. Walker made a few remarks. As soon as the speaker began all the lower floor windows in the Trinity rectory filled with clerks, while many young women who were spending the noon hour joined the group.

He was followed by the Rev. Dean Richmond Rebbitt of the church of the Epiphany. The Rev. Dr. Baldwin also spoke five minutes on Hamilton and closed with prayer. This ended the service. Among those present was E. S. Aleshire of West Virginia, a great-grandson of Hamilton.

Supreme Court Sustains the Foot-Ease Trade Mark.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Justice Laughlin in supreme court has granted a permanent injunction with costs against Paul B. Hudson and others of New York City, restraining them from making and selling a foot powder which the court declares is an imitation and infringement on "Foot-Ease" now so largely advertised and sold over the country. The owner of the trade-mark "Foot-Ease," is Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y., and the decision in this suit upholds his trade-mark and renders all parties liable who fraudulently attempt to profit by the extensive "Foot-Ease" advertising, in placing on the market the spurious and similar appearing preparation involved in the case. This the court declares was designed in imitation and infringement of the genuine "Foot-Ease." Similar suits will be brought against others who are now infringing on the Foot-Ease trade-mark rights.

EARLY AGREEMENT WILL SOON END RATE WAR

Statement of Failure of Negotiations in United States Is Denied.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, July 12.—The Associated Press is authorized by one of the representatives of the steamship lines which participated in the conference with the president of the board of trade, Gerald Balfour, in regard to the trans-Atlantic rate war, to deny the report circulated in the United States that the negotiations have failed.

"You can say," he added, "that the negotiations are proceeding with every chance of an early agreement.

It is proposed to assert the old emigrant rate in an informal agreement. Until the agreement is signed the $10 rate will continue. Director General Ballin of the Hamburg-American line, left London today for Berlin, but is to will return soon to London for a further and probably final conference.

STOCK MARKET BROADENED AND CLOSED VERY FIRM

Steel Preferred, Pennsylvania and the Pacifics Leaders in the Advance—River Coal Preferred Dividend Was Deferred.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The transactions in the New York stock market yesterday were not so large as last Wednesday, when the revival of activity became pronounced, but in many respects yesterday's market was broader and more encouraging from a bull standpoint than for many months. Steel preferred may be said to have been the leader of the improvement, closely followed by Pennsylvania and the Pacifics, with Reading showing a very strong tone and reaching the highest price of the year. The basis for the general improvement was no doubt the detailed government report on the crops. Not only is the condition of corn high for the season, but the acreage is nearly 2% per cent larger than last year, and the indicated yield is 2,537,000,000 bushels, which is larger than the best crop ever harvested. In Kansas, where the chief damage by winter wheat by last week's floods is reported, the corn acreage is 2 per cent larger than last year, and the condition is also higher. The week's bulletin of the weather bureau reported vigorous growth for corn, and altogether this great money crop promises to more than offset any loss through bad winter wheat harvests.

Another influence bearing upon the market was the publication of a statement that the quarterly report of the United States Steel Corporation would show profits in excess of $19,250,000, and that the directors had practically agreed upon the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock on July 26. This, of course, was unofficial, but the announcement was made so emphatically as to suggest that someone who had access to the official figures had given out the information. Six weeks or two months ago the estimates of earnings ranged between $16,000,000 and $17,000,000. An incident which added in the acceptance of the higher estimate of yesterday was the publication of the official half-year statement of the H. B. Claflin Company. This showed profits in excess of the total for the corresponding period of last year. This corporation's affairs are often taken as a measure of the condition of mercantile lines generally. The latter, from advance indications, has been less favorable than last year, and yet the official report of the business of a representative concern shows that actual results were better than last year. If this is true of mercantile trade, may it not prove true of the iron and steel industries? This was the Wall street view of the situation.

At the opening of the market there were no signs that it would subsequently broaden out as it did in the afternoon. During the morning session the sales were smaller than on Monday, and the entire list of opening higher, and in the afternoon, however, there was a decided change in the tone of the market. United States Steel took the lead, and the preferred just before the close reached 90, the highest price since last April. The stock closed at the top, a net gain for the day being 1¾ per cent, or more than the fractional part of the quarter's full dividend. The sinking fund bonds advanced to 78½ and also closed at the top. Some of the minor iron and steel stocks were also strong and higher, notably Pressed Steel Car, which rose 2¾ to close at 29½ for the common and to 74½ for the preferred. Amalgamated Copper was something of a laggard, declining to 59⅝, but it subsequently rallied a point and closed at 61½.

The fractions were active and irregular, Metropolitan opened at 114¾, advanced to 117, declined to 114⅜, advanced to 116⅜ and closed at 115⅞. Brooklyn Rapid Transit, after selling down to 49⅛, rallied to 50⅜ at the close.

The display of strength in Pennsylvania was regarded as significant as that in Steel preferred, in both of which it was thought there was active covering of shorts. Pennsylvania opened at 117½ and, after reacting to 117¼, advanced steadily until the close, when it reached 119. Reading was also very active and strong, advancing to 52½. Baltimore & Ohio hesitated during the greater part of the day, but late in the session advanced to 83¾ and closed at 83 bid.

Union Pacific was the strongest of the western railroad stocks, advancing 2¾ per cent from its low point of the day to 83¾, closing right at the top. Southern Pacific rose to 49⅜. After the market closed a report gained currency that the decision in the Northern Securities case was likely to be handed down today and would be favorable to the Hardman interests. Atchison made a fine rally, and St. Paul advanced to 140¾, the highest on this movement. The market closed active and buoyant.

There was an increase in business on the Pittsburgh stock exchange, but more than half the total sales consisted of Crucible Steel. The common stock was active and strong, advancing to and closing at 5⅛. United States Steel preferred followed the advance in that stock in the east and closed 1 per cent higher for the day. River Coal was not affected by the action of the directors in deferring the declaration of a dividend until the close of the fiscal year, October 31 next. Pittsburgh Coal preferred declined to 58 and closed at 58⅛ bid. Westinghouse Airbrake declined to 127¼, while Electric remained unchanged at 78⅝. There was no change in bonds.

River Coal Dividend Deferred.

At a meeting of the directors of the Monongahela River Coal Company yesterday the following was adopted by a unanimous vote of the board:

Whereas: The unprecedented weather conditions of the six months ending May 1, 1904, were such as to greatly affect the business of this company for a period of nearly four months, and in addition thereto, to cause losses, by flood and ice, which, accurately stated, amount to $457,000. And whereas, conditions are now normal, therefore, be it

Resolved, That while the net earnings of the company have been more than sufficient to cover all fixed charges and these losses, as stated, but do not warrant the declaration of a dividend at this time; therefore, be it resolved. That it is the sense of this board, that the question of dividing the net earnings of the company to the preferred shareholders be deferred until they be accurately ascertained, at the close of the fiscal year, viz. October 31, 1904.

Regular Dividend Pittsburgh Coal Pfd.

The board of directors of the Pittsburgh Coal Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, payable July 25 to stock of record July 15.

No financial statement covering the business of the quarter was issued to stockholders, but it was stated by an official of the company that its business was steadily improving and that the total earnings for the last six months of 1904 would exceed the first half year. The shipments last week were equal to the largest for any week in the history of the company, the bulk of the coal going to the lakes. The opening of the Lake Superior Canal, June 20, and the shipments were further delayed by the strike of the lake captains and pilots, so that the season will be unusually short, but from present indications much of the loss will be made good by crowding the facilities of the company to their maximum.

FEATURES OF THE DAY.

IN PITTSBURGH.

Bank exchanges were $6,630,573, a decrease of $1,237,000.

Pittsburgh Coal directors declare the regular quarterly dividend, payable in cash.

River Coal directors defer dividend action until the close of the year.

Crucible Steel common the feature of the market, advancing to 5⅛.

United States Steel preferred was strong and a dollar higher, closing at the top.

Airbrake declined to 127¼, while Electric held steady at 78⅞.

IN WALL STREET.

Stock market active, firm and higher, closing at the top.

Sales included 515,900 shares stock and $3,240,000 bonds.

Steel preferred a strong leader, advancing to and closing at 90.

Pennsylvania made a strong rally and reached 119 just at the close.

Reading advanced to 52½, the highest price of the year.

Pacific stocks and the grangers participated in the rise and closed firm.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The formal announcement that action on the River Coal preferred dividend would be deferred until October 31 next can be ascertained had no effect upon the market for the stock. The common was quoted at 8 bid, 8½ asked, and the preferred at 20 bid, 21 asked. The issues in the position passed by the board of directors, stating that conditions which had rendered it necessary to defer the dividend are now reversed, left grounds for the hope that business for the current six months ending October 31 would result in some earnings applicable to dividends, and the inference was that the full amount up to the limit of 7 per cent, if earned, would be declared in a lump.

The action of the Pittsburgh Coal directors in declaring the regular quarterly dividend did not reach the exchange during market hours, and the stock was inclined to be heavy, closing at a fractional decline.

There was no news to account for the activity and strength in Crucible Steel common, which was relatively greater than that in the preferred. It was stated that in view of the mutterings of stockholders, and the fact that insiders are said to be already soliciting proxies for use at the annual meeting to be held three months hence, the buying of the common stock was for the purpose of retaining control. There is probably no corporation of equal earning power under normal conditions the control of which would cost so little at the current market price of the common stock.

National Fire Proofing common advanced a half point to 8 and closed at 7⅞ bid.

Ohio Fuel Supply sold at 30¾ bid, a decline of ½ point. There were no sales of Manufacturers Light and Heat, which closed at 30 bid. Philadelphia Company was quoted at 58⅜ bid for the common and at 44½ bid for the preferred.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass advanced 3 per cent to 118 on the purchase of 30 shares, and closed at 116¾ bid for 50 shares. There were no offerings under 120.

Westinghouse Airbrake declined 1¾, selling at 127¼, and closed at 126 bid. Electric was dull and unchanged, but closed firm.

The Wall Street Journal yesterday stated that earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the second quarter were $19,250,000. This is compared with $18,208,900 for the first quarter, and $36,642,000 for the same quarter last year. Earnings for the first half of the year were thus $72,458,900, against $61,711,000 for the same period last year. Earnings for the second quarter for the past four years were as follows:

1904	$19,250,000
1903	36,642,000
1902	37,662,000
1901	26,363,000

The Rand Manufacturing Company has declared the usual 4 per cent semi-annual dividend.

The Federal Street & Pleasant Valley Passenger Railway Company has declared a dividend of 2½ per cent, payable July 20.

The Consolidated Gas Company has declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent on the preferred stock, payable August 1.

The German American Insurance Company has declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent, payable on demand.

The Ben Franklin Insurance Company declared a semi-annual dividend of 4½ per cent, the Lion Insurance Company 3 per cent, and the City Insurance Company 3 per cent, and the Western Insurance Company 3 per cent.

Chicago & Northwestern, which has been neglected for some time, joined the upward movement yesterday, advancing 2¾ per cent to 174¾.

A Wall street commission house wired as follows after the close of the market: "We have been patiently waiting for a quick rise in Pennsylvania if on nothing else on the largest outstanding short interest in it. It looks as if it might be coming at the close tonight. We have been pretty strong in our predictions on Reading and they seem to be coming true. We are fully on the upward way from the late depression."

Gross earnings reported for the first week in July: Wabash, increased $42,000; Louisville & Nashville decreased $60,000; Missouri Pacific, decreased $31,000, and Texas Pacific, decreased $202.

The conclusion drawn from the resumption of the rise in Wall street is that the testing of the stock at the close of the week's operations proves its absorptive power and encouraged new commitments for a further rise. Confidence in the success of the country's harvests was probably an important influence in the deeper tone of speculative sentiment, although it was not immediately manifest. It was feared that the good condition of the monthly report might have deteriorated since the date of the conditions therein indicated, and the weekly bulletin of the weather bureau awaited. Its publication at noon aroused some apprehension in the grain markets, owing to the damage to winter wheat reported. Some rather alarming private advices regarding crop damage also had an effect in the wheat market, but were ignored in the stock market. The strike of meat workers strengthened the provision market and cannot be said to have aided the rise in stocks.

The special strength of Reading was accompanied by rumors of an early exchange of second preferred stock into half of the first preferred and half common stocks, according to the privilege provided.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

A strike was made recently on the Lonsconing claim, Cripple Creek, belonging to the El Paso Consolidated Company. The vein now measures between 25 and 35 feet in width and gives returns of the entire amount of from $30 to $40 to the ton. The lessees opened up this big body of ore while in the course of sinking the shaft, at the time some 300 feet from the ore, and they are now drifting on the vein which is an enormous proposition; in fact, it is one of the phenomenal strikes of the year. While the operators have but 11 months to run on their lease, they are erecting an immense two-story ore house besides installing a large compressor and new plant of machinery capable of handling a large output which they will use in the future instead of a bucket as heretofore.

The newly-elected directors of the Black Diamond have organized with Daniel Storms of Indiana as president, Joseph Dederichs vice president and William C. Alexander, secretary and treasurer.

A Denver dispatch says the stock of the Gold King mines of Silverton, Col., has been acquired by the Ventone Mining Company.

The report of B. H. Tatem, in charge of the United States assay office in Helena for June shows that the amount of gold received exceeded the receipts for June, 1903, by more than $31,000. The respective amounts being $292,155 and $171,050. Of the receipts for June Montana contributed $177,026, a gain of $52,457 over the same month last year.

A dispatch to the Herald Tribune from the Colorado Springs Gazette says: "The news of another rich strike has been made public. The property, now coming forward with two of the richest ore bodies yet found, is known as the Bull hill. It was recently purchased by A. E. Carlton, who paid the sum of $250,000 for two and one-half acres. The new ore bodies are both large, the extent and above the average grade of shipping ore that has been this district. Assays give returns for any figures, as rich are some of the seams running through the veins, and it is believed that the two shoots will run between them for some depth, on an average, for their entire width. The new veins were encountered at a depth of 800 feet from surface and are entirely new veins, and up to the present time the shoots have been proved up for a distance of 125 feet, while the average width of the vein is 30 feet, while in places it will extend between 40 and 50 feet. Sloping on the new ore shoots has not started, and should it be possible that they extend to the surface there will be 800 feet of ground to break, which will be the largest ore shoot ever opened in the district."

The Tyson Mining and Milling Company, composed of Toledo, O., men, has instructed F. W. Haverland, manager of the mines near Saint Maries, Idaho, to proceed at once with the construction of the 18-mile ditch. It is estimated that the ditch will cost $30,000. It will run from Gold Center and through Rowan's Gulch to the Big Injun. Mr. Haverland is now engaged in making the survey. With the completion of the ditch, which is to take water from the Saint Maries river, the company will have an excellent water power, sufficient to operate 100 stamp mills for the quartz property, as well as furnishing water for hydraulic work on the placer ground.

Congressman C. D. Van Duzer of Tonopah, Nev., was in Pittsburgh yesterday, and was the guest of Morris, Brown & Co. Mr. Van Duzen is naturally very much interested in the Tonopah mining camp and his statements regarding the same bear confirmatory of previous statements made by people visiting Nevada. He believes that in a comparatively short space of years the Tonopah and Goldfield camps will turn out $250,000,000, as much as any science, machinery and hard work can get it out of the mines. He believes that these camps will contribute from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 yearly to the mineral wealth of the country and relieve the fear of the freedom from fake mining companies operating in both camps.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The London tin market reported further firmness, with spot closing there at £118 10s and futures at £118 15s, the local market, responding to the advances abroad, was quiet but steady, with spot quoted at $25 30@26 20. Copper remained firm in the local market, with lake at $13 62½@13 87½; electrolytic at $12 50@12 75 and casting at $12 25@12 50. In London copper was a shade easier, closing at £57 1s 3d for futures. Lead was also unchanged here, closing at $4 25@4 35, but was a little lower abroad, London cabling spot at £11 12s 6d. Spelter was unchanged in New York at $5 80@4 95, and at £22 in London. Iron closed at 51s 9d in Glasgow and at 43s in Middlesbro. Locally iron was unchanged. Northern is quoted at $14 50@15 00; No. 2 foundry northern at $13 75@14 25; No. 1 foundry southern and No. 1 foundry southern, soft, at $13 25@13 75, pig iron warrants are nominally unchanged at 49 90.

BIG BUILDING PROJECT FIXED

Local Capitalist Will Build 100 Houses in Greenfield to Cost $175,000.

COUNTRY DEAL OF $20,000

A prominent local capitalist, who has already built over 200 houses in Oakland and other parts of the city, has arranged to build 100 houses in the Greenfield district, in the Twenty-third ward. W. S. Haynes was yesterday appointed to superintend the building and the firm of Samuel W. Black & Co., with which he is connected as manager of its Greenfield office, will have charge of the properties. Bids on the work will be started tomorrow. The first of the dwellings will be erected in Lydia street and Greenfield avenue. Later on frontage in Winebiddle and Gerade streets will be utilized to build the remainder of the houses. The dwellings will be built in rows, each house having a frontage of from 16 to 20 feet and standing on a lot 120 feet deep. The houses will be brick veneered dwellings of four and five rooms each and will contain one bath room, grates and mantels. The estimated cost of the whole bunch is put at $175,000 or from $1,000 to $2,000 each. The houses will be built as rapidly as possible and it is expected that a number will be ready for occupancy by October 1. The remainder are to be finished by January 1. Their location is within a few rods of the Greenfield avenue carline and the Monongahela "yellow" line which offer easy access to any part of the city or the Monongahela valley. The property is near the immense works of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company and adjoins the 120-acre tract in Greenfield avenue which that company bought last year. It presents an ideal site for the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western railroad. The fact that the houses will be adjacent to the entire Second avenue manufacturing district and within easy walking distance of the big Baltimore & Ohio shops at Glenwood, assures easy renting at prices ranging from $15 to $20 a month. This project, which is undertaken for renting purposes only, is the only large house building undertaking in the city this summer, excepting the project of J. P. Schaffer and B. H. Rothgerber, to build 134 houses in Hamilton avenue and adjacent streets in the East End.

New Castle Lots to Be Improved.

Negotiations under way in the office of Ira C. Ewing & Company are likely to lead to the purchase by a prominent Pittsburgh business man of lots at New Castle Junction for building sites. The property is part of the holdings of the Belmont Land Company which has operated extensively in that section. The lots are 30x153 feet each and face on Brady's Run road. Only a short distance from the big plant of the Garland Chain Company and other West Pittsburgh works and within easy access of the New Castle planing mills. Plans are being made and if the deal goes through at least one-half of them will be improved at once with houses costing $2,000 to $2,500 each.

The story of the sale of the old De Haven plant of the Pittsburgh Stove and Range Company which was exploited in an afternoon paper yesterday as a new deal, was only the confirmation of the sale made by Charles Crosby several weeks ago and which was published at that time. The property, which is in Preble avenue, Allegheny, goes to P. Duff & Sons for a consideration of $60,000. It was purchased for a site for a new business refinery to cost $100,000, but an official of the Duff company said yesterday that no definite plans for this structure would be adopted until September.

The survey has been completed for the grading of Blackadore avenue from Frankstown avenue to the city line, a distance of about 2,000 feet. Work will at once be started on the grading, curbing and paving. Last year Frankstown avenue was paved from Wood street through Sterrett township to the Penn township line. The effect of this latter improvement and the one now in progress has been nearly double the price of property along the line of the new streets in Sterrett township. Lots in Frankstown avenue that sold 18 months ago for $20 a foot, are now held at about $40 a foot. Seven new dwellings were built in Sterrett township last fall after the improvements were made, and judging by the amount of frontage that is going into the hands of individual lot owners at least as many will be erected this summer.

Two more new buildings are planned for Wilkinsburg. One will be a three-story apartment building containing six flats. It will be erected by Thomas A. Coleman on 40x122 feet at the southeast corner of Elliott and Pitt streets which he recently bought from A. Fred Stoner for $8,000. The other building, for which foundations are now being excavated, is a one-story brick structure on 75x100 feet on the east side of Wood street adjoining the Milligan & Miller block. It will belong to D. H. Wallace and will contain three store rooms. These will have fronts of enameled white terra cotta adding greatly to the appearance of the street at this point.

Holiday in Real Estate.

Owing to the fact that the city hall was closed yesterday because of the heat, there were no transfers were registered. Brokers generally were too much interested in the fate of the hump ordinance to show any great activity in making sales and the business of the day was decidedly slack. The following sales were reported by local brokers:

East End. The Liberty Real Estate Trust Company sold for Thomas P. Bingham, Esq., of Beverly, 812 Mifflin street, Wilkinsburg, a frame house on lot 37.5x100 feet, for $4,500; for the Margaret Lang estate to James M. Rodgers, 6004 Rowan avenue, Twenty-first ward, a frame house on lot 24x100 feet, for $2,900; for the Elizabeth Conrad estate to Mrs. Carrie L. Kleinfelter, 119 Continental street, Twenty-first ward, a frame house on lot 60x108 feet, for $1,600; for Mrs. Jean Donaldson to Isaac Frankel, 20x100 feet on the east side of Frankstown avenue near Wood street, Thirty-seventh ward, for $3,000; for the John L. Rhoden estate to Mrs. Elizabeth M. Morgan, 5347 Kincaid street, Twenty-first ward, a frame house on lot 21.8x119 feet, for $2,100; for the Chadwick Land Improvement Company to John R. Parker, a brick house on lot 20x100 feet in Sterrett township, Twenty-second ward, for $4,250; to Miss E. C. Lies Elysian avenue, Twenty-second ward, a frame house on lot 37.6x100 feet, for $4,800.

Homewood. The Homewood-Sterrett Realty Company sold for Thomas McDowell to James F. Craven, 50x135 feet on the north side of Bennett street near Homewood avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $3,800. The buyer will build a $10,000 house. The same company sold for Hall & Wolf to Harry C. Peoples a seven-room brick house on lot 30x115 feet, in Blackadore avenue, Sterrett township, for $3,600; for Thomas Sloan to Mrs. Mary Hall, a brick house on lot 25x95 feet on the north side of Frankstown avenue, near Blackadore avenue, Thirty-seventh ward, for $2,850.

Wilkinsburg. A. H. Harrison of the Wilkinsburg Real Estate and Trust Company, sold for Denver G. Humes of Export, Pa., to Thomas F. Roberts, 712 East End avenue, an eight-room brick house on lot 60x120 feet, for $5,800; for Alexander Speer to Cyrus Brushton, No. 524 Coral street, Brushton a six-room brick house on lot 22.5x110 feet, for $3,500; for J. H. Trimble to a local investor, 25x132 feet in Penn avenue, Brushton avenue, Thirty-seventh ward, for $1,500.

Clay street: Samuel W. Black & Company sold for Mrs. Mary Cavanaugh, three frame houses on lot 75x100 feet in Clay street, between Washington and Chatham street, Fifth ward, for $7,000. The buyer will improve the property.

Wilkerding: Ira C. Ewing & Company sold for the heirs of Daniel Rhea to Adam Hinkle, a 10-room frame house on 1x 25x112 feet in Caldwell street, Wilmerding, for $4,400.

Beginning Point Improvements.

The preparatory steps for erecting the new freight station and warehouses at the Point were taken yesterday, when the Pennsylvania railroad took out a building permit to remove the present buildings at Third street and Duquesne way. The cost is estimated at $40,000. Other permits were issued to Mrs. Sarah Hamilton for a two-story brick veneer dwelling on Mellon street, Nineteenth ward to cost $3,200; Peter Kortz, two-story brick veneer dwelling on Ivy street, Twentieth ward, to cost $3,200, and also 14 other permits for alterations and additions to cost $10,810.

Deeds were recorded yesterday as delivered the deed in the sale of the home of the late Capt. Wm. P. Herbert to Edward Snodgrass. The lot has a frontage of 124 feet on Home avenue, Avalon by an average depth of 203 feet and is improved with a fine frame dwelling. Price paid was $15,000. The purchaser will make some extensive improvements in the house which he will occupy as a home.

GROCERIES ARE BRISK; STRAWBERRIES DONE

Potatoes Are Easier—Elbertas Here—Hay and Corn Are Higher.

Trading was somewhat brisk all around yesterday but particularly in the grocery line. Flour, coffee and sugar continue very firm but without further changes. Cheese is holding steady; butter is in good demand at the reductions of Monday; eggs are still scarce and stock sold off well yesterday at the advanced quotations. New mackerel is wanted and sales of New York salmon were equally flattering. Fruit butters are moving out freely and so are canned goods.

The local potato market has eased up considerably; arrivals in this line were 22 cars at 10 o'clock yesterday. Oranges are moving in limited supply and the market is firm. Jumbo watermelons are wanted; cantaloupes are commanding full prices and demand is ample to supply. Some of the Georgia Elberta peaches are on the market; they arrived yesterday for the first time. Strawberries are out of the market, this year's stock being practically exhausted. Pennsylvania mountain huckleberries came in yesterday and are quoted below in pails. Tomatoes that are coming in now are in good quality and are hard to dispose of. Cabbage arrivals are light but the market is slow.

Hay is quoted higher owing to continued scarcity but other grades are in very limited supply; oats are selling better than any other article in this line, No. 2 offering at 46 and selling close to that figure; the supply is short of requirements. There is a better feeling on corn and prices have been changed accordingly.

The horse market was steady yesterday; about 200 sales were made at the Pittsburgh exchange. The stock was mostly drivers and prices ranged from $25 to $250. Buyers were more plentiful than last week but there is still good chance for improvement.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at a decline of 5@10 points in sympathy with cables and influenced Brazilian receipts. The declines attracted a fair demand, however, and the market at the opening was unusually active, showing a very steady undertone at the decline. Later business was rather less active but the market continued steady, recovering in some instances part of the initial loss. Toward the close it was rather easier, however, as the result of the large estimates for tomorrow's receipts at Rio. Before the close, closing steady at a net decline of 5@10 points. Sales were reported of 57,250 bags, including July at 5.85c; September, at 6@6.10c; December at 6.30c; March at 6.35@6.65c; May at 6.60c and July, at 6.95c. Coffee—Spot Rio steady; No. 7 invoice, 7¼c; mild firm; Cordova, 9½@12c.

Sugar—Raw firm; refined steady.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, July 12.—The Boston wool market is strong and active with the volume of sales remarkably heavy. Unexpected activity appeared everywhere, buyers showing a desire to take in goods at whatever value might obtain. The smaller buyers are very much in evidence. Territory wools are firm with a good demand in progress. The market for pulled wool is quiet. Foreign wools are firm, but the market is quiet here. The leading quotations are: Ohio and Pennsylvania XX and above, 24@24½c; X, 30@31c; No. 1, 32@33c; No. 2, 34@35c; fine unwashed, 22@24c; quarter, three-eighths and half-blood, unwashed, 27@28c; fine washed Delaine, 36@37c.

The Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The drygoods market shows a steady improvement, although no large transactions are reported. More firmness on the part of sellers is noted and in certain instances lines are withdrawn. A conference of southern manufacturers on the price situation is being held today. The outcome is being awaited with considerable interest.

BEAR CONTROL OF WHEAT PROVES SHORT LIVED

Reports of Weather Conditions in Northwest and Southwest Are Bull Cards.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, July 12.—Hopeful speculators were misled at the outset by a more promising outlook in weather conditions in the Missouri valley and offered wheat for sale as though they believed the worst was over. The government crop report, estimated to show a liberal increase in production, helped to produce the short-lived bearish tone. Before that report was fairly digested, however, other crop reports from the northwest, together with predictions of rain in the southwest, created a desire to buy, which became contagious. September sold up to 86¾c, and efforts of earlier sellers to regain the lines disposed of on the decline, together with the scurry to cover by shorts, held the price firm; the close was a shade lower under the top. Higher outside markets also influenced the late tone. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 1,000 cars, which, with local receipts of 12 216 cars, which, was the total for the three points of 230 cars, against 202 cars a year ago.

Corn was influenced by the early decline in wheat prices. There was little in the weather conditions to make purchases desirable, in the estimation of traders, and the only support the market received was that induced by the upturn in wheat. Under that influence the price rallied, but, not being steady. Receipts at Chicago were 237 cars.

Trade in oats was dull and fluctuations being within a narrow range. The government report indicated a crop largely in excess of last year. Influencing early prices was the start with September a shade lower. Values eased off a fraction and steadied again, final trades being at the opening figure. Local receipts were 154 cars.

The strike at the stock yards created an uncertain feeling among provision operators, but there was a fair demand, chiefly among packers. Prices held throughout the list.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 4 cars; corn, 120 cars; oats, 56 cars; hogs, 20,000 head.

The leading futures, reported by John D. Armstrong & Co., members of the Chicago board of trade, Farmers Bank building, are as follows:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Yesterday's Close.

SENATOR TELLS STORY OF LOVE

Career of Young Woman Who Is Now Wife of Montana Copper King.

SHE IS STUDYING IN ITALY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
ST. LOUIS, July 12.—Senator Clark has this to say relative to his bride of three years:

"Anne, La Chapelle early displayed unusual musical talent. She was bright and studious. I encouraged her inclination for study by placing her in the young ladies' seminary at Deer Lodge, Montana, of which institution I was a member of the executive board.

"After spending two years in the seminary she came to Salt Lake City. Anna had shown such disposition for the study of music and languages that I sent her abroad with my sister, Mrs. Abascal, who was going to Paris to educate her daughters. The young lady was accepted as a student of Prof. Hasselmans, the most eminent harpist in Europe. At that time she was placed under the care of Mme. De Cervellon, a woman of education and means, the widow of an officer of the French army.

"I traveled extensively with her sister, Amelia, now Mrs. E. B. Hoyt of Minneapolis, and her chaperon through Europe. Miss Clark developed wonderful talent as a linguist, quickly mastering German, French and Spanish. By the Italian lakes today Mrs. Clark is continuing her study of the Italian language.

"Yes, indeed, I am happy. This baby girl of mine born in August, 1902, is the brightest, sweetest little girl in the world."

During Senator Clark's visits to Europe he watched with interest the development of his protegee. His solicitude and devotion to her were shown in many ways. Four years ago she made a visit to her brother in Montana, and there the senator declared his love. He found this love reciprocated. A few weeks later she visited New York and Washington and then returned to Paris. Upon Senator Clark's arrival the following spring the marriage was solemnized during a visit of themselves and Mme. De Cervellon at Marseilles.

Mrs. Clark's disposition is modest and her manner retiring. She will fill Senator Clark's ambitions as a hostess when she turns to take up her home in the United States.

NEW PARTY WANTS BETTER LIQUOR LAWS

ALTOONA, Pa., July 12.—(Special.)—The first effort at organizing a third political party for the coming county campaign was made here today. Nearly 100 delegates representing every section of the county were present. Rev. R. C. Hutchinson, president of the Blair county antisaloon league, and a prominent Altoona minister, was unanimously chosen for a county candidate. The advisory committee headed by H. G. Davis of this city was authorized to select a running mate for Hutchison and to place candidates for other county officers in the field. The main purpose of the party is to undermine the election of legislative candidates favorable to better state temperance legislation.

MEDICINE MAN'S STOCK DESTROYED BY CROWD

Thomas Mission, a patent medicine vender, was holding forth before a crowd in McClure's grand hall. He felt insulted by the remark of a drunken man and asked the crowd to "throw the fellow out." The crowd seized the opportunity to grab bottles of Mission's elixir and his advertising literature and threw them about and broke down the platform on which he was standing. When the police had dispersed the crowd Mission was left gazing sadly at the ruins.

PERSONALS

A. Stern of New York passed through the city last evening on his way home from a tour of several states in the interest of his firm, which manufactures farm implements. He was in New Orleans last week, and he claims it is the most thriving city in the United States. He was much interested in the grain elevators in that city. The New Orleans has the greatest grain elevator in the world. It is one mile in length. It is owned by the Illinois Central Railroad Company and has a capacity for loading and unloading 1,000,000 bushels of grain daily. The elevator will accommodate 10 of the largest steamships or other vessels that frequent the gulf waters, and it is claimed that more than New Orleans the greatest grain shipping port in America. Whatever the effect of the giant elevator has been, the record of New Orleans is to the greatest of any American port on shipments. The Texas & Pacific is building up new elevators and the Rock Island will spend $5,000,000 on its terminal facilities. New Orleans has to fight its way to the front as a grain shipping point against much prejudice which was exercised against the fallacy that grain shipped in the gulf steamers would become heated and ruined while on the voyage has been disproved. Grain shipped at New Orleans will not heat any more than if shipped in sailers and the truth about it is that New Orleans has not had less trouble this year than any port in America."

Andrew Murray, representing the Bookwalter Wheel Company of Miamisburg, O., spent yesterday in the city, leaving last evening for Cumberland, Md. Speaking of his business, he said: "Our line and the carriage trade in general has been off for two years, but it is better this season than last, especially in exports. Our best export market is Australia and South Africa since the war stopped. The Australian people are known as 'knockers down' products, and then finish them to suit themselves. Canada purchases great quantities of our raw material and completes the wheels. While we want to sell them with our finished product we are confronted with a 45 per cent tariff, which is practically prohibitive. That tariff is retaliatory."

"Women will wear nun's veiling and flannels during the fall," said John Mansell of New York, who passed through the city last night on his way to St. Louis. "Dressy cotton will be little worn, and many firms which invested in expecting a run on the market, will lose a large amount of money before they are out of it."

E. P. Newhall, manager of the Pacific Express, and B. C. Criswell, rate agent, of Cincinnati, are domiciled at the Duquesne. Their fighting headquarters in Pittsburgh in connection with the Wabash railroad. At the Seventh Avenue hotel last evening Mr. Newhall said: "We expect a large patronage from Pittsburghers. I have appointed J. S. Hitchcock, agent, C. J. McCann cashier and P. F. Speedy solicitor. We will have quarters in the Wabash ticket office at 526 Fifth avenue and also one in the passenger station in Liberty avenue. We have arranged for 25 horses and 15 wagons, and to start with will employ 25 men. We intend covering Allegheny City as well as Pittsburgh."

William Scott, purchasing agent of the Canadian Pacific, with headquarters in Montreal, Can., is at the Seventh avenue. Mr. Scott was formerly an organizer for the United Mine Workers and is well known in labor circles. He began his career as a coal miner.

Joseph Jones, general organizer of the International Association of Machinists, left last night for Cincinnati. He had been in Pittsburgh several days acquainting himself with the conditions of the local machinists. He advised the men not to make any demands, but to accept the reduction made by the Manufacturers' association, which went into effect July 1, and averages 10 per cent.

A. M. Schoyer, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania lines, left last night in his private car on a business trip to Detroit.

The St. Paul's cathedral choir, which is to compete in the choral contests at the world's fair, left yesterday afternoon for St. Louis. There were 47 in the party, occupying a private car on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie.

Capt. S. S. Brown left last night for Chicago, leaving a broad smile over the fact that Broomstick, one of his race horses, had been victorious in Monday's races.

Neighbors Visiting Pittsburgh.

Residents of nearby towns at the local hotels last night were:

Seventh Avenue—Sidney Krumrine, Bellefonte; M. C. Watson, Indiana; John D. Messenger, Reading; W. G. Curray, Brockwayville; S. S. Mowther, Riversburg; T. H. Carson, Johnstown.

PASTOR CORDOVA TELLS HIS STORY

Was Carried Away With Julia Bowne by an Uncontrollable Force.

GO FURTHER THAN INTENDED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, July 12.

With the threat of an angry populace at South River, N. J., to tar and feather him for eloping with pretty Julia Bowne, the Rev. J. F. Cordova today gave his version of the desertion of his wife and family. He has returned from the south to this city, but is afraid to go to the little New Jersey town. He said:

"Neither of us planned to leave South River as we did, but were impelled by the terrific force of uncontrollable circumstances. Everything would have been all right had it not been for the jealousy of the people. I am informed of this by George Farr. I pressed him to tell me if there was any serious accusation and he assured me there was none.

"It happened on May 17, after the evening service. I wishing to talk some thing to Miss Bowne, walked with her around the block directly back of her house. Someone told Farr, and he went for Bowne and told him all the talk of the people, and both came up and stopped us. Miss Bowne left us at once. I told Bowne I was beginning to think that perhaps the best thing might be for me to inform him myself of the current talk.

"I left him, but I was dazed, and by the time I reached the trolley track my only thought was that none would believe any explanation I might give, that all was necessarily lost, even to my children, that all the world was against me, that I must leave at once. I reached Turner's corner in a semi-conscious condition, when the thought of my children came to me. In an agony of grief I threw myself upon my face in the dust and cried that if there was any way of escape it might be shown to me, and if not, to let the circumstances indicate my course.

"Just then I discovered on the opposite of the road the form of a lady. I went to her and discovered it was Miss Bowne, who had come to the same place, laboring under the same thoughts as I, and thinking that none would believe her explanations, she thought she could not return home, and was going away, not knowing where. Just then the car arrived, we took it and once aboard we were carried on irresistibly and hardly realizing that we were being carried away. The next day came the papers with a story of anger, chasing and warrants for arrest. We felt persecuted, and so went further than we had intended.

"The other day we received two letters, one begging her to return, and one for me, asking me the same.

"I want to correct another great falsehood—that I abandoned her. God forbid. Miss Bowne herself declared to me her desire to return, and, let me say it in gratitude to her, she thought only of her parents, but she plainly told me she did not want them to arrest, and before they did she wanted to return.

"Another false statement that must be corrected is that I brought Miss Bowne back because we had spent all the money we had and I was destitute.

BATTLE OF THE BOYNE.

Thousands of Orangemen Celebrate Historic Event at New Castle.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—More than 4,000 Orangemen of Pittsburgh, the Beaver valley and Eastern Ohio assembled here yesterday to celebrate the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne.

In spite of a heavy rainfall, hundreds of the members of the order, most of whom were in regalia, joined in a monster parade that marched through the principal streets of the town. Following the parade, all went to Cascade park, where a program of athletic sports and addresses was carried out. The feature of the afternoon was a mass meeting held in the big pavilion in the park. Addresses were delivered by Jury Commissioner John Harvey, John Brown, W. J. Buchanan, Thomas Paisley, W. J. Glover, W. J. McCracken. Jury Commissioner Harvey of Pittsburgh to past supreme grand master of the order and to also grand treasurer in every mention of the battle of the Boyne evoked a storm of applause. Many bands furnished music throughout the day and tonight there was dancing at the park.

PHILADELPHIAN IN JAIL.

R. Park Love Arrested on Information of a Cousin in Allegheny.

R. Park Love of Philadelphia was committed to jail last night by Alderman McMasters on a charge of libel made by J. W. Robinson, a cousin, of the Fourth ward, Allegheny. Love formerly lived in Allegheny with his mother. Recently they moved to Philadelphia.

It is alleged Love wrote letters from Philadelphia to friends here which reflected on the character of his relative in Allegheny. Constable W. J. Morris went to Philadelphia about 10 days ago and placed Love under arrest. He gave bail for a hearing, and when the case was called he did not appear. Constable Morris again arrested him Monday at the Union Service club in Walnut street, Philadelphia, and brought him here last night.

THOUSANDS DISAPPOINTED.

Wanted to Hear Public Concert, But Director McIlvain Foiled Them.

Four thousand persons, men, women and children, gathered last night in the west park, Allegheny, to hear the free concert ordered by the city councils, which appropriated $1,500 to pay for band music. Unfortunately for the people Director E. J. McIlvain was not yet ready to have the concert, and after waiting an hour the crowd slowly departed.

It is not known when the director will conclude it is time for the concerts to begin. He estimated that he could give 16 performances for the money, two a week, one in Riverview park, the other in the West park, but it is pointed out that unless he begins soon, frost will fall before the last concert can be given.

Bullets Flew at Christening.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., July 12.—(Special.)—Mike Colmin was brought to the hospital today with a bullet in his arm an danother in his leg received at a christening during a drunken quarrel. The person who did the shooting could not be found.

Throat Rest

Tickling in the throat. Constant desire to cough. You know about it. Feels uncomfortable through the day. Keeps you awake at night. Doctors prescribe Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for this tickling. A dose at bedtime puts the throat at rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for 40 years. It is a splendid family medicine to keep on hand for all throat and lung troubles."—Mrs. J. K. Norcross, Waltham, Mass.

SILENCE REIGNS AT OYSTER BAY

Fairbanks and Cortelyou Refuse to Make Statement After Conference With President.

UNION MEN DENIED AUDIENCE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 12.—Without revealing one syllable of what took place at the conference at Sagamore Hill last night and this morning, Senator Fairbanks and George B. Cortelyou returned to New York at noon.

Persistent inquiry of all those who were present at the conference failed to bring out the slightest hint of what campaign plans have been formed or considered and information about the most trivial details of the campaign work was resolutely withheld. It is so unlike President Roosevelt and so different from the outspoken policy of Republican leaders in former national campaigns, that it has started much guessing among the president's outside friends.

Everyone is wonde ing who is the real sphinx. Some say it is the president himself, and that others are simply obeying his wishes for absolute silence. Others believe that the "bottled up" policy is one of the experiments which Mr. Cortelyou, as the head of the national committee, has determined to try.

WEDDINGS CAME CLOSE.

Brothers Were Nearly Married on Same Night Unintentionally.

David Wilkison, an employe of the American Bridge Company at Ambridge, and his brother, C. F. Wilkison, a pattern-maker, came near to being married on the same night, though they did not intend that the ceremonies should be at all close together. David was married to Miss Helen M. Baker, 7736 Bennett street, Homewood, last night, and C. F. Wilkison was married to Miss Nancy Marshall, 523 Wiseibiddle avenue, Monday night.

The latter wedding was to have taken place later in the summer, but the minister they wanted on the occasion was called from the city unexpectedly, and that is how the ceremony happened to be performed sooner than planned. Had the minister's call come a day later, the weddings would have fallen on the same night without any pre-arrangement.

The wedding last night was attended by about 30 guests. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. John F. Heckert of Wilkinsburg. The only attendant was Miss Gladys Baker, a niece of the bride, who served as flower girl. A ring ceremony was observed and the house decorations were in pink. Both couples postponed their wedding trips and will take them together.

DOWNED MAYOR'S MEASURE.

Allegheny Committee on Public Works Has Confidence in Employes.

A resolution, favored by the mayor of Allegheny, was temporarily defeated in the committee of public works last night. The resolution empowered the mayor and the director of the department of public works to employ an architect to prepare plans and specifications for repairs to the electric light plant recently damaged by fire. There was a long debate over the resolution and it was laid over for a month, those opposed to it arguing that the employes of the bureau of engineering and surveys should be able to prepare the necessary plans. Later a motion was made to reconsider the vote but the opponents of the measure left the room and broke up the quorum.

An ordinance authorizing advertising for proposals for making the repairs was ordered printed.

A resolution to advertise for bids for lowering houses in McClure avenue was returned to councils negatively, after a debate between John R. Hendricks and C. L. Mohney.

CHAUTAUQUA

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 12.—(Special.)—The annual supper to the faculty of the summer schools was given at the Hotel Athenaeum last evening. Principal George E. Vincent was toastmaster, and in his usual pleasing manner announced that prizes would be offered to the speaker who would give the shortest toast and to the one who would tell the oldest after-dinner story. The dinner is a comparatively new feature of the summer school and has been not only very enjoyable, but has also been a means of bringing the faculty together socially and enabling them to co-operate more successfully in the complex administration of the summer teaching.

President Faunce spoke at the women's club this morning to a large number of interested women. His subject was "Women as the Bearers of Culture," and he gave Mathew Arnold's definition of culture, "Acquaintance with the best that has been thought, said or done in the past." At the close of the address a few questions were asked President Faunce.

The devotional hour was conducted in the amphitheater by President Faunce in the course of his lecture he said:

"Hyperorthodoxy and agnosticism are usually the result of mental inertia. Many people are orthodox in their religious views simply because they are too lazy to think. I do not urge you to do hard things because they are hard. That is bravado. Not to do dangerous things because they are dangerous. That is braggadocio. The path of duty is difficult, but it is the happiest road to travel. The place of duty may be a place of danger, but it is the safest place to stand. Do not grow older without growing wiser."

Dr. Babbit of Haverford college, director of the boys' club of Chautauqua, lectured in the amphitheater this morning on fraternity, especially in connection with the boys' club. Dr. Babbit spoke of honor and truth which a fraternity teaches a boy, of the obligations to protect, help and stand by his brothers in times of sickness or trouble of any sort. That, in brief, is what the boys' club of Chautauqua aims to do.

CAPT. THORNTON CUT.

Wound in His Throat, but Thornton Says Friend Did It Unintentionally.

James Thornton the former Allegheny captain of police and now the proprietor of the Hotel Federal, at Federal and Erie streets, Allegheny, was cut in the throat early yesterday evening by a friend. The case is made mysterious by Capt. Thornton's refusal to give the name of the man who did the cutting, although other persons who were in the saloon at the time, say his name is Mulherron and he lives in Pittsburgh.

The cut is pretty deep and about three inches long, extending from close by the carotid artery to the edge of the larynx. The slash will have no dangerous effects, but it narrowly missed killing Thornton.

It is said that Mulherron used to "run on the river" with Thornton 27 years ago. He called on his old friend and they sat talking over old times for three hours in the saloon. The story goes that the man suddenly drew a knife and with the words: "That's the way we used to do it in the old time, Jim," made a pass with the knife.

Thornton, it appears, did not know that the man had a knife or that he was wounded, until his barkeeper called attention to the blood on his shirt. By that time the other man had walked out of the place.

Thornton said he would not prosecute, as he thught the man did not cut him intentionally.

Pittsburgh Woman Among Speakers.

SILVER BAY, N. Y., July 12.—At today's session of the conference of city members of the Young Women's Christian association addresses were made to show how educational social and religious opportunities are being carried to young women employed in mills, factories, laundries and other industrial centers. Elizabeth Sherwood of Pittsburgh, Emily Kingston of Passaic, N. J., and Mary Freman of Harrisburg, were among the speakers.

Swissvale Millage Fixed.

Swissvale borough council last night fixed the levy at 7½ mills for the current fiscal year. The school board millage of 6½ mills, levied last month, makes a total millage of 14. The borough valuation is $4,868,806.

Fall from Tree is Serious.

Margaret Hanley, aged 10, of Everett street, Wilkinsburg, who fell from a tree Monday, has been removed to the East End hospital. She operated upon for serious internal injuries.

Will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not for a long time bear any solid food in my stomach; felt melancholy and depressed. Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

A man can succeed and be strong if he heeds Nature's warnings. When there is indigestion, loss of appetite, ringing in the ears, dizziness, spots before the eyes or palpitation of the heart; any or all of these symptoms point to weakness and loss of nutrition. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the medicine to turn to.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

The "Common Sense Medical Adviser," 1008 pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
